Pulling Weeds.
Taking Radical Advice.
Many Troubles, One Big.
Spanish Confiscation.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

FOR A PICTURE of high-grade efficiency in our noble "unemployment relief" consider this:

On the highway near Hempstead, L. I., yesterday morning, a long line of automobiles stood on one side of the road, another line on the other side of the road. Forty to fifty men were scattered along the roadside, working, at the public expense. And what do you suppose they were doing?

Were they repairing the road, building a new road, a house in which someone might live, cultivating the soil? No, nothing like that.

THESE UNEMPLOYED were PULLING UP WEEDS. A man would bend over every little while, pull up one weed, look at it thoughtfully, walk a few yards, throw it on a pile, walk back and pull another weed.

The men laughed at themselves and at each other. They know that millions of weeds growing in the fields along the road will supply seed for a fresh crop next year. Their work and their time are wasted, they know it.

The whole thing is a mockery, telling them to go out, wasting oil and gasoline in their automobiles, and squander their time on wasted labor.

THESE MEN would like to work at something useful, and they are conscientious. When weeds are lacking along the highway, they wander into privately-owned fields and pull up weeds there. Many of the men wear new white cloth gloves to protect their hands. They are not used to pulling rough weeds.

And that is the best that American intelligence can find for idle men to do. That is how our competent welfare gentlemen waste the time of workers and spend money that might be used to produce something worth while.

If any intelligent European could see this United States "welfare work," he would think himself in an insane asylum, not among so-called intelligent people.

IN TROUBLED times like these, it is important to give radical advice carefully. A railroad president, with the best of intentions, emphasized the public's duty to the unemployed, adding casually:

"I'd steal before I'd starve."

When Wallace F. Mitchell was picked up dead with a bullet in him, a newspaper clipping of that statement was found in his pocket. He had some hungry children, took the suggestion literally, and was shot dead while trying to steal a bottle of milk from a grocery store in Philadelphia.

A thought, harmless in the mouth of a philosopher or a railroad president, may be dangerous when taken too literally by a little man.

TROTZKY, WHO once ruled Russia with Lenin and is now in exile, is told that he may go to Czechoslovakia to live, but he must not mix in politics. He is a muzzled eagle. Sad life.

Plenty of trouble in this troubled world.

AND THE interesting fact is that something is the matter with the inside of Babe Ruth, baseball player, is more important to millions of Americans than all the worries of Asia, Africa, Europe and South America combined.

It is feared that Ruth may have appendicitis, and that if he must be cut open, and sewed up, he won't be able to help win the world series for the Yankees.

IN SPAIN, where Ignatius Loyola, suddenly becoming religious, started the order of Jesuits long ago, the government has expelled the Jesuits, suppressed their order and confiscated their property. Most of the property being in securities, some seventy million dollars' worth is supposed to have escaped confiscation.

But all the Jesuit real estate, valued at some thirty millions, is taken by the Spanish government to be devoted to "public welfare." The confiscation of real property includes even Loyola's ancient castle, carefully preserved by the Jesuits.

AMBASSADOR MELLON says conditions are better, and recovery has begun, "slow, but sure." The recovery will show eventually in general business.

That is good news. Mr. Mellon knows something about business, enough to enable him to extract many hundred millions of dollars from his intelligence. Also, Mr. Mellon is not among those that, two or three years ago, said everything that was all wrong would be all right in a very little while.

CONSTABLES WARNED ON 'FAKING'

Patterson Threatens Indictments for Incorrect Reports

BULLETIN.

Judge F. P. Patterson, this afternoon, warned Constable John Ridge, of the Fourth Ward, that he would make a private investigation of a club across Forbes street from the Oakland Police Station and if the constable's report that he was unable to gain admission proved incorrect the constable would be indicted.

With renewed intensity, Judge Frank P. Patterson today carried on his crusade against the hypocrisy of constables who report their districts as models of law and order

In Common Pleas Court Judge Patterson warned all constables who make incorrect returns that they would be indicted and promised that independent investigations would be made to determine the accuracy of their reports.

CONSTABLE SCORED

To Constable Dan McGeary, in whose Twenty-second Ward on the North Side there have prospered resorts of doubtful reputation, Judge Patterson said in a sharp, decisive voice:

"The most flagrant instances of commercial immorality in the history of Allegheny County are in your bailwick. I will not accept your return. You make an amended return within one week. And I want all the facts. If you don't make a correct return I will see that you are indicted."

McGeary had just informed Judge Patterson that at the seven places which the court on Tuesday had instructed him to investigate he had been told the houses were just rooming houses.

Judge Patterson:

"What do you mean by rooming house?"

McGeary:

"I asked the people and they said rooming house."

Judge Patterson:

"That's like asking a man if he committed murder."

Judge Patterson then instructed McGeary to visit the places at

White House Orders Hunt for Missing Dry Leader

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—On direct orders from the White House, the vast inquisitory mechanism of the government was thrown in gear today for a fine tooth combing of the eastern seaboard for Col. Raymond Robins, nationally known dry leader, missing since last Saturday.

Following the regular Friday cabinet meeting with the President, Attorney General Mitchell stated special investigators from the Prohibition Bureau had been assigned to investigate the disappearance of Col. Robins on the theory there might be some truth in the report he had been kidnaped by agents of a Florida bootlegging ring, against whom the dry agitator had been particularly active.

Thus far not a trace of Robins, a warm friend of President Hoover, has been found. There appeared to be no valuable clues.

PRESIDENT AT DESK

President Hoover arrived at his desk at 9 o'clock this morning and immediately made inquiries about the progress of the investigation into Robins' disappearance. Secret Service headquarters and the Department of Justice advised him

RUTH TO PLAY IN SERIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Although no official bulletin came from the sick room, informal advices today indicated that Babe Ruth had fought off all danger of an appendicitis operation and will be his old slugging self within a few days.

Artie McGovern, Ruth's personal trainer, said:

"The Babe is much more cheerful, has no pain and no temperature, and there is no doubt that the threat of an operation has disappeared entirely."

McGovern visited the Yankee slugger shortly after Dr. Edward A. King made an examination this morning. Dr. King issued no bulletin.

Ruth slept well last night, McGovern said, and much of his improvement was attributed to relief at the knowledge that he would not be kept on the sidelines during the coming world series, which will be his tenth appearance in the annual post-season series.

Twin Descendants Of Dickens Born

LONDON, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Twin great-great-grandsons of Charles Dickens were born in London yesterday.

They are the children of Mrs. Cyril Dickens Bourcnier Hawksley and great grandsons of Sir Henry Dickens, the novelist's son, who is one of London's most revered personalities.

N. Y. Democrats Should Nominate Lehman to Beat Power Trust

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY all over the country has been and is the Wall Street party; but of course this is peculiarly so in New York, where Wall Street has a special sway.

Mr. Morgan, head of the power trust, head of the steel trust, and leader of the international bankers, has been and is the power behind the throne in the Hoover administration; but he is the absolute dictator in the Republican party in New York State.

The people have little or nothing to say about the nominee.

The Wall Street bosses will tell their political bosses whom they want for Governor, and the political bosses with their henchmen will meet in hide-bound convention and name a candidate who will be very pleasing and thoroughly useful to Wall Street and to its power trust, and to its steel trust, and to its international bankers, and to its stock manipulators.

THEN THE REPUBLICAN party of New York will go down to Wall Street and pass the hat and secure some part of the speculative profits which Wall Street has taken away from you, and will use those funds to elect candidates who will help Wall Street take more money away from you to give to politicians to elect more Wall Street public officials to help Wall Street rob you some more.

That is the real "vicious cycle" which we hear so much about.

And make no mistake, it is vicious enough to satisfy the most uncompromising reactionary, so destructive is it of all American ideals of popular government and public welfare.

A leading candidate for the nomination of the Republican party for Governor of New York is former Governor Nathan L. Miller.

He is a tried and true reactionary of proven Wall Street usefulness.

He was perhaps the most unpopular Governor that New York has ever had.

He is a director in Mr. Morgan's steel trust and a supporter of Mr. Morgan's power trust, and he has a very fair chance of being nominated by Mr. Morgan's cut-and-dried convention.

DANIEL F. KENEFICK, another leading candidate, is a regular representative of the power companies.

F. Trubee Davison is directly connected with the Morgan group, and would be a candidate entirely satisfactory to the power trust.

The country knows what the power trust is.

They know that it broke the law through illegal combinations.

They know that it debauched law-makers, that it corrupted the corruptible part of the press, and bought newspapers it could not influence.

They know that it hired college professors,

BLAST BLOWS STEAMER TO BITS; FEAR TOLL WILL REACH 100

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—An old wooden steamboat exploded in the East River near Hell Gate today and 165 iron workers on their way to build prison cells on Riker's Island were hurled into the air, many dead and virtually all the rest injured.

During the morning 24 bodies were brought to the ferry house where 28 years ago the dead of the Slocum disaster, in which more than 1,000 died, were laid. The contracting company which employed the men reported the number of known dead at the ferry house and in hospitals as 37.

Scores were missing and it was feared by police on the scene that the final death list might reach 100. Among those unreported but considered surely dead by his associates was Harry Hires, of Mattewan, the boat's engineer, who was in the engine room when the boiler exploded and the craft was torn apart.

The boat that blew up was the Observation, a 92-footer built 44 years ago and always owned by the Forsythe Transportation Company. Alexander Forsythe, the captain, was critically injured in the explosion and his father, George Forsythe, suffered serious injuries.

Until recent years the Observation always was an excursion boat and until its end it returned to this type of service every weekend, filling in the week as a labor ferry. Caught in a strong tide last winter it turned over and sank, but it was raised and reconditioned and in April passed its annual government examination.

Forsythe said in the hospital that the Observation capsized while on a trip from Kearney, N. J., to Twin Bridge. The steamboat inspection service had previously said it sank at its Kearney dock.

Investigations were begun today by various agencies, including the police, the District Attorney's office, and the steamboat inspection service of the Department of Commerce.

The Observation was about 25 feet from the pier when persons ashore were stunned by a terrific roar. The ferry disappeared in a dense cloud of smoke from which catapulted bodies and fragments of wood and iron.

When the smoke cleared there was nothing left of the boat but debris floating on the oily water.

Police, Coast Guard and commercial boats flocked to the scene and joined in saving the injured and transporting the dead to shore.

Priests came to the ferry house and, kneeling among the rows of dead, administered last rites to the dying.

Charles Gimbel Dies At Lake Placid Home

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Word was received here today of the death at his summer home at Lake Placid, N. Y., of Charles Gimbel, 70, of the department store firm of Gimbel Brothers. He was one of the seven sons of Adam Gimbel, who founded the Gimbel department store business.

BLAST IN MOVIE INJURES FIVE

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 9.—(INS.)—A terrific explosion in the projection room of a downtown theater cary today started a general alarm fire and injured five persons, three of whom were perhaps fatally burned.

Three of the victims, all operators, were trapped in the metal-lined projection room. The two others were sitting near the room watching the show. The injured are:

Monte Cronkhite, 21, relief operator; E. J. Gomez, 24, projection operator in charge; Royal Cooper, 23; Miss Irene Sobek, 19, a patron, and Dick Templeton, a musician.

The blast created a near panic in the theater as patrons fought their way to the doors. The projection room became a roaring furnace as the operators fought against the flames and were pulled through a small window of the metal cage by Templeton and a patron.

Highland Bank Pays Another Dividend

A dividend of 23 per cent, the second within six months, making a total of 43 per cent, is being paid today to the 7,000 depositors of the closed Highland National Bank. Today's disbursement will amount to approximately $750,000.

GREENOCK, Scotland, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, arrived here from the United States today on the steamer Duchess of Bedford. He continued on the steamer to Liverpool.

Girls Dance in Blazing Theater, Avert Panic

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—The nonchalant attitude of the chorus girls, who continued to play their part on the stage even as the boards under their feet grew hot and smoke poured upward, was credited today with having averted a panic when fire broke out in the Garrick Theater.

The patrons, warned by the manager that a serious fire had broken out in the basement, moved calmly through the exits last night as smoke filled the theater, which is located in the heart of Chicago's Rialto.

Meanwhile the show went on. The musicians remained at their posts and the chorus girls went on with their dances. The prima donna of the chorus, Lottie Kroll, was singing her number, "Dancing in the Dark," as firemen arrived.

Not until the last patron had departed did the chorus girls and musicians leave.

Pinchot 'Arrests' Man As Drunken Driver

MILFORD, Pa., Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot acted the part of a traffic policeman on the William Penn highway yesterday and caused the arrest of a man who was charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated.

On his way to his home here for a vacation, the Governor today said he saw a car zig-zagging along the road in Lebanon County.

Pinchot said:

"The car was going from one side of the road to the other, and went up a hill on the wrong side. If another car had been coming up the other side of the hill there no doubt would have been a collision.

"We found two drunken men in the car. One of them being the driver. The driver was ordered arrested. The other man was left in the car on the side of the road. He did not have a driver's license and said he did not know how to handle the car."

Corp. Bynane, of the state highway patrol, was driving the Governor's car.

The driver was forced to stop, leave his machine and was taken to Reading in the Governor's car. There he was turned over to the highway police with orders to return him to Lebanon County. The Governor said he had forgotten the driver's name.

Pinchot said the driver recognized him as the Governor.

N. Y. DEMOCRATS, LED BY TAMMANY, INDORSE ROOSEVELT

STATE MACHINE GIVES SUPPORT TO GOVERNOR

Leaders to Confer on Fate of Former Mayor Walker

By RAYMOND I. BORST
International News Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 9.—A resolution indorsing the Democratic national ticket headed by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Speaker John N. Garner was adopted by the New York Democratic State Committee at its meeting here today.

Albany was selected for the state convention, and the date was fixed for October 3 and 4.

TAMMANY IN CONTROL

With the state organization solidly controlled by Tammany Hall and its up-state allies, the adoption of the resolution indorsing the national ticket was interpreted as an indication that Tammany will swing into line behind the Roosevelt-Garner banner on election day.

Whether Tammany will renominate former Mayor James J. Walker on a "vindication" plank may be decided at a conference of party chiefs.

Tammany Chief John F. Curry is reported to favor Walker's renomination, and if a majority of the upstate leaders take the same attitude, nothing—not even the opposition of Gov. Roosevelt—will be permitted to block such a step, it was said.

Tammany's chief upstate allies, Edward J. and Daniel P. O'Connell, of Albany, are understood to have told Curry that they favored Walker's renomination. Some other upstate leaders, who in the past have been friendly with Tammany, are understood to have advised against renominating Walker and to have expressed doubt that he could be re-elected.

GOVERNORSHIP PROBLEM

Another thorn in the side of the Democratic leaders is what to do about the gubernatorial nomination. They are in a quandary whether to oppose Gov. Roosevelt's demand for the nomination of Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, and this perplexing question will be taken up at today's pow-pow.

Curry and John H. McCooey, national committeeman, did not go to visit Gov. Roosevelt upon their arrival here last night. Curry explained:

"So far as I know we didn't have an invitation."

He was asked:

"Do you think you will see the Governor while you are here?"

He replied:

"Perhaps."

James A. Farley, who holds the dual post of state and national chairman, conferred with the Governor at the executive mansion last night while the party leaders were closeted behind closed doors at a local hotel.

ROOSEVELT SON STRICKEN ILL

LITTLE BOARS HEAD, N. H., Sept. 9.—(AP.)—James Roosevelt's strenuous efforts to place his father, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, in the highest office in the land have put him in bed from nervous exhaustion.

Young Roosevelt was taken from a train here yesterday and placed under a doctor's care at the summer home of his father-in-law, Dr. Harvey Cushing, of Boston, noted brain specialist.

He was en route from Newport, R. I., where he spoke Wednesday, to Brewer, Me., where he was to give an address last night, when he was taken ill.

Seabury in England, Denies Candidacy

PLYMOUTH, England, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Samuel Seabury, counsel of the Hofstadter committee, which investigated Mayor James J. Walker's administration, arrived yesterday aboard the liner Paris. Seabury denied he had any plans to run for Mayor of New York.

HOOVER AIDS SEARCH FOR ROBINS

that, despite an all-night search by all available federal agents, no trace of the prohibitionist had been found since he left his club in New York shortly after noon Saturday.

The bare fact that Col. Robins left the City Club in New York last Saturday, giving a Washington hotel as a forwarding address, and has not been seen since, stood as the only known structure of the case.

HOOVER APPOINTMENT

He had an appointment with President Hoover on Tuesday and did not turn up to keep it. When he did not arrive here or telephone by Wednesday, friends became uneasy and telephoned his New York club, which tended to confirm fears.

Reports from Mrs. Robins at the home of her sister, Miss Mary Drier, at Southwest Harbor, Me., that she feared a ring of bootleggers might have done away with her husband deepened concern, and the United States Secret Service and Department of Justice Bureau of Investigation were swung into action on direct orders of President Hoover.

Efforts to locate trace of Col. Robins had brought no tangible result today. The latest word came from the White House at 5 a. m. That word was:

"We haven't heard a thing yet."

Both justice and secret service officials here seemed baffled, after a thorough checkup among Robins' friends and acquaintances developed little in the way of clues to work on.

The general feeling among Robins' friends here was that the prohibitionist had never left New York. They felt that if any untoward event prevented his appearance at the White House on schedule, he never came to Washington.

SEARCH EXTENDED

Mrs. Robins' fears that a rum-running gang of national scope might have done away with her husband only tended to extend the area of police operations. Robins has a place in Florida, and was known as a dangerous enemy to the illicit liquor trade from Maine to Florida.

Disappearance of the dry leader has brought a search comparable only to that which was instituted after the kidnaping of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's son March 1. Walter H. Newton, White House political secretary, ordered government forces into action.

FRIENDS ALARMED

Friends of Robins here said there was little possibility of his having made any unexpected trip without notifying someone of his destination, and pointed to the fact that he left his baggage in his room at the City Club in New York as evidence of the logic of such a conclusion. They indicated that in their opinion something was seriously wrong, and, refusing to allow their names to be used, declared the prohibitionist was very punctual about keeping appointments.

Officials were reluctant to discuss the mystery openly. They admitted a search of national proportions was underway, and it was learned that both the secret service and the Justice Department were active, but further than this no formal information was available.

Robins was to have attended a meeting of the Prohibition Board of Strategy here today.

Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, executive secretary of the dry strategy board, admitted reluctantly that he had checked all of Robins' "close friends" in New York in a vain effort to trace the missing man. Dinwiddie was able only to place him at lunch at the New York City Club last Saturday.

Ordinarily, Dinwiddie is most affable with newspaper reporters, but he answered only direct questions in connection with the Robins case.

CANNON WORRIED

Bishop James Cannon, Jr., another outstanding figure of the prohibition cause in the capital for today's meeting, conceded he "was worried" over the Colonel's disappearance, but would make no further statement.

At the Dodge Hotel, where Robins was reported to have engaged a room, it was said no reservation had been requested. The clerk said, however, he was holding some mail for the prohibitionist.

Robins Friend Demands War Against Crime

KENNEBUNK BEACH, Me., Sept. 9.—(INS.)—A finish fight with crime by the federal government was urged today by Samuel O. Levinson, of Chicago, attorney and close friend of Col. Raymond Robins, who disappeared in New York. Levinson said:

"If the underworld has Col. Robins, I will immediately appeal to President Hoover to declare martial law and fight it out with crime. If we are going to have a war, let us have a war of extermination of undesirables here at home."

The lawyer added:

"Col. Robins is not afraid of the devil and fights for what he thinks is right and what he believes to be the truth and is cast in the heroic mold."

Rum Runners' Hideouts Searched for Robins

TAMPA, Fla., Sept. 9.—(INS.)—Known resorts of Florida west coast rum runners were being subjected to close examination today by local federal authorities in an effort to shed light on the mysterious disappearance of Col. Raymond Robins.

The investigation centered around Brooksville, Florida home of the missing man, following an assertion by Mrs. Robins at Southwest Harbor, Me., that she believes "bootleggers from around our home in Brooksville, Fla., have him."

A sheriff who had held office in Hernando County (Brooksville), for 15 years, and a county judge for four years were defeated in the county Democratic primary last spring after Col. and Mrs. Robins had conducted a relentless campaign for law enforcement aimed at the two officeholders.

DRY CHIEFTAINS PONDER THIRD PARTY

Senator Borah, Pinchot Favored as Head Of Ticket

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The prohibition board of strategy will meet here tonight with a definite proposal before it that a third party be organized and a dry candidate placed in the field in this year's elections.

The proposition has been laid before the individual members of the board in a letter by Canon William S. Chase, of New York, suggesting that either Senator Borah, of Idaho, or Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, be offered the united support of all the dry organizations in the country.

Canon Chase had intended to lay the proposal before a meeting of 39 organizations supporting prohibition which was to have taken place on Wednesday. This meeting was suddenly postponed indefinitely. Chase said today that he had been "very much disappointed when it was called off."

Meanwhile prohibition leaders from various parts of the country here attending an executive committee meeting of the Anti-Saloon League worked behind closed doors in an effort to draft a statement setting forth the position of the Anti-Saloon League in the campaign.

Bishop Richardson, of Philadelphia, president of the Anti-Saloon League, said that a committee would submit the proposed statement to the full group late this afternoon.

WARNING GIVEN CONSTABLES

night anonymously to learn the names of the roomers and the owners of the properties.

BRADDOCK WARNING

Police Chief Michael Mahalic, who is also constable in Braddock's First Ward; Joseph Slane, constable of Braddock's Second Ward, and Robert Keough, in the Third Ward, of Braddock, also were warned.

Mahalic was among those who, on Tuesday, when reporting their districts as without violations, had been given a list of places to investigate. Today, after he had reported no violations since Tuesday, Judge Patterson asked him:

"What have you to say about all these complaints we have received?"

'NO COMPLAINTS'

Mahalic:

Judge Patterson:

"Have you been around since Tuesday?"

Mahalic:

"I visited all the places on the list and found no violations."

To the three Braddock constables who all reported law and order prevailing Judge Patterson then delivered this warning:

"If we find these places open you are liable to indictment, fine and imprisonment. We will make our own investigation. If we find your report true, we will commend you. If it is false, we will bring you in and subject you to the grand jury."

John Ridger, constable in the Fourth Ward, where Judge Patterson said there was "a luxurious out club" operating across from the Oakland Police Station, failed to appear. He was expected later in the day.

Miss Joyce, who upon her arrival in Paris en route to London and the U. S., told reporters that the biggest news is that she's not engaged nor in love right now. She has, however, completed a novel—pure fiction, mind you—that's to be published in October.

SENATOR DAVIS INDICTED AGAIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—United States Senator James J. Davis and seven others were named in four superseding indictments returned by the grand jury yesterday in connection with lotteries staged by fraternal organizations for charity purposes.

Federal Attorney George Z. Medalie explained that the bills were "substantially the same" as the four indictments brought last month charging violation of the lottery and conspiracy laws. He added:

"It is just a matter of procedure to prevent any possible objection."

The other defendants are Theodore G. Miller, head of the propaganda department of the Moose lodge; Bernard C. McGuire, New York merchant; Raymond Walsh, an employe of McGuire; Conrad H. Mann, national executive of the Fraternal Order of Eagles; Frank E. Herring, publisher of the Eagle Magazine; M. J. Rivise, head of the package delivery department of Western Union, and the Western Union Telegraph Company.

The first four will go on trial September 19.

RAILROADS CUT PAY AGAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—(INS.)—Representative officials of railroads operating in all parts of the country voted today to impose a second wage cut of 10 per cent on all railway union employes.

Including the 10 per cent slash accepted by the brotherhoods last winter, the decision means that the workers will be served notice of a total reduction of 20 per cent. The original 10 per cent cut was to have expired at the end of one year.

Since the brotherhoods have already voiced stiff opposition to even the continuance of the reduction now in effect, the question of a new wage adjustment probably will be treated by arbitration. Negotiations may be begun after notice of the reduction has been served.

JEAN MAY MEET 'GHOST RIVAL' AT FUNERAL

when it became known that Miss Millette, the "phantom mate" of the motion picture producer, who emerged from his past following his suicide, is on the Pacific Coast.

She was at a San Francisco hotel, investigators learned, the day Bern sent a bullet crashing through his brain, disappearing after news of his act had been published.

That she might come to the last rites in his honor was the belief of friends of the dead man.

JEAN RECOVERING

Recovering slightly from the state of collapse in which she has been since informed of the suicide of her husband of two months, Miss Harlow was expected to be able to attend the private funeral services planned for Bern today.

The presence of Miss Millette in San Francisco was established through the fact that a check had been sent her there from Bern's funds only a few days before his death.

Her presence in California, the fact that she probably had been in communication with Bern, and the declaration that her existence was entirely unknown to Miss Harlow, brought to the fore two additional possibilities.

The first was a definite motive for the suicide of the kindly little "father confessor" of Hollywood. Investigators said that it might well have been possible that Bern, feeling he must tell Miss Harlow of this episode of his past, dreaded it to such an extent that he finally ended his life as a "way out." This, they said, would explain the cryptic note in which he mentioned having "wronged" his beautiful actress wife.

ESTATE CONTEST

The second was a likelihood that a contest may develop for his estate. It was definitely known that two wills exist—the first made in 1929, naming the first woman in his life, Dorothy Millette, and the second made only a few weeks ago, leaving his property to Miss Harlow.

The second will would, of course, take precedence over the other unless Dorothy Millette could establish a legal status as the wife of the late producer. Such a status, it was said by legal authorities, might be established if it could be proved that she and Bern had lived together as man and wife in Canada, as reported, even if no actual marriage was of record. Common law marriages are recognized there under certain circumstances, attorneys said.

MYSTERY REMAINS

The Coroner's jury of doctors and laymen found Bern a suicide, but was unable to fix a motive for his act, which left that phase of the case as baffling a mystery as ever.

The only testimony adduced at the Coroner's investigation was the rather guarded expression of belief on the part of an autopsy surgeon that there existed a physical condition which might have tended to produce nervousness and melancholia on the part of Bern in view of his recent marriage. The autopsy surgeon made plain Bern suffered from no disease and that he was advancing no theory as to the cause of the suicide.

Irving Thalberg, studio official, Marino Bello, stepfather of Jean Harlow, and servants in the home of Bern all testified they had known of no cause for suicide and that so far as they knew Bern and his wife enjoyed a happy married life.

UNUSUAL CONDITIONS

Published reports that although Bern and Miss Harlow were married two months, they had never lived together as man and wife were not gone into at the inquest. These reports had stated that their love for each other was so great that they were happy under unusual conditions.

Henry Bern, brother of Paul, who flew here from New York, had been expected to make a statement concerning his brother's death, but he failed to do so, saying that "certain complications," the nature of which he did not care to explain, had arisen.

Ralph Blum, his attorney, was investigating the status and whereabouts of Dorothy Millette. Henry Bern previously had admitted the existence of such a woman without naming her. He declared she had no legal claim on his brother.

WILL REVEALED

Existence of a fresh will was disclosed by Attorney Oscar Cummings, who drew the document. He would not discuss its contents but it was learned Miss Harlow was the chief beneficiary. Cummings was to confer with Henry Bern today.

He was emphatic in declaring that "there is no other Mrs. Bern than Jean Harlow." He added:

"Paul was kind hearted and helped this other woman but he was never legally married to her."

The will naming Dorothy Millette was understood here to be in the possession of Attorney Henry Uttal, of New York.

The key to the whereabouts of Miss Millette may be held by Irene Harrington, Paul Bern's secretary. She handled "all of Bern's business" but kept her lips sealed as to details. She would not confirm reported existence of a trust fund in New York to care for Miss Millette.

Robins' Wife Hoping For Word From Him

SOUTHWEST HARBOR, Me., Sept. 9.—(INS.)—Watching and waiting, Mrs. Raymond Robins, wife of the missing famous social economist, at the home of her sister, Miss Mary Dreier, today hoped against hope that Florida bootleggers whom she believed kidnaped her husband, would allow him to send some word to his anxious wife.

SHE SAID BRAVELY:

"There is no word from my husband. I think the bootleggers from around our home in Brooksville, Fla., have him. He had received many threats by telephone. I don't know what was said on the telephone except that they warned my husband to cease his activities against the illegal liquor traffic near our Florida home.

"I have no idea why my husband was asked to visit President Hoover at the White House. I do not know what they planned to discuss. Perhaps this may be the key to his disappearance. On the other hand, it may not. My husband and the President were old friends, and he had made several visits to Washington recently to talk with the President. What they talked about, I do not know."

Robins has disappeared several times before during his investigations. He is described by his friends as a fearless fighter.

BLONDE HUNTED IN ROBBERY

Mary Howard, 22, of Carlton street, the alleged blonde bandit who held up and robbed the Rev. J. S. Hawn, of 124 South Negley avenue, was being sought by police today after the Rev. Mr. Hawn had sworn out a warrant charging robbery before Magistrate Charles Papale.

Magistrate Papale had discharged the girl and Gilbert Martin, 26, of Warrington avenue, on Wednesday. The Rev. Hawn had been robbed Monday night by two men and a blonde girl in Kirkwood street.

Today the Rev. Dr. Hawn complained to police that he did not get a fair deal in the case. He said he had been told to report for the hearing between 8:30 and 9 a. m., Wednesday, after he had positively identified the girl in the cellroom, the night previous. He was not sure of the identity of Martin.

Hawn today said he appeared at the station at 8:50 a. m., Wednesday, and the case had been disposed of. Detectives James Noon, testifying, said the minister had not made a positive identification and the detectives had no other evidence. Then the couple was discharged.

DAUGHTER GETS MESTA WEALTH

Sally Mesta, young daughter of the late Merle A. Mesta, today became an heiress. She was named beneficiary of the $200,000 estate of her father, whose will was filed for probate. He specified that at 21 she was to receive half of the estate, at 25 the remainder. Only one other bequest was made—five shares of common stock in Mesta Machine Company to a nephew, George Wendell.

Mr. Mesta, former vice president of the American Trust Company, died August 28 in Atlantic City. He named a sister, Mrs. Helen Hutchison, of Beverly Hills, Cal., and the Union Trust Company executors.

Jealousy Blamed In Slaying of Girl

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Jealousy has been advanced as a motive for the slaying of Miss Mary Temple at the trial of James Barnhart, Waynesburg man charged with shooting the girl to death.

Mrs. Fern Rice, sister of the girl, and Charles Rice, her husband, testified yesterday that the defendant once struck the girl with a brick in a fit of anger because she went to a show without his permission.

ALL 'O. K.' NOW WITH RUDY, FAY

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Rudy Vallee's New York lawyer said today the singing band leader never did want a divorce and that "everything is O. K. now" between Vallee and his bride of 13 months.

Hyman Bushel, the lawyer, returned by plane from Reno, where he went with Fay Webb, Vallee's wife, and where the divorce plans were suddenly called off. Telling how the plans were suddenly altered, Bushel said:

"When I called Mr. Vallee on the phone, Mrs. Vallee wanted to talk to him. They patched things up. Everything is O. K. now, and Mrs. Vallee is sorry. She will return East in a couple of weeks to be with her husband. I could never see any reason for a divorce. She was very foolish. Rudy did not want a divorce. He left it up to her."

Asked if it were a publicity device, Bushel replied:

"That's a contemptible lie."

He reached in his brief case to show a property settlement signed by Vallee September 1.

90-MILE GALE LASHES COAST

Associated Press.

The white light between two red—warning of heavy gales at sea—burned brightly through the night along a gale-swept coast.

Storm warnings were up from Cape Hatteras to Eastport, Me., and shipping sough snug harbors as 90-mile winds swept across high seas. Coastal communities suffered many thousands of dollars' damage as winds of lesser velocity beat along the eastern shore line before passing out to sea.

The edges of the storm struck the New England coast yesterday and during the night coastal shipping was held in New England ports from Block Island, R. I., to Eastport, Me. Excursion boats along the Massachusetts coast turned back after nosing out of sheltered harbors.

VIVID STORIES OF BLAST TOLD

One Body Hurled 50 Feet to Shore, Witness Says

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(INS.)—Second Officer F. L. Callis of the steamship Freeman of the Pocohontas Line was one of the eyewitnesses to the tragic explosion of the ferry boat Observation today, claiming the lives of dozens.

Visibly shaken by the horror of the scene, he told the story of the explosion and of his subsequent efforts to save the lives of those who were struggling in the water. He said:

"I was standing on the deck looking out toward the Observation when suddenly I heard that awful explosion. It sounded like a "big Bertha" and I stood there frozen as the ship seemed to rise in the air, disintegrate into a thousand pieces, and hurl men in eevry direction.

"I saw one body tossed through a plate glass window and another thrown 50 feet in the air to land against an iron pole in front of the Gypsum plant near the waterfront. The body struck like the tragic scene from a moving picture. For a moment I was stunned—then I shouted to four seamen to lower a boat.

"We hurried it into the water and paddled around. We pulled four men out of the water—all unconscious and all bleeding horribly. We brought them to shore and turned them over to the ambulance doctors who were beginning to arrive."

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—William Donoghue, 38, of Long Island, one of the survivors of the Observation ferryboat blast today, told a vivid story of the disaster. He said:

"When the boat exploded I went high in the air and then sank deep into the water. When I came up again I was hit by a body coming down and went down for the second time. Upon coming up again I could hear the hiss of live steam and saw fragments of the boat floating all around me. I had sufficient presence of mind to swim under the water until I was sure there was no further danger."

E. G. Wallenstik, 21, of Yonkers, said:

"I was sitting on the top deck with six of my companions after the boat had backed out. Suddenly there was a terrific explosion and we were all hurled high into the air. I came down in the water and saw that the boat had been blown to bits, and grabbed a lifesaver. I could not see any of my companions except one man named John Bailey. We both swam ashore, where somebody lifted us up and we were taken to the hospital."

Capt. Joseph Rogers, of the municipal ferry Greenwich Village, gave a graphic account of the explosion. He said:

"I heard a blast and saw the boat blown to smithereens.

"When the clouds of smoke and steam had cleared away we could see the passengers struggling in the water over a large area. Our ferryboat was in its slip at East One Hundred and Thirty-fourth street at the time, just two blocks from the pier where the Observation had backed out into the water.

"We lowered our lifeboats and cruised about among the wreckage. We picked up four bodies and 10 injured persons. Other people were putting out in small boats, and they also picked up bodies and the injured."

MISSING PLANE FOUND, 3 DEAD

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 9.—(INS.)—A widespread search for a missing airliner of the American Airways came to a tragic end early today when the gnarled wreckage of the huge plane was located with three of its occupants dead and a fourth critically injured.

The smashed and fire-eaten plane and its ghastly cargo were discovered on a rugged stretch of desolate country between Salt Flat Field and the Guadalupe mountains.

THE DEAD:

ROBBINS BRYANT, of Fort Worth, pilot.

VICTOR ALLMAN, of Los Angeles, passenger.

The injured man was G. A. Davidson, of Richmond, Cal., who was extricated from the ruins of the plane, suffering from critical burns.

Save for the fact that the three men were dead and the fourth injured, no details of the tragedy were incorporated in the radio message telling of the tragedy.

60-TON PILLAR SAFELY SET

The world's largest one-piece Ionic column slid gently into place at the new Mellon Institute Building today amid the blast of the 12:30 work whistle and the applause of hundreds of spectators led by R. B. Mellon, co-donor of the building together with his brother, Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon.

Dwarfing even the classical task of the builders of the Temple of Parthenon, Pittsburgh workmen set the 60-ton limestone cylinder in place in approximately 60 minutes without a hitch.

Working throughout the night, the men rolled the first of 62 columns to be placed about the building onto a powerful truck and started it on its trip from the Point Breeze circus yards at 10:30 a. m., with an escort of police including Assistant Supt. Ben Marshall and Traffic Inspector Jacob Dorsey.

There still remain 61 columns to be erected, each 60 to 65 tons, 36½ feet high and 5½ feet in diameter.

37 KNOWN DEAD IN BOAT BLAST

One workman, Ted Maureau, was saved by tardiness. He arrived at the dock just a minute too late to make the ferry and was standing watching it when it exploded. He helped in the rescue of his fellow workers.

It was the worst river tragedy here since 1926, when 58 men were drowned as a work launch was crushed in the ice-choked Hudson. The launch was the Linseed King, and it was carrying a load of newly employed men to their first day's work in New Jersey. It was just before Christmas, and the men set forth singing with joy at their fortune in finding work. Ice floes broke the little boat to bits, and they drowned or were ground to death.

WITNESSES QUIZZED

All witnesses of the explosion of the Observation were taken to nearby police stations for questioning.

After surveying the situation at the scene, District Attorney McLaughlin ordered all witnesses to his office, which he said would be headquarters for the inquiry.

DEAN GETS JOB AS CITY SLEUTH

John J. Dean, of 4749 Friendship avenue, Bloomfield politician and manager for years of a semi-professional baseball team, which bore his name, today was sworn in as a city detective by Public Safety Director James M. Clark.

Clark said two additional detectives would be named next week to fill vacancies. Clark returned home this morning from a month's vacation at Atlantic City, without pay, in accordance with the municipal economy program.

Local G. O. P. Plans Campaign Opening

Plans for opening the Republican campaign in Allegheny County are being made today in a series of conferences involving State Chairman Edward Martin, County Chairman William H. Coleman, W. L. Mellon, Senator James J. Coyne and other factors in county politics.

If arrangements can be made, headquarters will be opened Monday, with Coleman in charge. There is a possibility that the Republican high command may return to the scene of its old activities for headquarters, the Hotel Henry, though the William Penn also is under consideration.

Mix, Ex-Wife to Share Custody of Child

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Because Thomasina Mix, 10-year-old daughter of Tom Mix, film actor, is fond of both of her divorced parents, she will share her time between their homes.

Mix withdrew his petition asking that he be given full custody of his daughter in place of the mother, and agreed yesterday to having custody of the child for two consecutive months during the summer vacation and will have her on the alternate incidental holidays.

The Judge thanked the parents for their willingness to make concessions with respect to the future welfare of the child. Mix's former wife is now married to Manuel de Olazabal, Argentine consul at San Francisco.

The agreement was an amendment to the divorce decree under which the mother had been given custody. Mix had asked for full custody, saying he believed he could provide better care for her.

Mrs. Olazabal denied the assertion, replying that she was adequately prepared to guard her daughter's welfare.

Lily Pons Denies Rift Admitted by Husband

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(Universal.)—Estrangement of the beautiful French soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, Lily Pons, 28, and her 55-year-old husband, Auguste Mesritz, retired Dutch lawyer and newspaper publisher, has been revealed here today.

The prima donna, who leaped from obscurity to world-wide acclaim virtually overnight a year and a half ago, is in Rio de Janeiro, on a concert tour. Her husband, who did not accompany her, is in Paris, where yesterday he admitted there had been a marital misunderstanding.

He said, commenting on reports that the singer contemplates divorcing him to marry a young American now in Brazil:

"So far as I know, no divorce proceedings have been begun. Business keeps me here."

Miss Pons, who has been a guest of E. M. Van Voorhies, American manager of the General Motors Corporation in Brazil, and a former major in the United States Army, at Petropolis, summer resort in the mountains near Rio de Janeiro, cabled in response to a query about the reported divorce proceedings:

"Report ridiculous and untrue."

BALLOTS OF SIX STATES MAY DECIDE RACE

By COLE E. MORGAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Nip and Tuck appear to be running the presidential campaign in the lakes-states of Ohio, Michigan and Indiana, just as they are in the three states to the east, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York.

The six states which in the 1928 presidential election cast between 14,000,000 and 15,000,000 votes appear so close that it isn't funny at bit. It is a matter that is giving the campaign managers on both sides something to worry about.

MARGIN SLIGHT

Returns to date from these two groups of states east and west of the Alleghenies show a difference of only 422 ballots between President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt in the nationwide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States.

Roosevelt has the advantage in this 422 popular majority. Translated into electoral votes, however, the advantage is on the Hoover side. But more than half of the Hoover electoral votes of the area, the 47 of New York State, hangs by the slender thread of 17 poll ballots.

Since the publication of the poll returns started New York, New Jersey and Ohio, the three states Hoover now holds, have been on the Roosevelt side and none is so secure that it is not likely to swing back that way. At the same time Roosevelt's hold on Pennsylvania, Michigan and Indiana is such that any or all are liable to turn to Hoover at any time.

BATTLEGROUND INDICATED

Beyond New York, Hoover appears to have a safe grip on New England and beyond Indiana Roosevelt's grip on Illinois looks equally secure, backed up by the strong Roosevelt showing in the corn belt west of the Mississippi.

It is in this in-between industrial, commercial and financial center where approximately one-third of the country's electoral vote is concentrated, that the big battle of the 1932 campaign looms.

BAN COX TALK IN IOWA TOWN

DAVENPORT, Ia., Sept. 9.—Officials of Davenport, the gateway to Iowa's striking farm belt, turned a cold shoulder to Father James R. Cox, of Pittsburgh, Jobless party presidential nominee. They banned him from speaking on the streets or in the parks here last night.

While Mayor George Tank and Chief of Police Harry Ward were reaching their decision, the nominee was championing the cause of the striking farmers to newspapermen, declaring:

"Farmers should organize a union all over the United States, fashioned along the lines of the American Federation of Labor. Farm unions organized into one great federation throughout the United States, eventually throughout the world, will make the farmer the dominate force in human life."

Father Cox has completed plans for his next week's itinerary, which will carry him as far as Oklahoma City. He was to fly back to Pittsburgh today.

Religious Poetry Writer Dies at 70

CLIFTON SPRINGS, N. Y., Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Annie Johnson Flint, writer of religious poetry and widely known as the "Poet of Helpfulness," died last night at a sanitorium here. She was 70 years old.

Bedridden for 30 of her 43 years of invalidism from arthritis, Miss Flint's poetry, written at first as personal gifts to friends, became widely known. Many of her poems were set to music.

Lindy Captive Case Warrants Served

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Delayed two days by other matters, officials moved today to serve nine warrants charging Johnstown and DuBois residents with holding Garet Schenck, Hopewell, N. J., fish monger, captive in a mountain cabin 76 days.

Schenck and his attorneys conferred last night with Mayor Eddie McCloskey regarding the case. McCloskey said afterward that progress was satisfactory.

Mollison and Wife Get London Ovation

LONDON, Sept. 9.—(INS.)—Faced with a program of "devoting more time to my wife," the former Amy Johnson, Capt. James A. Mollison who recently made a westward solo trans-Atlantic flight, was back in London today.

He and his wife were wildly cheered when they arrived here. Mrs. Mollison, a famous aviatrix, previously met her husband in Cherbourg.

Parked Auto Halts Runaway Horse

A parked automobile in the 3400 block Fifth avenue today stopped a runaway horse and bakery wagon as they speeded down steep Chesterfield road, Oakland. Allison Tarr, of 7424 Tioga street, driver of the wagon, was making a delivery when the horse started downhill. Damage to the automobile was estimated at $150 by its owner, R. J. Freyvogel, of 3406 Fifth avenue.

Presidential Trend by States

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The tabulation that follows shows the total vote thus far recorded for President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States. It also shows the majority that each candidate has in each state in which he is leading. In addition it gives the gain of each candidate on the latest returns received from each state as compared with the last preceding report from the state. These state reports are usually a week apart. The final feature of this table shows the net gain of each candidate in each state where he has improved his position as compared with the preceding report from that state.

N. Y. Democrats Should Nominate Lehman to Beat Power Trust

and had its literature introduced into the schools.

They know that it robbed the public with high rates and then swindled the public with worthless securities.

They know that it is the most generally demoralizing to popular government and American institutions of those so-called public service corporations which should serve the public, but in reality rob the public.

THEY KNOW THAT Governor Roosevelt first became popular because of his courage in resisting the evil influences of the power trust.

They know that the power trust organized the opposition to Governor Roosevelt as a presidential candidate in Chicago; that it directed the effort to defeat him; invaded the Roosevelt delegations with all sorts of seductive propositions to desert him; overwhelmed the convention with telegrams in the effort to prevent his nomination; and since his nomination has been his most powerful and active enemy.

The power trust and the international bankers are furnishing the "sinews of war" for the New York Republican campaign, and for the national Republican campaign as well.

They are ballooning the market in New York in the hope of helping Mr. Hoover with a false and inflated prosperity.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY in New York is in a crucial position at this critical time.

Its nominee for Governor to succeed Governor Roosevelt will play an important part both in the strategy of New York State politics and in the politics of the nation.

Furthermore, the character of this nominee will mean much to the general welfare of the public through genuine democratic government for "the greatest good of the greatest number."

The New York democracy should nominate a candidate for Governor whose record and character will place him in sharp contrast to any one of the horde of power trust candidates who are contending for the Republican nomination.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY of New York should nominate a candidate for Governor who would be in complete sympathy with the principles and policies of the Democratic candidate for President.

The Democratic party of New York should nominate for Governor a candidate whose public record of performance is in harmony with the records of Governor Roosevelt and Governor Smith, his predecessors in the gubernatorial office.

Lieutenant Governor Lehman is the natural and proper nominee of the Democratic party for Governor of the state of New York because of his high personal standing, because of his sound executive ability, because of his fine record in the office of Lieutenant Governor, and because he is firmly committed to the anti-power trust policies which distinguished the administrations of previous Democratic Governors.

The Hearst papers have long been supporters of Herbert H. Lehman for important position in public life; and the Hearst papers today ardently support Lieutenant Governor Lehman as the man best fitted by character and experience to carry on the policies of his great predecessors and to fortify the campaign for Democratic principles not only in New York State but throughout the nation.

WEST HOLDING ELECTION KEY, BORAH SAYS

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

BOISE, Ida., Sept. 9.—Senator William E. Borah broke his political vacation long enough today to declare the 1932 presidential election would be determined west of the Mississippi by an enlightened electorate on agricultural relief programs yet to be expounded by the rival candidates.

Borah, who drove the Hoover bandwagon in 1928, declined to say whether he would support or bolt the President this year. His friends said Franklin D. Roosevelt could win his public indorsement by proposing a specific program—not of dogmas but of definite measures—for the permanent economic relief of agriculture.

BORAH RETICENT

Borah's only comment on this report was:

"I have nothing to say on that."

Asked directly about the outcome of the pending election, Borah declared it would be won or lost in the West—and by the pronouncements of the presidential candidates on issues directly affecting the West.

He declared individual candidates, their party labels and party platforms, meant nothing to the voter this year.

He said:

"The average western citizen cares nothing about the Republican platform. He cares nothing about the Democratic platform. All he wants to know, before he votes, is what the candidates for President are going to do to solve the problems of the West.

'PETTY BICKERINGS'

"These petty partisan bickerings, when a Republican charges a Democrat with voting for a high tariff on long staple cotton and when a Democrat charges a Republican with voting for a wasteful appropriation at a time when the people are losing their homes and farms by the thousands and 10,000,000 citizens are out of employment, constitute an insult to his intelligence.

"This race for the presidency is wide open. It is any man's fight. The people are looking for a constructive program, and, take my word for it, when they find that program they are going to vote for the candidate who proposes it."

BONUS DEMAND BY LEGION SEEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Legion officials here predict advocates of immediate bonus payments will control more than four-fifths of the votes of the American Legion convention in Portland, Ore., next week.

Consequently, they expect the convention by an overwhelming majority will demand cash for compensation certificates. They fear, however, that the contest on the question might be prolonged by a dispute over whether the resolution to be adopted should mention the eviction of the Bonus Expeditionary Force from Washington.

Tabulations kept by these Legion officials show that on the basis of the last convention's voting strength there will be 1,160 ballots for the bonus and 61 against it, with the remainder as yet in the undecided class.

Boy Who Upset Boat Accused of Murder

CATLETTSBURG, Ky., Sept. 9.—(AP.)—The drowning last June of two youths has resulted in a murder indictment being returned against Herman Howard, 15.

Woodrow Jordan, 9, and Gilbert Franklin, 8, the latter a Negro, drowned when they and five companions were plunged into the Ohio River after a rowboat owned by Howard capsized.

Gift for Retiring State Troop Head

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 9.—Capt. Albert Carlson, who recently retired as commander of Troop A, state police, will be remembered by "his boys" today with the presentation of a gift. A lounging chair, smoking stand and a reading lamp will be delivered to Capt. Carlson's future home in Reading, the troopers said.

Lieut. Thomas F. Martin will be in charge of Troop A until Capt. Carlson's successor is appointed.

Snake Bite Sends Charmer to Hospital

DETROIT, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—An eight-foot diamond back rattlesnake bit the hand that was feeding it and sent Mrs. Josephine Smith, 28-year-old carnival snake charmer, scurrying to a hospital by airplane from Menton, Mich.

Robinson Denies Favoring Utilities

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Senator Joe T. Robinson struck back at critics who have accused him of favoring public utilities in a speech before the state Democratic convention here yesterday, and received a reaffirmation of faith in his "purity of purpose and statesmanship" from the assembly.

COOLIDGE CITES BOYHOOD THRILLS

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Calvin Coolidge's boyhood "thrillers" were historical novels written about his native Vermont.

As a boy of 12, Coolidge was an avid reader of history and biography, but the life of George Washington did not interest him.

This Mr. Coolidge discloses in an article, "Books of My Boyhood," which appears in the October Cosmopolitan. The former President lists the books that had the most influence in his formative years.

He declares that when he enlarged his Vermont home a special place on his crowded shelves was reserved for these books of his youth. They are "The Rangers, or The Tory's Daughter," "The Green Mountain Boys," "Washington and His Generals," "Men of Our Times," "Biography of President Garfield," "Livingston Lost and Found," "Hilliard's Sixth Reader," "Choice Poems and Lyrics," "Captain John Brown," "History of the Indian Wars," "Young People's Bible History," "The New Testament," "Life and State Papers of Lincoln," and "Orations of Cicero."

Of Washington, Mr. Coolidge says:

"The character of the Father of His Country did not impress me greatly at that time. He was too restrained, too wise, to become involved in those dramatic difficulties which appeal to youth. It takes maturity to comprehend Washington."

New Voting Place In Nineteenth Ward

Produce of Three States to Be Shown

A three-day exhibit of produce of eight counties will open in Gimbels, October 13, under the auspices of the Allegheny Tableland Council of the Chamber of Commerce. Entries will be received from the following counties: Allegheny, Fayette and Somerset, of Pennsylvania; Garrett, of Maryland, and Mineral, Monongahela, Preston and Tucker, of West Virginia.

Shriners to Give Movie at Mosque

A program of sound pictures will be presented at Syria Mosque tomorrow night under the auspices of Syria Temple. All Shriners with their families will be admitted on presentation of their 1932 membership card. A similar program will be given each Saturday through September.

LIZARD SHOES NEW NOVELTY

The Java ring lizard has been gravitating around Java for millions of years, but it wasn't until lately that someone decided to make them into shoes for milady.

But here they are, according to A. S. Arnold, manager of Pittsburgh's newest shoe store, Berland's, 211 Fifth avenue, which opens at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

In the collection of styles, the Java ring lizard and the Calcutta lizard shoes will be novelties. The ring lizard dates back to prehistoric days, and, as far as science knows, their principal use was eating obnoxious insects. Modern invention found a way to prepare the skins and the shoe business, Mr. Arnold says, is presenting them with a new use.

YOUTH BURNED SAVING 2 GIRLS

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—As a result of a heroic effort to save two neighborhood chums from burns, Billy Tyler, 15, was in a hospital today in a serious condition, three-fourths of his body seared by flames.

Camille Sanborn and Clarabelle Trunsler, his friends, were in a garage while Billy was pouring gasoline in a tank. The liquid became ignited.

Yelling to the girls to leave the garage, Billy carried the flaming container out to the street before dropping it. His clothing caught fire, but residents of the neighborhood rushed to his aid and extinguished the blaze.

He told his mother as he writhed in pain at the hospital:

"I didn't do anything. I had to take care of the girls, didn't I?"

Second Man Dies In Hill Shooting

Robert Bryant, 41, a Negro, of 622 Naylor street, died early today in Passavant Hospital from a bullet wound in the abdomen allegedly inflicted by James Williams, Negro, in a rooming house at 1901 Wylie avenue, August 28. Bryant was wounded when Williams shot to death Russell Palmer, Negro.

Williams was captured in Morgantown, W. Va., and lodged in the county jail here.

Asks Wrong Man For Lift, Lands In Jail

MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., Sept. 9.—(AP.)—The next time Thurman Dew gives the high sign on the open road to a passing motorist he'll be more careful.

G. E. Wicklund, Marshall County sheriff, picked Dew up in answer to his signal and immediately asked his name, thereupon driving to the jail.

"What's the idea?" Dew inquired.

"I have a warrant for your arrest for child desertion," Wicklund answered. "It's lucky you thumbed me. I didn't know where to find you."

PENNA. ASSURED HOME BANKS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Pennsylvania is one of eight states listed by Chairman Franklin W. Fort, of the Federal Home Loan Bank system, "about which there is no question of eligibility for membership."

Under existing state laws affecting membership of home financing institutions in the banking system there are but eight states in which these institutions may subscribe to stock in regional home loan banks, he said.

It is still the purpose of the board to open the Pittsburgh branch bank not later than October 15, but stock books are yet to be opened, and it will be necessary to keep them open 30 days before the regional banks can function.

ASTOR SAILING WITH FISH

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(INS.)—Vincent Astor was on the high seas again today in his yacht Nurmehal, bound for Bermuda.

The young millionaire, who has become something of an explorer, took with him a cargo of several thousand young kingfish, sea bass and bluefish from New York Bay. They will be transplanted in an effort to acclimate them to Bermudan waters.

The yacht will bring back a collection for the New York Aquarium, including some of the famous Bermuda rainbow fish, lobsters, box crabs, and sea anemones.

Dr. C. H. Townsend, director of the aquarium, is one of 10 guests aboard.

PLAN CEREMONY AT SPAN LINK

Dedication plans for the new approach to the Sewickley Bridge were discussed last night by committees of Sewickley Council and the Sewickley Valley Board of Trade, at a meeting in the Sewickley Borough Hall.

The approach will be ready for traffic late in October, county engineers reported. R. D. Richey is chairman of the committee representing the Borough Council, and A. H. Diehl represents the Board of Trade. A parade will precede the dedication.

18 FAIL TO PAY DRY LAW FINES

The bootleg liquor business is dull, it was indicated yesterday in Federal Court when 18 of 44 defendants who pleaded guilty to liquor violations went to jail in default of fines imposed by Judge R. M. Gibson and payment of court costs. Fines ranged from $10 to $250.

Five other self-confessed liquor violators received jail sentences from seven days to six months, and 23 were placed upon probation and allowed time to pay fines. Twelve defendants signed pleas of not guilty and will be tried at the November court term.

It was a special arraignment day, the defendants being summoned by United States Attorney Louis E. Graham to dispose of as many cases as possible before the court term. Bonds of three were forfeited when they failed to appear.

The heaviesst jail sentence was imposed upon Joseph Martino, of Pittsburgh, sent to jail for six months.

Asks Divorce, Blames Strife Over Children

Marital discord was caused by his wife's objections to his visits to his two children by a former marriage, Fred E. Simpkins, Ross avenue, Wilkinsburg, testified before Judge Samuel H. Gardner in Common Pleas Court. He asked a divorce from Louise C. Simpkins, Oakmont, charging desertion, saying his wife and their furniture were gone from their home when he returned from a visit to Altoona in April, 1926. They were married in September, 1922.

Fashion Has a Feather in Her Hat

There's a feather or two in many of the smartest new millinery creations—and in keeping with fashion's way of avoiding monotony these feathers take the guise of pert bows, of complete bands, or of interesting ornaments that add their softening influence over the brow. In these three popular price groups you'll find brimmed and unbrimmed hats in the newest outlines . . . in wine, reds, soft browns, green, blue and black.

$5 $7.50 $10

. . . Horne's Millinery Salons, Fourth Floor . . .

Silver Fox . . . Baum Marten and Hudson Bay Sable in a Sale of

$50 $60 $70

You've never seen the like—full, luxurious pelts, exquisitely marked and shaded, at the lowest price we have ever offered such exquisite qualities. Make the most of your fall dresses, your suits and untrimmed coats by varying the neckline with these lovely scarfs. Baum Marten and Sable scarfs have two skins, and each silver fox pelt is fashionably large.

. . . Horne's, Second Floor . . .

There's a Distinctive Trimming Touch on Each of These!

Misses' Dresses

$16.75

Puffed sleeves of softest velvet, narrow collars of ermine, fur-banded scarfs, cire braid from shoulder to cuff and rows of bright nailheads on dark crepes—these are some of the very unusual trimming ideas that make their appearance on new fall frocks. Heavy canton crepes and the newer rough silks are the background materials for these smart details. Sizes 12 to 20.

. . . Horne's, Second Floor . . .

Those Smart New Pouches

With Bright Initials

They give that stamp of individuality and distinction to your handbag . . . and lend a touch of brightness to your whole costume—these shiny nickel initials on big, roomy, swagger pouches. Of Elga cloth, one of the fashionable lined with a smart, new corded silk. One of a most interesting collection, at $3.00.

. . . Horne's, Main Floor . . .

Junior-Misses' Frocks of Ostrich Wool

$10.75

A new woolen fabric that's tremendously popular, especially with the younger crowd that is concerned with good looking clothes that have a practical future and lots of dash, as well. The dress illustrated, which comes in brown, red and green, has collar and cuffs of the new pebbly sharkskin silk. Sizes 11 to 17.

. . . Horne's, Second Floor . . .

Dressy Gloves

$1.00

Tucks and scallops and novel cuffs conspire to give that elaborate touch that simple fall costumes require! And they're as practical as they are lovely, being of fine quality double-woven fabrics that wear and launder well. Brown, navy, beige, smoketone, and gray.

. . . Horne's, Main Floor . . .

NEWS DRAMAS ON AIR

Radio Stars In 4 New Features

Augmenting the ever-growing list of new and resumed programs for the fall and winter seasons, four regular features go on the air today.

The "March of Time" realistic dramatizations of the outstanding current events return to a Columbia network, including WJAS, tonight at 8:30. At 6:45 over the same facilities, the Columbia Guest Revue makes its debut. Vivian Janis, attractive young blonde contralto; William O'Neil, "New Moon" satellite; Phil Regan, tenor, and Caspar Reardon, harpist, are tonight's entertainers, with Freddie Rich's orchestra.

Miss Janis

The fall edition of "To the Ladies," with Leon Belasco's orchestra, Evan Evans, baritone, and David Ross' poetic readings, is scheduled on WJAS at 9:30, extending its time from 15 minutes to a half hour. This morning at 11, Harry Sosnik and Bill Moss, the "Magic Piano Twins," open a new two-piano series via the same chain and local outlet.

Mario Chamlee, one of the greatest of American-trained singers, formerly leading tenor of the Metropolitan and Ravinia opera companies, comes to the microphone for the first of a series of guest appearances with the "Chocolateers" over an NBC network and KDKA tonight at 8 o'clock.

A special musical review of favorite compositions by the KDKA Concert Orchestra, directed by Zoel Parenteau, is presented in conjunction with the sixty-fourth anniversary celebration of Rosenbaum's from the studios of KDKA tonight at 8:30. An address by Walter Rosenbaum, vice president and treasurer of the company, and son of the founder, is a highlight of the broadcast. Elsie Lichtenstuhl, KDKA stylist, is mistress of ceremonies.

Program Pointers

Cornelia Otis Skinner, talented young stage star and monologist, and daughter of the internationally known actor, Otis Skinner, makes her second appearance on the Kodak Week-end Hour on WJAS tonight from 9 to 9:30. Miss Skinner, who last was heard on the program in May, offers one of her original monologues, "Homework." The musical portion of the presentation is provided by Nat Shilkret's orchestra, the male quartet and Thelma Kessler, soprano.

Miss Skinner

What the smart co-ed will wear this fall on the campus is the topic of a talk by Grace Darling, fashion consultant, on WCAE at 6:25.

"Filibuster," the story of a romance that thrived through a Cuban revolution and of a young American looking for excitement, is enacted for First Nighter audiences on KDKA at 9.

"Everyone Says I Love You," from the Marx Brothers' new film, "Horsefeathers," is a Leo Reisman highlight on WCAE at 9:30.

Walt, Dutch and their pal, Clem, five-a-week broadcasters on WWSW, present their one hundredth program at 5:45 today.

"Cachuka," a Spanish dance for orchestra by Muriel Pollock, NBC pianist-composer, is played for the first time by Rosario Bourdon's orchestra with Miss Pollock at the piano, during the civic concert on WCAE at 8 o'clock. Jessica Dragonette and the Cavaliers' Quartet contribute the vocal highspots.

Globe-Trotter On Air at 6:15

In order than WCAE tennis fans may tune in on resumes of the day's developments in the Men's National Tennis Championship Tournament by Sigmund Spaeth and George Hicks, Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, is heard at 6:15 instead of 6:30 tonight. His other broadcasts today are scheduled as usual at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m. and 2:30 p. m.

James J. Long, sports columnist of the Sun-Telegraph, gives an authoritative and complete resume of sports activities, both local and national, during his weekly sports talk on WCAE tonight at 7 o'clock.

Paul Gannon, tenor, and the Lawson Sisters, popular harmony duo, are co-starred with an orchestra directed by David Levin and Pat Haley, master of ceremonies, on the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club program on WCAE at 11 p. m.

Honeymooning Mimics

Listening In— More Thrills; Radio Commuter; Television Girl

Elsie Hitz, the charming CBS actress, who already has gained plenty of experience in escaping arch criminals in radio plays, is slated for more trials and tribulations in a series of blood-curdling episodes with a sinister underworld chief known only as "The Octopus," beginning Monday night on WJAS . . . Helen Wentzell, concert pianist, heard on KDKA today at 4:45, commutes from Greensburg for her broadcasts . . . Billy Jones is all worried because he recently shot a 76 on a New York golf course . . . but then, he's signed up for a game with his sponsor next week.

Miss Wentzell

How would you like to have a husband who could (if he wanted) call up and tell you, in his boss' voice, that he had to work late at the studio? Well, that's the Betty Webb-Ward Wilson sityation.

Did you know that the perfect television girl must have fairly large features and her eyes must be set wide apart? And that television stars must paint their lips, eyebrows and eyelids green? That the skin is coated with brown greasepaint? That the eyebrows must be painted closer to the eyes than they actually are? And that red doesn't televize at all? The trying qualifications in make-up are due to distorting in the broadcast.

Doubling in voices is taboo on the Myrt and Marge programs.

Jimmie Melton, who's said to look so much like Buddy Rogers that he's always being mistaken for him, is deserting his penthouse for a home in the country.

Frank Munn studied mechanical engineering and was headed for a career with a motor car firm when a foreman heard him sing. The foreman was pleased. So Munn decided that his voice would please anyone if it pleased the foreman and right away abandoned motors for music.

June Pursell treasures a white teddy bear given her by the famous Anna Held, who always carried it when she sang "Come Along With Me and Be My Teddy Bear."

Ralph Kirbery relaxes before those midnight broadcasts of his by attending the movies.

Safe Pleasant Way To Lose Fat

How would you like to lose 15 pounds of fat in a month and at the same time increase your energy and improve your health?

How would you like to lose your double chin and your too prominent hips and at the same time make your skin so clean and clear that it will compel admiration?

How would you like to get your weight down to normal and at the same time develop that urge for activity that makes work a pleasure and also gain in ambition and keenness of mind?

Get on the scales today and see how much you weigh—then get a bottle of Kruschen Salts, which will last you for 4 weeks and costs but a trifle. Take one-half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—cut down on pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—and when you have finished the contents of this first bottle weigh yourself again.

Now you will know the pleasant way to lose unsightly fat and you'll also know that the 6 salts of Kruschen have presented you with glorious health.

To take off fat harmlessly and SAFELY, take Kruschen every morning—don't worry—it's the SAFE way to reduce.

But be sure for your health's sake that you ask for and get Kruschen Salts. Get them at any druggists in the world and if the results one bottle brings do not delight you—do not joyfully satisfy you—why, money back.

BEATEN, GETS 'MY PAL' FREE

J. L. McAvoy, of 72 Belvidere street, Crafton, is sure of his job. His employer said so in Central Police Court where both were arraigned charged with disorderly conduct.

Morris Hill, 24, who identified himself as president of the U. S. Slicing Machine Company, of Chicago, employer of McAvoy, and who had a blackened eye, split lip and a cut on the ear, said to have been inflicted by McAvoy, told Magistrate T. D. Jones:

"He's my pal and his job is there as long as he wants it."

The testimony was that the two had been at a party and McAvoy had taken Hill to a downtown hotel, where Hill was registered. An argument started, and Hill was stretched on the lobby floor when police arrived.

Plant Worker Dies Of Heart Attack

John Goloski, 38, of 3025 Pulaski way, a laborer at the H. J. Heinz plant, North Side, died of heart disease soon after reporting for work today, the Coroner was notified.

RADIATOR FIRM SALE UPHELD

Federal Judge R. M. Gibson approved the sale of the properties of the National Radiator Corporation, of Johnstown, by receivers of the corporation to a reorganization committee, and dismissed exceptions made by minority creditors. The corporation was placed in receivership last fall to conserve assets and facilitate reorganization, it was said.

The properties were purchased at $2,550,000 at a public sale in New Castle on August 8 by representatives of the reorganization committee, which consists of Rudolph B. Flershem, of Buffalo, N. Y.; John H. Waters, of Johnstown; Charles O. Cornell, of New York, and Frank B. Cahn, of Baltimore, Md.

Under the reorganization the company will continue under the same name and management, according to Mr. Waters, who is president of the radiator corporation. According to Mr. Waters final details of reorganization are nearing completion. The corporation has plants in New Castle, Pa.; Chicago, Dunkirk and Tonawanda, N. Y., and Trenton, N. J.

SCHOOL BOARD SEEKS CUT IN TAXES

Efforts are to be made by the Board of Public Education to reduce the school millage for 1933, Attorney N. R. Criss, chairman of the finance committee, said today.

Perhaps a slight reduction in the present rate, 11⅞ mills, may be made, he declared, but it depends largely on the success of tax collections between now and November, he continued.

"The prospect for any substantial reduction is not so good. It requires $15,000,000 a year to operate the schools and we are required by law to make certain levies. It takes $9,145,000 to pay teachers' salaries and that necessitated a levy this year of 6.51 mills plus 2.24 mills for interest on bonds and sinking fund charges. This makes a total of 8¾ mills. The law then provides that for all other purposes we shall levy a tax of not less than 3 mills, nor more than 3½ mills, so you see we do not have much leeway."

Criss called attention to the teachers voluntarily accepting a 10 per cent salary reduction and that the board had reduced all employes the same. He added:

"We will save $1,100,000 by this action, but only get the benefit for four months this year and six months in 1933. The Legislature, however, may give us some relief in 1933. In fact the Legislature should make the cut obligatory for the next two years at least. By 1933 we them would know more about conditions and could be governed accordingly."

Attorney Criss said the board had to cut into last year's balance of $800,000 in order to operate the schools this year.

Store Thieves Take Only Paired Shoes

Thieves who early today broke a large plate glass window of a Sharpsburg shoe store and stole men's shoes values at $60, were very particular in their selection, the store proprietors reported.

Bluemling Brothers, of 922 Main street, Sharpsburg, discovered on arrival this morning, the broken window which they valued at $300 and a large padded stone on the inside of the window. Only pairs of shoes were taken, the unmated shoes were untouched, they said. Sharpsburg police are investigating.

City Inspects New Boulevard Project

Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang and Chief Engineer Charles M. Reppert today inspected Saw Mill Run boulevard extension, from the Wabash Railroad at Woodruff street to Banksville road. The new thoroughfare, 1,000 feet long, is an Allegheny County project. In a few days it will be turned over to the city.

Fall From Freight Causes Man's Death

A man tentatively identified as Charles Porter, 50, "address unknown," died last night in Allegheny General Hospital from a skull fracture suffered Wednesday when he fell from a moving freight train of the Pennsylvania Railroad in Millvale, the coroner's office reported. The victim was said to have been stealing a ride on the train.

Country Lassies Curvy, 'City Gals' Healthy

ST. PAUL, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—The country girls have more curves and are heavier, but the city girls are healthier.

So said one of a dozen physicians who aided in examining 84 Minnesota farm girls, competing for the 4-H Club health championship at the state fair here yesterday.

STORE FOR MEN OPENED

Pittsburgh's newest men's wear store, 418 Sixth avenue, owned by Murray and Von Hedemann was in full swing today following its formal opening that attracted a throng, yesterday.

Modern fixtures, furnishings and lighting effects, the new store, opposite the Nixon Theater, leaves nothing undone to make shopping convenient and comfortable not only for men, but for women who may be seeking gifts for men. Only clothing, hats and haberdashery of the best makers would be shown, the management announced.

3 POLICE FREED IN BOY'S DEATH

MINEOLA, N. Y., Sept. 9.—(AP.)—The prosecution's second attempt to pin the "third-degree" killing of Hyman Stark, young robbery suspect, on a deputy police chief and two detectives ended in defeat early today, when a weary jury acquitted the three men of manslaughter after 13 hours' deliberation. Their first trial ended in a jury disagreement August 28.

The defendants were Deputy Chief Frank J. Tappen and Detectives Leslie Pearsall and Harry Zander. Assault charges are still pending against Pearsall and Zander and eight other policemen in connection with Stark's death. District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards charged that the youth, arrested for the robbery and beating of Detective Joseph Hizenski's mother, was beaten to death for "revenge."

Stark died in police headquarters July 15 of suffocation attributed to a fractured larynx. District Attorney Edwards, who had called Stark's treatment "savage brutality," left the courtroom without making a statement.

Mexican Quakes Level Many Towns

GUADALAJARA, Mexico, Sept. 9.—(INS.)—A score of small towns in the state of Jallsco were laid waste by a series of earthquake shocks today.

OLD PENSIONS NOT TO BE CUT

Only new pensioners will be affected by the proposed police pension cut from $86 to $50 monthly, it was agreed at a hearing today on injunction proceedings to restrain the Police Pension Fund Association from putting the reduction into operation.

Pensioners on the roll before July 1, when the resolution was adopted, would not be cut, counsel for both sides informed the court, Judges James R. Macfarlane, Elder W. Marshall and James H. Gray reserved decision and asked for briefs. A temporary injunction is in effect and the arguments were on whether it should be made permanent.

Grand Jury Indicts Negro in Slaying

William Rosemond, Negro, 439 Water street, today stood indicted by the county grand jury for the murder of Thomas Humber, Negro, 306 Hemar street, whom he is alleged to have shot April 22.

ASKS FOR CASH, KILLS SELF

A few hours after he had sent a telegram to his son asking for money, police said, Andrew Albers, 56, a lodger at 225 East General Robinson street, shot himself to death.

Albers' lifeless body with four bullet wounds was found fully clothed, across his bed, when police, summoned by Walter Searle, rooming house keeper, broke into his room.

Searle told police, Albers, a restaurant counter man, had gone to his room last night after saying to him:

"I've just sent my son in Cincinnati a telegram asking for money. If I don't get some pretty soon I won't be here long."

From an almost undecipherable note found near his body, police said they learned the man apparently was despondent over the death of his wife.

FIREMEN STILL ON STRIKE

ARNOLD, Pa., Sept. 9.—Only a fire, it seemed today, can reveal the exact status of the members of No. 1 Volunteer Fire Company who have declared a strike.

Some say the firemen won't answer any alarms, others contend the volunteers would hardly stand by while flames roared.

The volunteers struck to have Drivers Charles Geisinger and Elmer Roberts, paid members of the company, reinstated. Roberts blames the dismissals on borough politics.

Councilman Bart Dattola today refused to agree that the drivers had been dismissed. He explained they simply had not been re-elected.

Peanut Crop Fight Fatal, Pastor Held

ENTERPRISE, Fla., Sept. 9.—(AP.)—The Rev. Will T. Miller, 52-year-old minister and farmer, was arrested yesterday and charged with slaying the son of a tenant and wounding another man with a shotgun during an altercation on his farm.

Officers said Albert Carroll, 20, was killed and his uncle, Lewis Carroll, wounded, as they, with Robert Carroll, father of the slain youth, engaged in a disagreement with Miller over division of a peanut crop.

HIRED DRIVER DESERTS PARTY

Stranded in Wilkinsburg when the driver of an automobile in which they were traveling from Cleveland to New York disappeared while they were at dinner, three men today awaited the arrival of another machine from Cleveland to continue their trip.

Police intimated the quartet may have been victims of a new racket developing in the East. They said drivers of machines planning cross-country trips seek passengers to share expenses. After a day or so on the road, police said, the driver leaves his passengers stranded.

The passengers, A. C. Lebenburger, of Cleveland, Larry Clark and William Sadovsky, both of New York, told Wilkinsburg police they engaged A. C. Heuer, of Cleveland to drive them to New York. In Wilkinsburg, Heuer was reported to have disappeared with the luggage of the passengers, and a coat belonging to Miss Janet Leckie, a fourth passenger, also of Cleveland. Miss Leckie returned to Cleveland by bus.

They said they had engaged the machine from an auto travel service, with headquarters in Cleveland. Early today a telegram from the travel service advised them another machine was being sent to continue the journey.

Professor Quizzed In Auto Crash Death

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 9.—(AP.)—A University of Indiana professor is being held for questioning regarding a collision of his automobile, a motorcycle and a truck which brought death to Robert Johnson, of Bethlehem, Pa.

En route home to Bloomington, Ind., with his wife, Jacob Baddertscher, professor of anatomy at Indiana, collided his car with Johnson's motorcycle late yesterday. The two machines crashed into a truck.

Appeal for Blood To Save Clergyman

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—An appeal for blood was made among his former parishioners today for the Rev. Dr. Alonzo Ray Petty, former pastor of the Grace Baptist Temple here and the Judson Memorial Baptist Church in New York.

Dr. Petty became ill while on a vacation in New Hampshire a few weeks ago. He since has undergone two blood transfusions.

Youth Gets Life In Marshal Slaying

BOWLING GREEN, O., Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Bert Storey, 20, was convicted yesterday of first degree murder in the slaying of Marshal Jay N. Davis, of North Baltimore, O., in a holdup last July 8. He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

WESTINGHOUSE BRIDGE OPENS TOMORROW

The George Westinghouse Bridge, a memorial to one of the nation's greatest inventors, and a public improvement that will benefit the whole country will be dedicated tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

When H. H. Westinghouse, chairman of the board of the Westinghouse Airbrake Company, and brother of the famous industrialist, cuts the ribbons, signifying the opening of the bridge tomorrow, four-fifths of the 8,000 autos and trucks using the Lincoln highway, will be saved the long, tedious trip through the industrial boroughs of East Pittsburgh and Turtle Creek.

TOWNS DECORATED

Towns of the Turtle Creek Valley, over which the bridge passes at an elevation of more than 200 feet, have been gaily decorated for the ceremonies attending the dedication.

The exercises are to be in the center of the bridge, where a stand has been erected and where former Gov. John S. Fisher and Gov. Gifford Pinchot will deliver addresses, along with A. W. Robertson, chairman of the board of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company; County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern and J. Lysle Stuart, former Secretary of the Pennsylvania Highway Department.

The Rt. Rev. Alexander Mann, bishop of the Pittsburgh Episcopal diocese, will pronounce the invocation and A. L. Humphrey will preside. Massed bands of the electric and airbrake companies will give a concert for an hour prior to the dedication.

BOY SCOUTS AID

Amplifiers will enable persons on the surrounding hills as well as those on the bridge to hear the speakers. Several hundred Boy Scouts will aid the county police force under Capt. Rucker, in handling the crowd.

The bridge, which is more than a quarter mile in length, cost $1,750,000 and is built of reinforced concrete. Other improvements made necessary by the bridge construction and relocation of roads, brought the total cost of the improvement to approximately $4,000,000. It is estimated 8,000 cars can be moved in an hour over the highway. The cost was borne by the state and county.

TEACHERS WILL MEET ONE DAY

Although the regular five-day Allegheny County Teachers' Institute was not held this year, a substitute one-day conference will be held Saturday, September 17, in Memorial Hall. C. E. Dickey, superintendent of county schools, said today:

"We could not afford the regular institute which had been held annually for the past 81 years. Also, for the first time in more than 40 years, the teachers will have to attend without pay."

The institute will be attended by superintendents, principals and the 2,600 county teachers. In the morning talks will be given by Dr. Edwin W. Chubb, of Ohio University and Dr. Edwin W. Adams, associate superintendent of schools in Philadelphia. In the afternoon Dr. Adams will speak on "Changing the School Curriculum to Meet Changing Social Conditions," and Dr. Chubb on the "Education of Great Men."

The institute will close with a speech by Dr. Joseph Rosier, president of the National Education Association, on "Character Education in Modern Schools."

Two Women Leave Estates to Relatives

An estate valued at $10,000 was left by Mrs. Lydia A. Kennedy, of Tarentum, to her son, Clarence E. Kennedy, named executor, and his children, by her will, probated yesterday.

The $5,000 estate of Bertha Schetat, North Side, was left to four nephews.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

Before we start chatting about travel, trouble, music, art, to use Dorothy Parker parlance, I want to remind you that one of Sewickley's girls is about to wed, Mary Ernst Cooper.

Mary, who's the daughter of the Howell C. Coopers, of Sewickley, will marry Robert Robb, son of Judge and Mrs. Charles H. Robb, of Washington, on Saturday, you know. And I want to mention a detail or two I've just heard about.

First of all, the ceremony is to take place tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in quaint St. Barnabas' Episcopal Church in Falmouth, Mass., where the Coopers have their summer home.

And Elizabeth Odell, of Sewickley, will be one of the bridesmaids, and Charles William Cooper, brother of the bride-of-tomorrow, will be one of the ushers.

Debutante Dinner

At last the debutante whirl is about to start, or should one say, this year the debutante's waltz?

For the pace is going to be more sedate this year, but there are advantages. For this year the debutante's waltz? portunity to make ever so many new friends at the less formal parties to be given for the buds this winter.

All this is leading up to the item that the Lewis A. Parks, of Sewickley Heights, will give a dinner in their home a week from tonight for Nancy Byers. And the guests will be members of the debutante set.

Nancy is the daughter of the J. Frederic Byerses, of Sewickley Heights, I hardly need add.

To Start Bridges

Now that there's more than a hint of fall in the air, many outdoor folks are turning their attention to that good old winter sport, bridge.

The Pittsburgh Country Club, Beechwood boulevard, will open its bridge season Tuesday with a monthly bridge luncheon in the clubhouse.

And Mrs. H. T. Aufderheide, who has become a bridge teacher, will be there to answer questions, and to chat about a series of interesting hands to be played at the ensuing parties during the winter.

Mrs. Aufderheide has, by the way, a short-cut-method for hand evaluation.

Mrs. C. E. Lott, who's chairman of the club's bridge events, tells me that many of the young folks will attend this opening meeting so that they may carry away a new bridge wrinkle or so to college.

Just as we get all excited thinking enough people of the smart set will be in town soon so there'll be a quorum of the '400," I hear of someone who is just going away.

The Frank J. LeMoynes have left for Eatons' Ranch in Wyoming, and will not be home until October.

October is becoming an even more popular time, have you noticed, for the smart set to return to town than the after-Labor-Day date?

The J. Frank Drakes and their popular young daughters, Virginia and Constance, have postponed the closing of their Hyannisport (Mass.) home until October. And Mrs. George W. J. Bissell is staying on a few weeks at her Hyannisport home, too. I think they are all planning on Indian summer days at the resort.

I do know of some folks who are returning, though. The Maitland Alexanders. They and their family, including Madelaine, who made her debut last winter, will be home this weekend. They've been abroad for some time.

To Return This Week

Mrs. Alexander's brother-in-law and sister, the William Christopher Robinsons, have just left for Europe. And with them went Mary Franklin, sub-deb Althea and the Robinsons' son and daughter-in-law, the junior W. C. Robinsons. But they'll be back in a month or so.

* * *

With all this discussion about who's arriving and who's departing, I've almost forgotten to mention that the Richard Ernst Clemsons, of Pasadena drive, Fox Chapel, have a young daughter who is over a week old. Christina Lynn Clemson. Christina made her debut into this world on August 31 at the Magee Hospital.

Elders Going to School Too—to Learn Bridge

With all the young folks starting to school soon, some of their elders decided to go to school, too—to bridge school. The first session will be held Wednesday in the Hotel Schenley with the opening at night.

E. Hall Downes and Mrs. R. J. Burnes will lecture. The club will be open at all times for rubber play.

On the board of this bridge club, in addition to the instructors, will be Mrs. Karl W. Warmcastle, who is chairman of women's golf, by the way, at the Pittsburgh Field Club, and Mrs. Henry J. Bailey.

On Wednesday and Sunday each week there'll be duplicate bridge games with occasional special duplicate matches.

Miss Beatrice Stewart To Marry S. M. Fischer

Miss Augusta Ellis To Marry on Saturday

The wedding of Miss Augusta Willoughby Gage Ellis, of East Hampton, L. I., and Royal Little, of Brookline, Mass., will take place on Saturday afternoon in St. Luke's Church, East Hampton.

Miss Ellis, granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Ellis, of Philadelphia, has made her summer home here for several years.

Mr. Little is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Little, of Brookline, Mass. Many relatives and friends from Philadelphia, Boston and New York will attend the ceremony, which will be followed by a reception at the bride's residence.

Miss Ellis will give a dinner-dance on Friday at the Devon Yacht Club for the visiting wedding guests.

Mr. and Mrs. William Carter Dickerman will be hosts on Saturday at a buffet luncheon for Miss Ellis and Mr. Little before the ceremony.

Pittsburgh Girl Honor Guest at Miami Bridge

Miss Margaret Thuma, a member of the Pennsylvania society of Miami, entertained at her home on Tamiami Trail, Miami, at a bridge luncheon, Thursday last. The honor guest was Miss Grace E. Latus, of Pittsburgh, and the guest list included Pittsburghers visiting or living in the southern city.

They were Miss Alice and Miss Nova Negley, Miss Anna Kehl, Mrs. J. Kehl, Mrs. Nellie Quinn Flinn, Mrs. Grayce D. Latus, Miss Viola Gauthier, Mrs. Irwin Mathews, Mrs. E. I. Harris, Mrs. Fred Ingley, Jr., Mrs. Thomas McDougall, Miss Bessie Hilgenberg, Miss Lillie Moreland and Mrs. Mabelle Young. A profusion of flowers from the gardens of the hostess formed the centerpiece and favors.

Pittsburgh Folk Give Parties At Summit

The Summit Hotel, Uniontown, is popular with Pittsburghers, who frequently entertain there.

A birthday party held there recently in honor of Miss Jeanette Milliken, of Verona, was attended by Miss Tillie McWilliams and Miss Peggy Gaines, of Oakmont, and Miss Elizabeth Nichols and Miss Ida E. Lucas, of Pittsburgh.

Girl's Service League To Hold Fashion Show

A fashion show in aid of unemployed girls will be held Tuesday by the Girls' Service League of New York at the summer home of Mrs. Henry S. Glazier, in Elberon, N. J.

The league last year assisted several thousand young women, most of whom were without work, by giving them food and lodging. To other girls were given helpful training, employment when possible, physical care when it was necessary, guidance and recreation.

A PARIS FAVORITE—THREE COLORS COMBINED IN A SINGLE OUTFIT

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Sept. 9.—Here is another proof that Paris still likes three colors combined in a single costume—a new autumn dress-and-coat ensemble planned by Elsa Schiaparelli. Just how subtly colors must be combined to avoid banality is illustrated by the fact that neither dress, nor fur nor coat, when worn by themselves, require any color to complete them; yet all three are very much in harmony when worn together.

THERE IS nothing familiar in the colors used—light, olivish green, chocolate brown, and the reddish yellow of red fox. The coat is of the brown, a soft yet light-weight woolen; the dress is of heavy silk in a pronounced crepe weave, and is in an unusual olive tone, with no contrast of color anywhere.

THE DRESS itself is interesting for its cut as well as its color. It combines both bias and straight lines—bias around the shoulders, waist and hips, where the fabric should cling to the figure, and straight from the hips down, where the skirt should hang in smooth slim lines. The entire dress is in the wrap-around manner, put on like a coat—but backwards—and fastens with clips the color of the dress, at the right-back.

* * *

THE COAT has no fastening, but wraps around the figure, with only a slight double-breasted effect. Shoulder seams run down, and not around, the arms. Neither dress nor coat are belted.

Newlyweds Will Enter University of Ohio After Honeymoon

A recent bride and bridegroom are to enter the University of Ohio when they return from their wedding trip, to obtain their master's degrees. The bride was Miss Mary Elizabeth Waugh, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James A. Waugh, of Pittsburgh, who married Burnham William King, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Burnham William King, of Clearview road, Cleveland, at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, August 21, in the home of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Waugh, of Conniston avenue, South Hills, with the Rev. T. LeRoy Hooper, pastor of the Protestant Methodist Church of Knoxville, officiating. The ceremony took place before an altar of palms, ferns and pink and white roses.

The bride wore a gown of ivory chiffon, molded to the figure to the knees, flaring in innumerable godets to the floor, and fashioned with a double cape collar banded with ruffles. Her small hat was of white and her bouquet was of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Katherine Waugh, of Tucson, Ariz., as her sister's maid of honor, wore shell pink chiffon and carried roses shading from pale to deep pink. Patrick Kave, of Erie, Pa., served as best man.

After the wedding dinner, Mr. and Mrs. King, Jr., left for a motor trip through Canada.

The bride is a graduate of the School of Fine Arts, Carnegie Institute of Technology, class of 1931, and is a member of the Associated Artists of Pittsburgh and of Beta Tau Lambda.

East Brady Girl, Pittsburgher Betrothed

At a dinner last evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Wallace, of East Brady, announcement was made of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Charlotte Wallace to Lewis C. Richards, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis C. Richards, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis C. Richards, of Shady avenue.

Kathleen Richey Is Married to W. J. McGregor

Mrs. Elvira D. Richey, of Irwin, formerly of Wilkinsburg, announces the marriage on Saturday of her daughter, Miss Kathleen O. Richey, to William J. McGregor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart S. McGregor, of Foliage street, Wilkinskinsburg, which took place at 12:30 o'clock that day in the parlors of the Second Presbyterian Church of Wilkinsburg. Before an embankment of ferns and garden flowers, the Rev. Robert S. Steen, assistant pastor, solemnized the marriage.

The bride wore a frock of powder blue crinkle crepe with a French turban and slippers to match and carried Johanna Hill roses and baby's breath. Miss Isabel McGregor, cousin of the bridegroom, played the wedding music, and Robert McGregor, brother of the bridegroom, and Arthur Deemer, ushered.

Mr. and Mrs. McGregor left for a brief wedding trip after which they will reside in Highland avenue, Cheswick, Pa.

D. A. R.'s Benefit Card Party On Oct. 3

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

An important date, both socially and in a club way, which has just been announced, is Monday, October 3, when the Pittsburgh Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will hold its annual benefit card party.

Each year the chapter gives this one big event, the proceeds from which are used for patriotic education of the Children of the Republic Clubs, those fast-growing groups of foreign born or underprivileged children whose feet the Daughters set in paths of Americanism. There are now 26 of these clubs.

The benefit, by the way, is to take place, as usual at the Hotel Schenley, and this year will be under the chairmanship of Mrs. Moses Atwood.

Cabinets to Hold Conference at Central 'Y'

Preparatory to the opening of the year's activities, the executive cabinet of the Central Branch, Y. M. C. A., business girls' department and the cabinets of the clubs will hold an all-day setting-up conference on Sunday. Miss Jane Maxwell, president of the executive cabinet, will preside at the conference sessions and introduce Mrs. William J. Gilmore, chairman of Central Branch committee of management, who will conduct the devotional period at 9 o'clock.

"The Place of the Y. W. C. A. in the Community" will be presented by Miss Edith O. Sawyer, general secretary of the branch. Miss Hellen D. Asher, education secretary, will speak on present world affairs and other items on the morning agenda are "Publicity," by Miss Dorothy Naumann and "How Recreation Re-creates" by Dr. Irene Davis Ferguson. "Developing Inner Spiritual Resources" is the topic upon which Miss Esther M. Hawes, executive secretary of the Y. W. C. A. in Pittsburgh, will speak.

Preceding the cabinet meetings of the individual clubs, Miss Elizabeth Crafts will tell "What Makes a Good Program."

Recreation features will be led by Miss Helen Diehl, director of health education. Special music and group singing is under the direction of Mrs. Irene Griffin Gros. Mrs. Helen A. Rush, executive of the business girl's department, is working with the executive cabinet in conference arrangements.

What Do You Know About STAMP COLLECTING?

Do you know that there are 5,000,000 Stamp Collectors—young and old, men and women, rich and poor—in the United States?

Do you know that Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt and President Hoover are both ardent Stamp Collectors? Do you know that Stamp Collecting is the fastest-growing hobby and one of the most interesting studies in the world?

Does it occur to you that postage stamps are works of art, classics in engraving, and that the pictures on stamps indelibly illustrate people, events and countries of importance?—that they give you facts about geography, history, science, industry, adventure and discovery?

Do you know that the United States has issued twelve airmail stamps since 1918 and that next month a new 8-cent airmail stamp will be released to conform with the new airmail rate of postage?

Do you know that there will be two new United States 3-cent stamps commemorative of William Penn and Daniel Webster issued next month?

What is a cachet? Yes, this is the newest fad in stamp collecting. The collecting of cachets is sweeping the country like wildfire. Whether or not you are a stamp collector, you will be interested in this fascinating subject. There is a column for stamp collectors in the Sun-Telegraph every Sunday . . . and next Sunday you will be given the facts regarding several of the questions asked in this announcement, and also a list of dates for the new cachets. Sunday you will also be told how you can be among the very first to get the new Daniel Webster and William Penn stamps—long before they go on sale at the Pittsburgh Postoffice. And you will also be told how you can get a membership card for the Sunday Sun-Telegraph Stamp Collectors, which will entitle you to correspond with this club and get authentic information about stamps you want to know about.

And, by the way, if you don't boast of a hobby, try stamp collecting—it is fascinating, interesting and instructive.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

It must be a little difficult to be a Somebody, at that . . . I mean like Jimmy Walker or Rudy Vallee . . . To different groups they are idols, and that is achievement . . . They scale the heights until their ill-wishers can't stand it any more—and so there is nothing much to do but oblige the antagonizers and come down . . . Now comes Mr. McKee to govern the town and the gazettes embrace him affectionately . . . And they publish his photograph as well as his tribe's likenesses . . . And the comments are sugary, and his attributes are sung . . . That's because he hasn't accomplished much yet . . . Wonder how long it will take before he becomes important enough to aggravate others? . . . I mean others with power? . . . All of whom will proceed to grease his ladder . . . There will be dozens who will be annoyed because of favors Mr. McKee might not give—and then his slumbers will be restless and he will despise the luck that elevated him . . . Vallee's latest pebble-chucker is typical of the crowd that envies men who are favored by the Fates . . . His heckler prepared a tame book about Rudy, and the movie version of it also proved to be feeble . . . But as I witnessed the screen show aimed to belittle Vallee, all I kept thinking of was that Rudy was unquestionably important in the community and that his name-caller probably would never be considered good enough copy to have a book done about him! . . . And when I read that Jimmy might find it strange not to be called "Mayor" any more, I disagreed . . . For almost everywhere he was and still is affectionately known as Jimmy, and even Lindbergh isn't known as Charlie.

Fascinating tale, that one about the dentist . . . The man was riding on his horse in the park and fell . . . And after a long siege in the ailing room they decided he had lost his reason and confined him in an asylum . . . Where he would brood about his infant child whose face was marred by a birth-mark . . . And so one night he escaped and dashed for his home in the suburbs, where he took his baby and locked the door against his wife and all others . . . And when the police finally arrived and broke into the room they discovered the father using an electric needle on the child's face—erasing the ugly mark slowly and artfully. . . . And they didn't disturb him until he had completed the delicate job . . . And then they took him back to his cage, where he felt better because he knew that his girl would not be handicapped any more . . . Then—months later, it was argued that anyone who could perform such an operation successfully wasn't insane—and his release was effected . . . But the man was hardly normal—for shortly after he fouled his dentist pals while visiting their offices and thefted their precious metals . . . Well, I'm glad I've finally heard a plausible version of how the term "hoofer" originated . . . It appears that in the old minstrel days when those members of the troupe had to parade through the towns they played—they would moan: "I'm on the hoof tomorrow" . . . Hence "hoofer."

Master Brown, the prolific lyric-juggler and showman, prepares more sound philosophy in his songs than any other lyric lad I know . . . Not only does his wordage pack a punch, but invariably it contains uncommon sense . . . Prinstance, in his "Bowl-o'-Cherries" number, the pepigram I liked best was: "The sweet things in life to you are just loaned—so how can you lose what you've never owned?" . . . And in "Birth of the Blues" my pet lines were: "Then from a jail came the wail of a downhearted frail" . . . And the late Will D. Cobb was masterful at that sort of stuff . . . "Sunbonnet Sue, Sunbonnet Sue," he penned, "sunshine and roses run second to you" . . . An entire story in so few words . . . Billy Rose is another whose lyrics rate a warm spot with me. "I'll never know," he jingled, "what makes the grass so tall; I'll never know what makes the rain to fall—I only know there ain't no love at all—without a song!" . . . Other passages that will tell so much in a line include: "When our love was new and each kiss an inspiration"—from "Star Dust" . . . Cole Porter's "Love For Sale" packed this grand phrase: "Old love, new love—every kind but true love!" . . . And the most compelling of them all was Joe Howard's, "I wonder if she ever tells him of me, I wonder who's kissing her now?"

Cute crack at that when Lou Gehrig smacked those homers so the trailing Yankees could win . . . And a wag said: "Hmm, the Gehring Galeties." . . . And that bit of slang from the racetrack bookie, who when asked how he wound up the Saratoga season, said: "I got a Mexican draw" . . . Meaning, he added, that he "got away with his life," which seldom happens below the border . . . Wonder if Forty-second street will soon return to normalcy, as they seem to believe? . . . Probably will now that the Lyric Theater is seeking a legit musical and will snub the two-bit movie shows . . . "Forward March" is due at the Selwyn . . . "Clear All Wires" goes into the Times Square temple . . . "Humpty-Dumpty" will tenant at the Apollo . . . The Harris Theater will also house a big-timer and the New Amsterdam probably will get the Jack Buchanan piece . . . I'm glad . . . The odor of the one-time fascinating street kept me away from it for nearly a year and "42nd St. and Broadway" didn't mean anything glamorous any more . . . Gotta hand it to Master Jessel. . . . Throughout his adult career it was his misfortune to have failure after failure . . . Every flicker, every show and almost anything with which he was associated turned sour . . . And in spite of that jinx he now splits a weekly wage of $11,500 . . . Amusing if true. I mean the talk that Mickey Mouse, the star, will soon have a rival to be known as "Mockey Mouse."

Wonder which one of the "Forward March" cast will shine the night of the premiere? . . . The authors of the attraction decorated other unknowns in their previous pieces with such delightful stage stuff that before the final asbestos fell one of them crashed the Broadway heavens . . . Zelma O'Neal certainly wasn't sock material until "Good News" unfolded . . . And in "Follow Thru" Jack Haley was still an unknown quantity until that show was seen here . . . Kate Smith, too, delivered her initial wallop in the same author's "Flying High" . . . Harry Richman in "Scandals;" Bert Lahr in "Hold Everything" and never before had I heard or been thrilled by such an ovation as that which embraced another obscure player—Everett Marshall—in George White's most recent show . . . And so someone in the "Forward March" troupe is destined to glory . . . On paper the members of the cast are not so impressive but the authors are not alarmed . . . "Whoever heard of Everett Marshall," they argue, "before that eventful night?" . . . The magic lanterns are like that, too . . . The grand scenario-writing that made "The Kid" a compelling picture also lifted Jackie Coogan out of obscurity and so on . . . And Ethel Barrymore, the so-called First Lady of the Stage, who is unquestionably a capable actress, always appeared third-rate in second-rate plays.

Lift an Eyebrow, Be A Movie Star

A person who can elevate one eyebrow while the other stays undisturbed has the facial mobility required of a successful film actor, according to Fred Datig, casting director at Paramount's Hollywood studios. Only one person in 18 can do the trick. Of course, there are many other requirements—and obstacles.

FILM GOSSIP -:- Stories, Pictures of The Movie Great -:- STUDIO VIEWS

MGM to Film Story of Panics

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 9. Preparing now in Hollywood is a picture that may help the American public regain some of its lost perspective.

It is called "The Gold Spangled Banner," and it dramatizes all the panics since 1860. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, one of the shrewdest entertainment purveyors of them all, has recognized the story's great possibilities for drama, and has assigned Edgar Selwyn and Upton Sinclair to whip it into shape for production.

If their labors bear fruit the picture will be made into a special, a sort of American "Cavalcade;" though, of course, the two stories will have many points of difference.

Renee Adoree

In the last few weeks, the success of Columbia's "American Madness" has focussed the attention of producers on the world's unsettled finances as a source of motion picture plots. It likewise has pointed out a way to combine entertainment with useful propaganda.

Such a hit usually is all Hollywood needs.

Eager to get back into trim for film work, Renee Adoree is doing a mile hike every day . . . Now it's John Warburton that Estelle Taylor is going around with . . . Mary Eaton, former Ziegfeld star, will head a Fanchon and Marco revue here. Her husband, Millard Webb, has offers from British Gaumont to direct another series of pictures. William J. Gill, head of this English firm, is now on his way to Hollywood . . . Most original party in a long time is the film colony's verdict on the Gay Nineties revival by Florence Eldridge and Fredric March. The orchestra played all the old waltzes and there was much laughter at the costumes. Mary Pickford made an entrance on a bicycle built for two. David Selznick was a convincing Teddy Roosevelt in rough-rider costume. Blazers, quaint straw hats, ostrich plumes on every hand. And the mustaches wouldn't stay on . . . Joan Marsh and Don Alvarado were at the Cocoanut Grove the other evening dancing to the music of Xavier Cugat's Tango Band.

Happiest girl in Hollywood today is Dorothy Jordan. Louis B. Mayer has given her permission to visit her home in Clarksville, Tenn. It's the first time she's been back in four years. Unwilling to waste any time in traveling, the star will fly to Virginia, where where she'll make a brief visit. Later on she'll go to New York to shop and see the plays.

And when her vacation is over, M. G. M. has some good roles in mind for her.

Bennett Belts Are Latest Vogue

There is such a thing this season as the Bennett belts! Constance has a collection of them which meets any and every need for such an accessory. And it's interesting to note that they are of metal, wood, or silver and gold kid. There are wide ones of the finest silver mesh, narrow ones of green gold mesh and a white one of squares of wood which is too smart for words on a black suit.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Humpty Dumpty," new musical comedy that will open the season in the Nixon Monday, will arrive in two parts. Tonight will come the physical portion of the production, in four baggage cars, together with the stage crew that will prepare everything so that there may be rehearsals Saturday night and Sunday. A special train, due to arrive at 7:15, daylight saving time, Saturday night, will bring the producers, Laurence Schwab and B. G. DeSylva, the stars, Lou Holtz, Ethel Merman and some 80 other members of the company. In addition there will be a number of persons prominent in the theater of New York, who will come to witness the premiere. The company has been rehearsing in New York for a month. A final dress rehearsal will take place Sunday night. It appears as if there would be considerable eclat to the Nixon's bow to the new theatrical year.

The Shuberts having given up their house in New Haven, the entire state of Connecticut is without a legitimate stage. . . . Ely Culbertson will make a series of short films, 12 or more, to be titled "How I Play Bridge," each to have a screen story. . . . Lionel Atwill has been signed for a role in "Wax Museum," screen adaptation of the Charles S. Belden novel that will be filmed entirely in color. . . . Katharine Hepburn, stage actress who has been in Hollywood to work with John Barrymore in "A Bill of Divorcement," will make two pictures a year hereafter and also will continue her stage work, after a vacation in Europe, for which she sails today. . . . James Cagney and Ann Dvorak, both of whom walked out on their bosses, the Warner Brothers, are carried on the list of stars and featured players just announced by the company. . . . Herbert Marshall and Edna Best, English actors, will depart from Hollywood about October 1, and sail for England to appear there in a Btirish production of the American play, "Another Language."

WILD AND TAME

Lupe Velez, wild girl, plays with three tame lion cubs during an off-moment from "Kongo" film.

Sheridan, Closed Today, Reopens Saturday

The Sheridan Square, East Liberty, formerly an RKO theater, will be closed today for alterations and repairs and will reopen tomorrow as a Warner Brothers house.

The opening attraction, under the new arrangement, will be "Guilty as Hell," with Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen. The policy will remain as before, with two changes weekly, opening each Saturday and Wednesday.

Mystery Film In Fulton

A murder mystery, "The Thirteenth Guest," heads the Fulton's bill. Although it has several interesting moments, the picture is not outstanding.

In its attempt to mystify and confuse the scenario seems to become tangled in its own plot and seeks madly to unravel itself. The process leaves much of the action pretty far up in the air. It is as though the chap who wrote the mystery developed a plot so thick he himself could not see through it.

It is clear that two murders are committed by some fiend who stands to gain in a material way. Ginger Rogers is the lady in the lead role. She is supported by J. Farrell MacDonald, cast as one of those amateur detectives to whom the police must go for a solution of any knotty problem in crime.

Ginger comes extremely close to being "snuffed out" by the killer, but the amateur detective rides up in his big automobile just in time. The killer is caught and Ginger finds that she has inherited something like a million dollars, which, by the way, was the thing the killer wanted for himself.

A Hearst Metrotone News and a short comedy completed the program.

Dickie Moore Is Film Veteran

Dickie Moore has spent a greater portion of his life in front of the cameras than any other player in the industry. Dickie has been on the screen all of his life, excepting the first six months. The 6-year-old actor began his career playing the part of John Barrymore as a child in "The Beloved Rogue." He now is appearing as Marlene Dietrich's son in "Blonde Venus."

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

BY MARK HELLINGER

The Windjammer

THAT'S WHAT they called him. The Windjammer. He was an old salt. And he was as tall as his stories, as old as yesterday's gossip, as thin as a Wall street alibi, and as poor as these similes. His face was framed with furry spinach, and he had two lovely brown teeth through which he spat with deadly aim.

Such a man was the Windjammer. If you want to meet him, you'll find him at most any time in the cider stube on Twelfth avenue in the shadow of the big docks. There he stands all day spinning stories to anyone caring to listen, and bumming drinks from anyone caring to pay.

When, by accident, I wandered from my customary haunts to the stube, the Windjammer nailed me the moment I entered.

"Wal," he roared, "we got company, folks. We got company. Bartender, shake up a malted milk for the gen'mun. His mains'l's ripped and he's shipping brine."

For a moment I felt that I had wandered into a rehearsal of one of next season's flops, but the Windjammer looked so true to life that I finally tottered to the bar and weakly drank the drink.

In a trice the Windjammer was at my side.

"I'll take the same, bartender," he bellowed. Then he spat neatly in the cuff of my trousers, and asked me what port I hailed from.

"Broadway," I murmured modestly.

"Broadway!" howled the Windjammer. "Fellas, this skinny son of a sea cook comes from Broadway! Hah!" He spat in the other cuff in disgust.

"Broadway," he repeated again. "That's the place where the girls come on the stage dressed in nuthin,' and the men are all sissies, and children drink ship paint and chase it down with bilge water. That's the place, ain't it, stranger?"

"The very same," I nodded. The Windjammer was beginning to bore me a bit, and I was anxious to leave.

But my new-found friend had other ideas. After he had knocked off his first quart, he parted his whiskers and started to tell stories. Ah, how that man could peel them off his tongue! Within five minutes, I realized that I was a helpless amateur, and that Baron Munchauser must at that very moment have broken all records for turning over in his grave.

"Well do I remember," he began, "of the days when fishing was fishing. We used to set our sails for the Gulf Stream and when the wind died down, we'd lasso the porpoises and get towed a few miles farther on our course.

"Fishing today," he went on, "is a layman's pastime. Now, down in the Gulf Stream we did fishing what was fishing.

"We used to drop anchor and shift off in longboats. When we got to a spot where the water was churning with sharks and barracuda, we'd throw big chunks of chewing tobacco overboard. Then we'd wait until the fish chewed 'em awhile. Of course, when they come up to spit, we'd whack 'em over the head with clubs and haul in."

I shook my head from side to side to recover, and ordered another round of double-strength malteds to keep from swooning. But the Windjammer was only warming up. Or perhaps he was oiling up. But then, too, oils well that ends well. So . . .

"I ain't never seed a sailor what could measure up to Diving Dawson," he continued. "He was the flightingest fisherman I ever knew. We shipped together once on the Molly D, out of Salem for the Grand Banks. We heard that a school of sperm whales was headin' south with the ice field, and whale oil was worth something in them days.

"Before we was two weeks out, Dawson had cracked two skulls up the folk'sl to keep in trim during the trip. The cap'n warned him that the Mollie D. was no place for foolin' and that the next time he killed anybody on board, he'd git chained in the brig.

"Wal, Dawson kept pretty quiet after that and only busted a few noses now and then, which nobody minded much. We got off the Grand Banks and cruised for a whole month without sighting anything.

"Finally the cap'n decided to return to Salem, but Dawson said he'd be danged if he'd go back empty-handed, so the skipper agreed to stay two more days. Wal, sir, the two days was about up when the lookout sighted a 90-footer a mile off the port bow and Dawson was all set for the kill.

"We got near and the whale dove. When he come up on the other side of us we fired the harpoon and nailed him. But he was a battler. He towed us for a whole day, and the skipper said he was takin' us off our course, so something had to be done. We sank more harpoons, but still that whale kept on.

"Finally, Dawson got sick of waitin', so he jumped overboard and crawled along the harpoon line until he reached the whale.

"There wasn't a man aboard the Mollie D. that would have given a plug of slightly used tobacco for Diving Dawson's life. He got on the whale's back and started to carve his initials in the thick hide when the whale tossed him over, and, quicker'n you could say Tobockenkofsky, his left arm was hanging off by a shred!

"Wal, strike me down if that there Dawson fella didn't pull the arm off and beat the whale to death with it! That I saw with me own glimmers."

I gasped for air. I reeled from side to side. The bartender hung his head in shame. Finally I recovered my alleged wits and turned to the Windjammer.

"Tell me," I whispered, "in all your days at sea, were you ever actually scared? I mean, did anything ever frighten you?"

The Windjammer shuddered. Before I could say anything, he had tossed off three more drinks and had now discarded the glass for the bottle.

Finally, he spoke. The wild bellowing was gone. His voice was a hoarse whisper.

"Once," he said. "Once I was scared. I had been sailing for forty year, man and boy, and we wuz headed through the Magellan Straits nicely, when the dangdest storm you ever heard of came up. It was night and the sky turned green. The wind played tunes on the masts. The sea looked like black mountains with snow on top.

"The skipper was at the wheel in the stern, and he had left his pipe up the folk'sl. The seas was running over the deck. He told me to get that pipe. For two hours I struggled to get up forward to get that pipe. Every wave dragged me a little further toward the rail. After two hours, I got the pipe and started back. Then a wave took me plumb overboard. They fished me back with hooks."

I looked up rather surprised. If he had been fished back safely, why was he so frightened, I asked him.

"Frightened!" he screamed. "I was plumb scared to death. It wasn't until I was out on those waves that I realized I never learned how to swim! . . .

The breaks are sometimes with motion picture producers! Just as the first reel in "Broadway Gossip," the series which Frank Selzer is producing for Educational, is scheduled for early release, two subjects included in this reel become hot, front page material. One clip concerns the loves of Rudy Vallee, with Fay Webb climaxing his affairs of the heart, while the other shows Mayor Walker at the piano at home, exemplifying the manner in which Jimmie prefers to spend his evenings.

Call it revolutionary, innovational or whatever you will—the fact remains that here is something we have long thought impossible—a *hand-tailored suit of clothes for 28.50. It is possible because of the great advances, born of necessity, made in manufacturing; and because the makers bought their woolens, linings—everything that goes into the making of a suit—at the recent rockbottom market. Just to read the appended list of hand-operations is enough to convince even the most case-hardened that here is indeed a new order of things in clothing manufacture. We invite you to come in to see these suits—and coin some new adjectives.

R. F. C. SPURNS PLEA OF PINCHOT TO CUT RED TAPE

DOUGLAS PLANS WHARF BATTLE IN COUNCIL

Offers $25,000 Yearly Rental for Site Bringing $4,500

John Douglas, Jr., who has thus far been successful in retaining possession of the disputed wharf site on the Allegheny River near the foot of Stanwix street for his new Union Sand Company, has declared he will take the wharf battle into City Council.

An offer of $25,000 a year rental for the former property of the Inland River Wharf Company at the Point has been made by letter to Council, Douglas declared.

Referring to another phase of the situation, Douglas today said:

"The 'big shot of the sand and gravel industry' today threatened to use physical force to force my removal from the wharf. So far, he has failed to make good his bluff. I stand ready to meet him at any time in the courts, on the wharf or in Hickey Park."

ACCUSES FIRM

The property is occupied by the Keystone Sand Company at a rental of $4,500 a year, Douglas declared. This firm is one of those which Douglas has accused of monopolizing the sand and gravel business and threatening to interfere with him in his attempts to establish a new company.

Douglas' new organization has the approval of the Hoisting Engineers' Union, now on strike at the postoffice, as he has promised to use union engineers on the sand and gravel hoists.

A clause in the Keystone Sand Company's lease provides that the city may take over the property at any time after August 1, 1927, Douglas declares. He offers to put up bond for payment of the larger rental.

A study of the ordinance, however, shows that the city only has the right to cancel the lease on one year's notice in writing, and then only when the property is required for municipal or public use.

SITE EQUIPPED

The site occupied by the Keystone Sand Company is equipped with cranes and sand and gravel bins. Douglas has suggested in his letter to Council that the city operate it as a municipal dock. He says he does not demand the exclusive use of the property but only enough of it to handle his sand and gravel trade.

There was no apparent progress today toward settling the postoffice strike. The union remained firm in its demands while the employers declared they had no right to insist on unionization of the sand and gravel companies on the rivers.

CROWDS AT ST. JOHN THE BAPTIST CATHOLIC CHURCH TODAY AS A BEREAVED CONGREGATION ATTENDED MASS FOR THE REV. FATHER JOHN P. JOYCE

FATHER JOYCE'S FUNERAL HELD

The Rt. Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, Bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Pittsburgh, participated in the funeral services today for the Rev. Father John P. Joyce, which were held in the St. John the Baptist Catholic Church, Liberty avenue, of which the Rev. Joyce was assistant pastor.

Throngs passed into the church and crowded outside the building as the solemn high requiem mass was said for the young priest who died from a heart attack while swimming in the Allegheny River near Oakmont Monday.

The body was brought from the home of his brother, Michael Joyce, 1770 Armanda street, Carrick, yesterday, to the church where it lay in state until this morning. Following the services, interment was held in Calvary Cemetery. More than 100 cars were in the funeral procession.

GRANT HEARING ON COAL RATES

Pittsburgh coal producers today took heart in their fight to restore a 10-cent differential in coal rates between Western Pennsylvania and Ohio mines and consumers when the Interstate Commerce Commission set October 4 as the date for a hearing on the proposed new schedule, to which the three Eastern trunk lines have objected.

Setting of the hearing reverses a decision yesterday which ordered the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad, which had declared its intention of restoring the low differential, to postpone the rate cut until next April. Prevention of the rate cut would mean loss of a market for 3,000 to 4,000 tons of coal, daily, for Western Pennsylvania mines.

Dispute arose when the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad cut the cost of hauling coal from Ohio mines to Ohio consumers from $1.74 per ton to $1.45. From Pennsylvania mines to Ohio consumers costs $1.84 per ton—formerly a differential of 10 cents. The Pittsburgh and West Virginia road desires to lower the Pennsylvania rate to $1.55 per ton. The Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio and New York Central object to the proposed cut.

Two Chances to Register for Election

Residents of cities in Allegheny County who have been assessed, still have two chances to qualify in order to vote at the November election.

September 20—Second registration day in Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Clairton and Duquesne. Pittsburgh polls will be open from 8 until 11 o'clock a. m. and from 5 until 11 o'clock p. m.; in other cities, 8 to 10 a. m.; noon to 3 p. m. and from 5 to 11 p. m. eastern daylight savings time. Yesterday was the first registration day in the cities.

October 8—Third and last registration day in the cities. This is also the last day to pay poll taxes. Only those regularly assessed can pay taxes.

September 7 was the last day to be assessed.

53,000 QUALIFY FOR BALLOT

Approximately 53,000 persons have qualified to vote at the November election, according to estimated figures of the Board of Registration Commissioners.

When the polls closed last night, the first of the three registration days preceding the election, 10,000 fewer citizens had enrolled than on the first registration day for the presidential election four years ago.

The disorder that marked the previous first day four years ago was also missing at the polls.

There are two more registration days, Septemeber 20 and October 8. Persons assessed who have not yet paid taxes have until the last registration day to get tax receipts.

FULL RATIONS TO BE RESUMED IN RELIEF

Signing of Steedle Bill Assures County Needed Funds

Full "minimum subsistence rations" were expected to be restored in the city early next week following word today that sufficient funds for county relief were assured by Gov. Gifford Pinchot's signing the Steedle bill granting the Poor Directors permission to issue bonds for relief purposes, yesterday.

Restoration of "full" food orders of 90 cents per person per week will end the curtailed food orders which have varied between 40 cents since early in August. They were initiated when county funds ran out, with no immediate new funds available.

The city, with sufficient money for full relief, following floating of an $800,000 relief bond issue, followed the county's cut, for consistency. City relief restoration is not expected to await that in the county.

With the County Poor Board ready to issue their $800,000 emergency relief bonds at once, the next move in the county relief program appeared up to the County Commissioners, whose approval is necessary before the bonds can be sold.

The Commissioners had asked Gov. Pinchot to veto the Steedle bill on the ground that issuing of bonds for current expenses was bad financial policy. Now that the bill is a law despite their protest, their course was undetermined.

Maj. J. Clyde Miller, chairman of the Poor Board, said:

"We are going to issue those bonds as soon as we can. If we get the Commissioners' approval we can obtain money in anticipation of the bond sale. We already have bids on shoes for school children."

The Steedle bill gives the poor board power to issue bonds up to 2 per cent of the assessed value of property, with the consent of the Commissioners, during the period of the emergency only.

State funds, under the Talbot act, were to become available today in city and county. They will supplement local food funds, releasing thousands of dollars for shoes, clothing and fuel.

U. S. JOB LOAN HELD UP FOR MORE DATA

Governor Plans Appeal To Hoover to Speed Aid for Hungry

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Reconstruction Corporation officials today said Pennsylvania's application for a $45,000,000 unemployment relief loan would receive immediate attention "when certain supplemental information which has been promised by Pennsylvania officials is received by the corporation."

The announcement came today in the wake of a letter sent to Atlee Pomerene, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, by Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, yesterday, in which he attacked what he termed the "cruel and unnecessary" delay and red tape imposed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation upon Pennsylvania's application for $45,000,000 federal aid.

Discussing informally the criticism by Gov. Pinchot, one official of the corporation said today:

"The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is disposed to act with the greatest promptness on this Pennsylvania application and other applications when all necessary data are provided by the applicants."

Pinchot Raps Loan Delay With Thousands Hungry

HARRISBURG, Sept. 9.—(AP)—An appeal to President Hoover, Gov. Pinchot threatens, will follow if the Reconstruction Finance Corporation delays "much longer" in granting Pennsylvania its request for a $45,000,000 unemployment relief loan.

In a letter to Atlee Pomerene, chairman of the corporation, the Governor said three appeals to the board have resulted only in "an elaborate and largely unanswerable questionnaire. The letter said:

"While you ask us to answer elaborate questions, thousands of families of five persons, on relief in Pennsylvania, are living on from two to three dollars a week, or even less; hundreds of thousands of children are going without milk, and malnutrition in the schools is growing by leaps and bounds."

He said Congress "did not even hint at" the "complication of questions and red tape" which he said the corporation imposes, and that other states have been granted loans "with no such delay and red tape as Pennsylvania is now asked to accept."

The Governor pointed out that the Legislature, since the Corporation first turned down Pennsylvania's application on the ground that it had not done enough for itself, has enacted a $12,000,000 relief program financed by a sales tax.

FORMER MAYOR DENIES CHARGE

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Branding as "the product of a distorted mind," an aged woman's story that William G. Reese "tried to kill me to get my money," the former Mayor's counsel planned today to institute legal proceedings for a mental examination of Mrs. Anna Washok, 74.

Reese, at liberty under $5,000 bond on a charge of assaulting Mrs. Washok with intent to kill, denied the woman's story that he attacked her in her home.

Police, however, said Mrs. Washok's story was supported by the fact her will bequeaths a piece of property to Reese.

SCHOOL COSTS STUDY PLANNED

The Coyne Committee, named by the special session of the Legislature to investigate the costs of government in Allegheny County, may delegate to a sub-committee of business men the duty of conferring with members of the Pittsburgh School Board to ascertain whether the educational authorities can effect savings in operation without affecting teaching standards.

When Senator James J. Coyne announced, upon creation of the committee, that investigation of school board expenditures would be undertaken, he was met with cries of "politics," a bill to abolish the appointive school board having been introduced in the last legislative session at the direction of Coyne. Today Coyne said he would deputize representative business men to handle this phase of the inquiry.

The committee, which organized formally today, will begin hearings next week. Already informal conferences have been held with business and political leaders on the subject of economies which may be recommended to the next session of the Legislature.

The committee, in addition to Coyne, consists of Senator Morris Einstein and Representatives James Wettach, Thomas Neely and George Soffel.

Alleged Tipster On Ponies Fined

Samuel Osborne, of Louisville, who claims to be a race horse owner and trainer, was fined $25 today in Central Police Court on a suspicious person charge.

Detective William Sullivan declared Osborne had been passing out racing tips to merchants. Osborne said he is the owner of a string of racing horses, including War Feathers, Aid Emergency, Easy Go and Kid Miss, and that he had trained for the Whitneys, Hertz and Greentree stables.

AGAIN ASK MILK PRICE BOOST

One hundred and fifty farmers of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia were prepared to demand an increase in the milk price paid them by distributors, at a conference this afternoon at the Mayfair Hotel.

A previous proposal of two cents per hundredweight increase, amounting to less than ½ cent a quart, was declared unacceptable. At present the farmers get an average of 8 cents a gallon for their product, which they contend is retailed at from 8 to 11 cents a quart.

The distributors have not indicated whether they would pay the requested increase to members of the Dairymen's Association.

UTILITY BLOCKS LIGHT ECONOMY

A request to reduce the candle power in street lamps along Brownsville road in Brentwood Borough as an economy measure was rejected by the Duquesne Light Company last night at a meeting of the Borough Council.

Officials of the light company pointed out the borough contract permitted an increase of power at any time, but did not permit a reduction for the duration of the contract.

A conference of utilities officials and councilmen was proposed. The borough's request was for the reduction from 1,000 to 400 candle power of 33 street lamps.

Branding of Girl, 3, Revealed as Hoax

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Three-year-old Dorothy Hidalgo staged a hoax all by herself which had police, juvenile authorities and neighbors quite excited for a time, but it was all cleared up today.

Screaming, the child exhibited two letters seared into her arm, and told her mother "a big man burned me." After nearly 24 hours detectives found in the home a hot water heater bearing the "cryptic design" as part of the trade name, and decided Dorothy had fallen against it.

Rare Experience When Vermont Sees a Democrat

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Vermont got the shock of its rock-ribbed history this week.

"There's a Democrat down in Bennington."

It was Franklin Roosevelt. The first Democratic candidate to speak in the Granite state since the gay sixties.

It was a great victory for Franklin. He not only made a good speech but he got away.

They ain't seen a Jeffersonian disciple in Vermont since the Civil War interrupted the checker tournaments. That's 70 years ago and Franklin deserves a lot of credit for invading the Republican stronghold.

They tell us that Frank didn't go up there before memorizing the game laws.

Bond Posted for Ziefel, Too Ill to Appear

Bond was posted today for William H. Ziefel, 68-year-old former chief clerk in the County Commissioners' office, indicted on three counts of conspiracy in connection with distribution of county gasoline free to political followers of the Republican machine.

Ziefel was reported ill at his home in Mt. Lebanon, following his return last night from Buckeye Lake, O., where he is said to have spent the past several months.

Bond in the sum of $1,000 was furnished by Frank DiCenzo, machinist, of 924 Highland avenue, McKees Rocks.

Attorney Joseph P. Passaflume, who arranged for the bond, said Ziefel was too ill to appear and that he would ask Clerk of Court S. J. Topley to send the bond book to Ziefel's home for signature.

E. D. Sullivan, of the Sixth Ward, indicted in the tax receipt case, also posted bond.

Guard Held in Death Of Hospital Patient

Edward Hennigan, 48, of North Winebiddle avenue, an attendant at St. Francis Hospital, was turned over to the coroner by Magistrate T. D. Jones, in Central Police Court today, in connection with the death of David M. Linton, 53, a mental patient.

Detective James O'Kane said Hennigan had told him Linton was unruly and that he and other orderlies had trouble trying to quiet him, but denied abusing the man. Homicide Lieut. Frank Ferris ordered Detectives O'Kane and Robert Carroll to question witnesses among patients and attendants.

Linton died in the hospital Wednesday night from pneumonia, the hospital reported. The pneumonia was superinduced by seven broken ribs, broken breast bone and a bruise on the neck, the Coroner's office declared after an autopsy.

The loss of his position after 30 years of service was blamed for Linton's condition. He served in a secretarial capacity at the National Tube Company and was furloughed recently, David Linton, of 1130 Franklin street, Wilkinsburg, his father, said.

Samuel Linton, an uncle, of Race street, learned of the alleged beating Labor Day when he visited the hospital. The patient told his uncle he was beaten by an attendant after saying he wanted to go home.

COURT BATTLE LOOMS OVER OUSTED FIREMEN'S RECORDS

COUNSEL SEEKS TO USE DATA IN OUSTER CASE

A court fight to force reading of the records of more than 1,000 police and firemen into the transcript of the City Civil Service Commission's hearing in the case of Hoseman Delos Harvey, ousted with more than a score of others in Mayor Kline's July political shakeup, was indicated today.

Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, representing Harvey John Heinz, president of the Firemen's Protective Association, along with Henry Allen, and three others, said he would ask a writ of mandamus from the courts probably Monday to determine future action. All six of the men appealed their discharge.

RECORDS BLOCKED

Efforts to read the records of each officer into the testimony at the Commission's hearing late yesterday, failed. Lindsay was blocked on every side both by the Commissioners and Assistant City Solicitor Harry Diamond.

Meanwhile the cases of Heinz, and four other ousted firemen will be held in abeyance, pending the court's decision. The Harvey hearing will be resumed tomorrow at 9:30 a. m.

Specifically, Lindsay will ask the courts for a ruling whether Public Safety Director James M. Clark has "discretionary" powers to dismiss employes without ascertaining whether those retained have a "less meritorious" record than those discharged. The courts will also be asked to rule whether the Director has the power to ignore the Commission's by-laws.

CHARGES POLITICS

Lindsay has maintained Harvey and his associates were fired for political reasons and not for physical unfitness, as claimed by Clark, following examination of the men by Dr. Daniel E. Sable, chief surgeon of the Safety Department.

Attorney John C. McGinnis, associate of Lindsay, testified Clark told him at a conference last July it would have been absurd to have gone over the entire department lists to carry out the alleged economy program ordered by the Mayor.

McGinnis quoted Clark as saying:

"We picked out the men who had to go. It would have been absurd to go over the entire lists."

LACKS RECORDS

Fire Chief Richard L. Smith drew Lindsay's fire on the stand when he reported he had not brought along records of his bureau to the hearing. Smith said:

"Lindsay wanted the records for the past 25 years back. It would have been a physical impossibility to comply with the demand. They are in my vault and a small truck would be required to bring them up here."

It was these records Lindsay wanted entered into the transcript but on which motion he was overruled by Commissioners J. Howard Devlin and Dr. Samuel Johnson. The commissioners contended Lindsay was not confining his requests to the case at issue and only records of the appellants were necessary.

Diamond brought out on cross-examination of Harvey that he had been before the fire trial board several times for alleged intoxication and had been fined and suspended, later being reduced in rank.

GIRL, 7, KILLED BY AUTO

Helen Gilbert, 7, of Beech Cliff road, Moon Township, was fatally injured when struck by an automobile near her home while returning from school late yesterday.

W. T. Campbell, of 1149 Termon avenue, alleged driver of the car, was ordered to post bond pending an inquest.

Five Negroes were injured when an automobile in which they were riding caught fire after crashing against an iron pole at Thirteenth and Pike streets last night. The victims were dragged from the blazing car before firemen arrived and extinguished the flames.

The injured are Thomas Watson, 53, of 253 Brereton avenue, driver of the car and janitor at Central Police Station, in Allegheny General Hospital; Viola Turner, 22, of 2732 Spring way, in St. Francis Hospital; Eugene Fulton, 337 Linoleum way, in Mercy Hospital, and John Ross, 2627 Penn avenue, and Emmett Groshan, 3015 Pulaski way, in West Penn Hospital.

SCRAPER TEST REVEALS LITTLE

Allegheny County's controversy over purchase of two five-year-old road scrapers today was no nearer settlement than before a so-called demonstration of competitive machines was held at South Park yesterday.

The only actual competitive demonstration was by the rubber-wheeled five-year-old scraper, mate to the cleat-wheeled machine and which comprised the two that Controller Robert G. Woodside would not let the County Commissioners purchase. The competing bidders who protested against the machine, offered by the Tranter Manufacturing Company, failed to accept the Commissioners' invitation to display the merits of their machine.

A heavier scraper, which was a supplementary bid of the Beckwith Machinery Company but not their light machine offered in competitive bidding with the Tranter scraper, was demonstrated. Vice President E. D. Townsend explained the firm did not have a light scraper available. County Commissioners Charles C. McGovern, C. M. Barr and William D. Mansfield watched it operate through courtesy.

CITES BETTER BUSINESS

WEST VIRGINIA'S GOV. WILLIAM G. CONLEY IN PITTSBURGH

W. VA. GOVERNOR SEES UPTURN

Increased coal production and gains in smaller industrial plants indicate a healthy upturn in business conditions in West Virginia, Gov. William G. Conley said in a stopover here today on private business matters.

Expressing satisfaction with the steady gains, Gov. Conley said at the William Penn Hotel:

"Improved banking credit now made available is providing a better sense of security. While we had bank closings, many have re-opened and others are in the process of reorganizations. Increased steel orders are reported from the Panhandle district. There is a demand for coal. The industrial plants of the smaller communities are increasing their working staffs. This has been noticeable in the woolen and weaving mills, as well as miscellaneous plants."

I. C. C. FORBIDS COAL RATE CUT

Coal producers of Western Pennsylvania received a setback in their fight for equitable railroad freight rates on shipments to Ohio points yesterday when the Interstate Commerce Commission suspended until April 9, 1933, the lower rates proposed by the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad.

The proposed rate reductions, protested by the Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio and New York Central railroads, would have maintained a 10-cent instead of a 39-cent differential on each ton in favor of shipments from Eastern Ohio mines as against shipments from Western Pennsylvania and Northern West Virginia.

Can't Sell Canvases, Carnegie Gallery Exhibitor Says

John Kane, well-known Pittsburgh artist, is ready to give up his palette and go back to house painting, he said today.

Five years ago Kane decended from his swinging ladder on the housetops to paint pictures, some of which have been accorded a place in the Carnegie galleries.

Now, after having his pictures accepted by art juries and receiving the public's admiration, the 72-year-old artist is trying to find houses to paint in order to earn his livelihood. He has painted six canvases this year but has sold none.

People can do without paintings, but they cannot do without their money. I'm ready to paint houses again if I can find a job."

Other pictures are landscape scenes of the city. He is also working on a picture which depicts the new George Westinghouse Bridge and the Westinghouse valley.

Nevertheless, after receiving much praise and being the only Pittsburgh artist to have his work displayed in the twenty-sixth international exhibition of paintings in 1927, Kane is looking for houses to paint. He said:

"I'm tired of painting over canvases that have already been painted. And I'm just about out of paint."

ASSESSORS AND CLERKS NAMED

OLD EMPLOYES AND WAR VETS KEEP JOBS

Completion of the reorganization of the personnel employed by the Assessment and Revision of Taxes was announced today by George E. Meyers, chairman, who said:

"All employes having served with the county 15 years or more, all capable military veterans and others in extenuating circumstances were recalled to service."

Of the new employes, 129 are assessors, Meyers said. The reorganization will effect an annual saving of $213,519, he declared.

The reorganized personnel is as follows:

It's true, madam

Dishwashing is the hardest part of marriage

BUT see how much easier it is with the New Oxydol

• Those times when it seems you just can't face another pile of dirty dishes—why not make it easier for yourself?

Use the New Oxydol. See what rich, creamy suds it makes—50% more suds. See how those thick suds cut the grease—and rinse off so dishes are sparkling clean, so there's no scum left.

Lively, long-lasting suds that don't fizzle away are the secret of all easy washing—clothes as well as dishes. That's why Oxydol's richer, more lasting suds do more for you—whisk grease away like a flash, float dirt out of clothes and hold it out.

Yet Oxydol is safe—easy on hands and dainty things. It makes clean-smelling suds in the hardest water—and all water turns hard when you add dirty clothes or greasy dishes. You'll bless the day you learned its name.

Egg Is a Supply Source of Important Proteins

This food contains the body-building materials we must have each day.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator From New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

It has been shocking to me during the past few months to see roadside signs, stating that fresh eggs can be had as low as 18 cents a dozen. Knowing that many a farmer's wife depends on "the egg money" for the purchase of simple luxuries in the home, it is a pity to have this product drop to a cent or a cent and a half each.

But what is the misfortune of the producer becomes the blessing of the consumer. It is good luck for those who buy.

No matter what its price may be, the egg is worth the money. Packed into its shell is an concentration of food value hard to imitate.

The other day I read something about the egg which I want you to hear. It is this:

"The fact that when an egg is kept at a proper temperature for about three weeks without the addition of anything from without, it produces a chick so well developed as to begin at once to walk and to eat the same food as the adult, suggests that the egg must contain substances which are very efficient as sources both of energy and the materials for growth and development."

BUILDING MATERIALS

That one sentence carries the whole story of remarkable physiological truths. It brings home to us what vitality, repair and growth material, builder of muscle, bone, nerve and brain, indeed all the needs of existence, are found in the egg. The mystery of life is within that shell.

In the meat of the egg are valuable proteins, the building materials we must have each day. This group of chemicals represents the most important of all the foods we consume. In meat, milk and eggs the human family gets these precious substances. Without the proteins we would fall apart as a neglected building does.

The yolk of the egg is largely fat. But within its substances are the vitamins and minerals we require.

FAVORITE FOR INVALIDS

So concentrated are the nutritive elements of the egg that for ages it has been a favorite food for invalids. Without undue demands upon the digestive organs it supplies what is required to restore health and vigor.

There are many ways to cook the egg. Consequently we do not tire of it.

At the present time, with prices so low, the housewife does well to purchase liberally of a product that has many uses. The health of the family is sure to be promoted by taking advantage of a real bargain in an essential foodstuff.

-:- PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES -:-

CREAMED CHIPPED BEEF—One and one-half tablespoons butter, 4 ounces thinly sliced dried beef, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup evaporated milk.

Melt butter in hot frying pan. Add beef and cook until edges curl. Remove beef and add flour to fat remaining in pan and blend until smooth. Add water and cook five minutes, then add evaporated milk and beef and cook over hot water five minutes longer. Yield: Four servings.

CREAM OF VEGETABLE SOUP — One-half cup finely chopped turnip, ½ cup finely chopped carrots, ¼ cup finely chopped onion, ¼ cup finely chopped celery tops or celery, 4 tablespoons fat, 1½ tablespoons flour, 3 pints milk, 1 teaspoon salt.

Cook the finely chopped vegetables in the fat for 10 minutes with constant stirring, add the flour, and continue to stir until well blended. In the meantime heat the milk (fresh or reconstituted) in a double boiler, add a little of it to the vegetable mixture, stir well, combine with the rest of the milk, add the salt, and cook for 10 minutes. The flavor is improved if the soup is allowed to stand for a short time to blend before serving. Reheat and serve. This soup can be made either with fresh or evaporated milk, or dried skim milk powder. Of skim milk powder use one and one-half cups with three pints of water.

CREAMED SALMON—4 tablespoons butter or other fat, 5 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 cups milk, 1 pound can salmon, toast, chopped parsley.

Prepare a white sauce of the fat, flour, salt and milk; flake the salmon and add to the white sauce. Cook in a double boiler until hot. Serve on toast with the chopped parsley over the salmon.

CREAMED CABBAGE—3 cups milk, 1½ quarts finely shredded or chopped cabbage, packed, 4 tablespoons flour, 4 tablespoons melted butter or butter fat, 1 teaspoon salt.

Heat the milk and cook the cabbage in it for five minutes. Add the blended flour and butter or other fat and the salt. Cook for about 5 minutes longer and stir constantly. The cabbage retains its delicate flavor and color.

CHOCOLATE CORNSTARCH PUDDING—6 tablespoons cornstarch, 4 tablespoons cocoa (or one square unsweetened chocolate melted in the milk when heated), ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 quart milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Mix the cornstarch, cocoa, sugar and salt thoroughly. Pour milk, which has been heated, in a double boiler into this mixture. Return to the double boiler, stir until thickened, cover and cook for 20 minutes. Remove from the fire, beat well, and add the vanilla. Pour into a wet mould; chill and serve plain with custard sauce.

DILLED CORNED BEEF HASH PUFFS—2 eggs, 2 cups corned beef hash, ⅓ cup water, 2 tablespoons chopped dill pickles, parsley.

Add well-beaten egg yolks to corned beef hash and mix thoroughly. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and drop hash mixture by spoonfuls onto buttered baking sheet. Place under broiler and brown. Combine catsup, water and chopped pickle and heat to make a sauce. To serve, top puffs with hot sauce, garnish with parsley and serve immediately. Serves four.

ORNAMENTAL PICKLED EGGS—Boil 2 dozen fresh eggs half an hour, drop into cold water and remove shells, shred 1 head of purple cabbage. Pack eggs and cabbage in wide mouthed jar, add 2 ounces ground cinnamon, tied in a cheesecloth bag, 1 quart of vinegar heated to the boiling point and poured over the cabbage and eggs. These will be ready for use in 8 or 10 days.

ESCALLOPED EGGS AND MUSHROOMS—(Serving Six)—4 tablespoons butter, 6 tablespoons flour, 3 cups milk, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼-teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons chopped green peppers, 2 tablespoons chopped celery, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 1½-cups cooked mushrooms, 3 hard cooked eggs, diced.

Melt butter and add flour. When blended add milk, cook until a creamy sauce forms. Stir constantly. Add rest of ingredients. Pour into shallow, buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with 2-3 cup of crumbs to which 3 tablespoons of melted butter have been

Seven soaps were "put on the spot"
...only ONE came through

Read this Report of the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory

Six well known, nationally advertised bar soaps and a bar of "Tag" Soap were purchased in the open market. A board was prepared with one coat of white flat paint and two coats of high-grade white enamel.

The test consisted of placing the soaps on the painted surface and keeping the bars wet continuously by means of a wick drip.

After 18 hours the soaps were removed and the surface of the board washed with clean water and a sponge. All six soaps tested in comparison with "Tag" removed the paint more or less completely, the bare wood being exposed in all cases. The bar of "Tag" Soap, although showing some effect on the paint, did not cut through to the wood at any point.

Laboratory test proves amazing facts about soap

At last—the truth about soap—as only the laboratory knows! Six out of seven popular laundry soaps ate through a triple coat of paint and enamel, as a glance at the photograph will show. Only TAG Soap proved safe!

TAG is mild—but what a cleanser! Because it's all soap; no filler, caustics, or naphtha—nothing to injure the daintiest fabrics, finest woodwork, softest hands. And it goes twice as far—for it contains half again as much actual soap —weight for weight—as ordinary laundry soaps.

Play safe with TAG. You'll be delighted to see how snowy white it gets your clothes—how it brightens colors—how soft and fluffy it makes your woolens.

added. Bake 20 minutes in moderate oven. Serve in dish in which baked.

CHEESE BEAN ROAST — 1-pound can kidney beans, ½-pound cheese, 1 onion, chopped fine; 1 tablespoon butter, 1 cup bread crumbs, salt and pepper, 2 eggs.

Drain liquid from beans, put them with cheese through food chopper. Cook onion in butter, combine ingredients and add seasonings and beaten eggs. Mold into a loaf, moisten with bread crumbs and pack firmly into a baking dish. Cover top with buttered crumbs. Bake in moderate oven 350 degrees until browned. Serve with tomato sauce.

MELON, BANANA AND APRICOT CUP—Cut the drained contents of two No. 2½ cans apricots in dice, and add to 8 cups melon balls and 8 cups banana cubes. Add the syrup from the canned apricots, 4 cups orange juice and 1 cup lemon juice and sweeten with sugar to taste. Chill well and serve in cocktails cups.

JELLIED CANNED TOMATO SOUP—Soak 1 cup gelatin in 1½ cups cold water for 10 minutes, then dissolve in 6 cups boiling water. Add ½ cup sugar and 12 cans tomato soup. Pour into wet, flat, shallow pans and set away to harden. Chill. When ready to serve, cut in tiny cubes, pile lightly in bouillon cups and top with a spoonful of whipped cream. Sprinkle with chopped parsley.

SPICED SALMON WITH RUSSIAN MASK.—Remove skin from the contents of 4 1-pound cans salmon, leaving it in large pieces. Place in a shallow pan. Simmer 4 cups vinegar, 1 teaspoon peppercorns, 4 teaspoons whole cloves and 1 teaspoon grated nutmeg for 3 minutes, pour over salmon and let stand 2 hours. Chill, drain and serve a small piece masked with the following:

RUSSIAN MASK—Chop 8 hard-cooked eggs, ½ cup sweet pickle and ½ cup green pepper, grate 4 teaspoons onion and add all to 4 cups mayonnaise. Add 1 cup chili sauce and serve on the spiced salmon.

STRINGLESS BEANS AU GRATIN—Make a cheese sauce of ½ cup butter, ½ cup flour, 4 cups liquor from stringless beans, 4 cups milk, 4 teaspoons salt, pepper to taste, and 2 cups grated cheese. Add the cut stringless beans from 8 No. 2 cans, pour into a shallow, buttered pan, and top thickly with buttered crumbs. Brown in hot oven.

ASPARAGUS AND RADISH SALAD—Distribute the asparagus tips from 6 square cans among 50 salad plates garnished with romaine. Slice over 6 bunches of thinly cut radishes with the skins left on. Just before serving, pour over French dressing.

POMONA PUNCH—Make a very thin syrup, using 4 cups of water to 1 cup sugar, and boil for 20 minutes. Add 1 quart canned apple cider, the juice of 2 lemons and 2 oranges.

A thin slice of lemon in each glass adds much to its appearance when serving. Pomona punch is also delicious frozen to frappe consistency.

DILLED CANAPES—One large dill pickle, finely chopped, ½ cup mashed sardines, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard.

Cream the butter and mustard together and spread on thin slices of white bread cut in fancy shapes. Mix chopped pickles and sardines into a paste and spread on buttered bread. Garnish with a slice of stuffed olive or a strip of pimento or green pepper.

GROOM'S CAKE—1 cup butter, 2 cups sugar, 6 eggs, ½ cup grapejuice, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon vanilla, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 cups chopped raisins, 1 cup chopped dates, 1 cup candied cherries, ½ cup chopped candied orange peel, ½ cup chopped citron, ½ cup chopped almonds, 4 cups flour, ½ teaspoon soda.

Cream the butter and sugar. Add the eggs and beat for three minutes. Add the rest of the ingredients. Pour into two loaf pans which have been fitted with waxed papers. Bake for two hours in a slow oven.

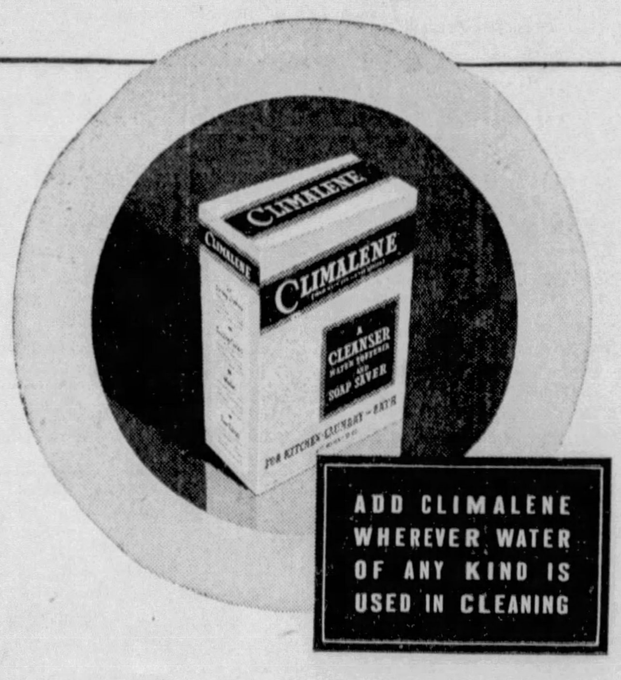
LIKE TO EXPERIENCE 5 NEW Housecleaning thrills?



ADD CLIMALENE WHEREVER WATER OF ANY KIND IS USED IN CLEANING

DEAR MADAM: Would you like to experience 5 new housecleaning thrills?

Then, here's the answer — Add Climalene wherever water of any kind is used in cleaning.

Climalene instantly takes the harshness out of local hard water . . . makes it "soft" and "gentle" as rain water. So soft it does the work with ¼ the soap you ordinarily use. And remember . . . soft water means soft, white hands.

At the same time it instantly "dissolves" all grease, dirt and grime; and thus cuts your working time . . . one-half or more . . . in washing clothes, in cleaning floors, tiles, linoleum; brightening silverware, and in the dishpan.

One short trial will convince you how it will make your housecleaning easier, less costly.

Get a package of Climalene from your grocer today. It's in a bright, shiny blue box — in two sizes, 12 oz. 10c, and 2 lbs. 25c.

It costs only 10c now to make closet bowls sparkling white . . . absolutely odorless. You do it with Bowlene. Just sprinkle it in the bowl . . . Your grocer has it.

The Climalene Co., Canton, Ohio

2 Polish Silver without rubbing. Put one teaspoonful in an aluminum pan of water. Boil the silver two minutes, longer if necessary. Then rinse.

3 To Clean Washable Walls and ceilings. Fill a bucket ¾ full of lukewarm water. Add a teaspoon of Climalene. Wring a sponge out of this preparation and wipe the wall. Don't rub it hard. Then wipe the surface again with another sponge which has been wrung out of clear water. Excellent for cleaning windows, too.

4 Wash Blankets by adding two tablespoons of Climalene to a tub of water. Use only ¼ the amount of soap you usually do. Blankets emerge fluffy and soft.

5 Clean Rugs this easy way. Scrub with Climalene softened water and mild suds — a teaspoon of Climalene to a pail of water.

One Sin Is Poor Reason for Life of Unhappiness

Do gents always walk out, sooner or later, on gals who have loved them "not wisely, but too well?"

Most of us have been told that they did. But, alas! Rita has found out that "it ain't so"—not in her case at least—and her big moan is—

"If only he would!"

Strange way to feel? But there's a reason, as you'll find out when you read her story.

Dear Sally:

I hope that you will be able to give me some of the advice that you have given other people, because I need it dreadfully. Please do try to help me. I am so unhappy, and I can't see my way out.

I started going with boys when I was 14, and I am now 17. One year ago I met a young man and fell in love with him. Here is my big trouble. About six months ago I forgot common sense and—well, I know that I was very foolish, but I didn't realize it then. For about four and a half months after that happened everything was wonderful—

But just recently he has got so he starts a quarrel, and yells at me over nothing at all. He curses me, and even has struck me.

He has no job, and we just stay at home every night. I live at home with my folks, and I go with no one else. I wish I weren't going with him, but I can't seem to get rid of him.

THREATENED HER

He is terribly jealous. He even demands to know what I dream about, and will go to extremes of temper if I cannot remember. I don't know what to do! I could have other dates, but he threatens that if I quit him he will tell other fellows I know, also my folks, all about us—or else kill me.

I know that I was foolish and childish, but, for this one sin, must I suffer all the rest of my life?

He wants to marry me in another month, when he will be able to marry. Oh, I don't know what to do! I feel sure that I will be miserable if I marry him, and still I suppose in a way we belong together.

Please, oh, please, answer me, so I can get some one else's slant on all this. I am so confused that I just can't figure out what to do about it.

Must I go on and marry him? How will I ever hold up my head if I don't, and he talks about me as he says he will? RITA.

MOTHER WILL HELP

You poor kid! You have got yourself in a spot! But you don't have to stay there; you mustn't stay there. If you do, you will ruin your whole life, and even now you can save the pieces, if you have the courage to do it.

What'll you do? First off, tell your mother all about it. Yes, I know it will be hard; but your mother is your best friend, honey. Even if you have made a mistake, she will help you and stand by you.

Then throw this hunka tripe out, or have your dad throw him out—and if he gets funny, call a cop!

Yes, I know; he'll probably try to put on a riot. He'll probably threaten to tell all he knows. But if he does, tell your story to the police. It won't be any novelty to them. They have heard lots of stories like that—and they won't spread it. But they will grab him and tell him plenty! And if necessary, they'll run him out of town.

But, whatever you do, don't marry him, even if you do have to face trouble to get out of it. You have got yourself into this jam; now you'll have to meet it, and clean up on it. Even if meeting it is hard, it won't be half so hard as the lifelong misery you'd face if you married a rat like that.

Romancing With a Married Man Is Always a Risk, Fay King Warns

By FAY KING

No girl should become seriously interested in any man without knowing of his personal life.

She should know where he works, and where he lives, and from this discover whether he is married.

A man who evades this proof of his worth and right to her company is best dropped at once.

Romancing with a married man is always a risk. At best it is being content with a second prize, when you have the charm and personality to win a single man who is a first prize.

A man leaves the woman who won him from his wife, with even less regret.

But, alas, there are girls content to win a booby which he becomes.

If Neglected Acne Will Persist

A common and usually neglected disturbance of the skin is known as "acne." It has caused embarrassment and unhappiness for many young persons.

Dr. Copeland

Acne is an inflammatory condition of the glands of the skin. In this disorder the skin is greasy and is spotted with many "blackheads" and ugly pimples. The pimples become infected, pus forms and then they are called "pustules." These disfigure the face and may cause scars.

Some authorities believe that acne can always be traced to an infection of some sort. Others believe it is due to some defect in the glandular system of the body.

This disturbance usually occurs during the stage of adolescence. It is more common in boys than in girls. Children of this age are usually fond of rich foods, candies, pastries and desserts. No doubt a diet of this kind is a factor.

In the treatment of acne, correction of the diet and observance of body hygiene are necessary. They are quite as important as direct care of the skin.

Foods which contain an excess of sweets and starches, fats and fried foods, should be omitted from the diet. Candies, chocolate, ice cream sodas, sundaes, malted milk, rich pastry, mince pies, waffles, griddle cakes, maple syrup, fried sweet potatoes, pork and beans, breakfast sausage, salted nuts, cheese and welsh rarebit should not be permitted.

The diet should contain an abundant supply of fresh vegetables, fruits, cereals, plainly prepared meat, fish and simple desserts. Meals should be eaten at regular hours. The food should be slowly and thoroughly chewed before swallowing. Proper elimination is essential. Plenty of water should be taken, preferably between meals. It is unwise to eat between meals. That is when there is a temptation to take the wrong foods.

The face should be cleansed thoroughly by using pure castile soap and warm water. The excessively oily condition of the skin can be corrected by the application of soap medications. In severe cases, X-ray treatment has been beneficial. This should not be used except in severe cases. Lotions and salves should be used only when prescribed by a physician.

"Comedones," the technical name for blackheads, should be removed. This is a simple procedure when a comedone extractor is used. This can be purchased in any drug store. Never pinch or squeeze the skin when removing blackheads. Make sure the comedone remover is clean. Cleanse your hands and nails carefully before touching the face. Bathe the face in hot water before removing the blackheads. Finish the treatment by bathing the face in a pint of hot water to which some simple antiseptic has been added.

Please remember that acne can be corrected only by following instructions. Personal hygiene, care of the face and diet will overcome this disfiguring and annoying complaint.

Do not neglect this ailment. When allowed to run its own way, it may persist for years and become more and more difficult to cure.

Answers to Health Queries

W. G. F. Q.—Is there any way to reduce large hands?

A.—No.

J. F. G. Q.—What causes dreaming and how can it be remedied?

A.—This is usually due to nervousness or some intestinal disturbance. Avoid eating before retiring and make sure the bowels eliminate regularly. Try to overcome your nervousness.

D. W. Q.—What should a boy of 17, 5 feet 11 inches tall, weigh?

A.—He should weigh about 152 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of this age and height, as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance.

Household Hints

Ivory-handled knives and forks which are badly stained may be cleaned by means of a cut lemon dipped in salt.

When tying down jam-pot covers, dampen the string. The knot will not slip, and when dry, the string will shrink and tighten.

To remove dirty marks from carpets make a stiff paste of fuller's earth and magnesia and hot water. Leave till dry; brush off briskly with a stiff brush. Try another application if not quite clean.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

If the blonde dolly doesn't want to go the whole way with peroxide to keep the golden shine in her hair, she can try the peroxide rinse, adding one tablespoonful of peroxide to a pint of tepid water, pouring and repouring it over the head after the hair has been shampooed and rinsed thoroughly. Or, if she fears peroxide she can use a substitute made by combining the strained juice of two lemons, one pint of water, one-half teaspoonful of salts of tartar. To be used the same as the peroxide rinse.

Women who carry themselves badly—tummies out, shoulders forward, backbone bent—are muscle lazy. They are the naughty pupils of the beauty class and need a jawing now and then. Without perfect posture and graceful movement, no girl can make the beauty grade or do credit to smart attire. Worse yet, her inner-sides suffer because muscles and fibers get slack, don't hold inner organs in place. Splendid carriage makes for cheerful spirit, peps up appetite, makes the world look splendid.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Approach Principle

Every expert bridge player accepts as a guiding principle, in his bidding of a great majority of the hands, the Approach principle, which is based upon the sound foundation that when a hand contains a choice of bids, the suit and not no-trump should first be shown. This principle extends not only to the Opening Hand, but to the Responding Hand and equally to subsequent responses, until the possibilities of the combined hands have been explored.

West—Dealer.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
	Pass	1 ♣	Pass
1 ◇ (1)	2 ♡ (2)	Pass	Pass
3 ♠ (3)	Pass	4 ♠ (4)	Pass
Pass	Pass

(1) The "One over One" response to an Opening bid in a suit. South knows that North will not drop the bidding unless his hand is an absolute minimum.

(2) A purely obstructive bid, designed to make it difficult for North and South to explore the distribution of the suits in the combined hands.

(3) While South's spade suit is far from biddable, he feels that after his partner's Opening bid and his three honor-tricks, the hand should produce a game, if the best declaration can be found. A bid of three clubs would be too weak, and the diamond suit is not rebiddable.

(4) A rather daring Raise, but North no doubt pictures South's spade holding as considerably stronger than it actually is.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

In the play, five spades were made, due to East's failure to win the first round of the spade suit with the Ace. Had East won the first trump lead with the Ace, then the contract could have been defeated one trick. However, even experts playing the defense are not always correct, and East's guess was not a perfectly apparent one.

The other part of the team played the hand in a contract of three notrump, the bidding there being as follows:

South	West	North	East
	Pass	1 ♣	Pass
1 ◇	1 ♡	1 NT	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Obviously, even though North holds double stoppers in hearts, three notrump cannot be made, as the club suit does not break and the adverse suit establishes too quickly.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Please explain the difference between Duplicate scoring and Rubber scoring.

Answer—In Duplicate, undoubled overtricks are scored at their trick value rather than at 50 points each. In lieu of rubbers, a non-vulnerable game bid and made in one hand is scored at 300 points, and a vulnerable game at 500 points. The Duplicate boards indicate which side is vulnerable, and this is determined in rotation: Board No. 1, neither side vulnerable; Board No. 2, North-South vulnerable, East-West not vulnerable; Board No. 3, North-South, not vulnerable, East-West vulnerable; Board No. 4, both sides vulnerable.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Thank You

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Do you . . . does one . . . ever thank a colored servant? Suppose he is a man-of-all-work on a small yacht and hands a visitor a glass of ginger ale? Should she say "Thank you?"

R.

Yes . . . to all your questions. If we are kindly minded people, if we are gently bred, if we are born with or have acquired that sweetest of all qualities, a sense of appreciation, then we say "Thank you" to anyone who does us a service, however small, however in the line of duty. And this, as the fine phrase goes, "without regard to race, creed or color."

The Wedding Bouquet

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please help me?

I am about to be married with a morning church wedding, wearing a simple dress and straw hat. Is it or is it not correct for me to carry flowers?

B. K.

This is as you wish, dear lady. If you wish to carry flowers it is quite correct for you to do so, provided that they are appropriate in form and arrangement for your simple costume. Or you may, if you prefer, wear a simple corsage, say on your shoulder. For such an occasion, lovely corsages may be made of gardenias, with only their effective shining leaves as background. Or the gardenias may be combined with white or yellow orchids, or with small yellow roses, or with lilies of the valley.

Shower

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My cousin is to be married very soon. This is her second marriage. She is 29 years old, and I am to be her bridesmaid. Do you think it is proper to give her a shower?

READER.

There isn't any rule about this, and you must use your own good judgment about it. It isn't, of course, necessary, and it isn't considered very good form for a close relative of the bride to plan a shower for her. Then, too, not very often are showers given for a bride for the second time.

NAZIS SNUBBED BY HINDENBURG

International News Service.

BERLIN, Sept. 9.—The dictatorial hand of President Von Hindenburg today squelched an attempt by Adolf Hitler's Nazis to turn the presidential palace into a forum for discussion of his Fascist aims.

The aged president, receiving the Reichstag presidium in his official residence, refused flatly to be drawn into controversy over merits of the Nazi aims. To each plea put forward by Capt. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Nazi president of the Reichstag, he responded:

"I reserve decision."

Man Runs Amuck In Crowd, Kills 1

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—One man was killed and two others wounded by a Negro who ran amuck with a pistol, scattered a crowd listening to a street preacher, and then shot and killed himself, Frank Crandall, 61, a retired railroad man, died early today.

The shooting occurred last night at Ninth and Market streets. The Negro opened fire without warning, his shots felling Crandall and E. F. Piggott, an accountant. As August Le Benz, a policeman, hurried to the scene he was shot twice in the chest. He is in a critical condition.

OBITUARY

Burns Funeral.

Funeral services for John Thomas Burns, 76, of 6646 Woodwell street, were held this morning at the Thomas B. Moreland funeral home, 401 North Highland avenue. Burial will be tomorrow morning in the Union Cemetery, Greensburg. Mr. Burns was born in Greensburg and had lived in Pittsburgh 45 years. He was retired as an engineer by the Pennsylvania Railroad 11 years ago. He was a member of the Masonic order and the Lutheran Church of Greensburg. He leaves his widow, Belle Hunt Burns.

Hillig Plans Second Flight Across Ocean

LIBERTY, N. Y., Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Otto Hillig, who was a passenger in his own plane on a trans-Atlantic flight last year, is planning another flight, this time to Athens, Greece, with Roger Q. Williams as his pilot.

The takeoff has tentatively been set for next week. Friends of the "flying photographer" said he wished to start from this town, with a refueling stop at Floyd Bennett Field on Long Island.

Washboiler Spills, Water Scalds Man

While carrying a washboiler full of hot water up a flight of stairs in his home early today, Quincey Ross, 24, of 1214 Main street, Sharpsburg, tripped, spilling the contents over his body. He was taken to St. Francis Hospital, where it was said his condition is serious.

DEBT DEFAULT ACTION WAITED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(INS.)—Notice of postponement of the September 30 payment on the German debt to the United States for the Army of Occupation costs and mixed claims was reported to have been served on Secretary of the Treasury Mills.

The Treasury so far has declined to confirm the report. An announcement was anticipated shortly.

Germany owes the United States 33,050,000 reichmarks September 30, and a similar amount in March.

PARIS, Sept. 9.—(INS.)—France intends to resume war debt payments to the United States December 15, a high government authority announced today.

The French government will only ask a postponsment from Washington if Great Britain first seeks a delay, it was stated.

Auto on City Wharf Runs Into River

The freshly waxed automobile of Frank Rossi, merchant tailor, 501 Market street, was recovered from the Monongahela River near the foot of Market street, last night. The shining car, parked on the city wharf, ran into the river after it had been bumped by another machine. Members of a boat crew pulled the machine out of the water with block and tackle.

2 Padlocks Ordered In Webster Avenue

Preliminary injunctions were granted in Federal Court against two establishments in Webster avenue, on complaints by the prohibition authorities.

One place was described as a store and speakeasy, first floor, 1552 Webster avenue. Isadore Sigal, proprietor, and the other as a speakeasy, first floor, 1707 Webster avenue, Domenico Basile, proprietor. Final hearings will be held December 13.

Excise Tax Brings $890,000 in Month

Complete returns in the Pittsburgh district for July on the new manufacturer's sales excise tax were $890,000, according to officials of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

This included $400,000 taxes on gasoline and $117,000 on oil. The 2 per cent tax on bank checks brought $130,000 and admissions to amusements added $61,000. The revenue from malts and extracts was $2,700 and that from soda and mineral drinks $7,000.

Greensburg Banker Receives Sentence

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Sentences of a year and six months on each of nine counts face Oscar A. Adrian, a former banker, today.

Adrian, former secretary-treasurer of the Safe Deposit and Trust Company, was on trial on charges of misapplication, abstracting securities and false entry yesterday. Testimony was about to begin when his counsel announced Adrian wished to plead guilty. The court gave sentence, the terms to run concurrently.

Marooned Passengers Waiting for Rescue

MANILA, Sept. 9. — (AP.) — Marooned passengers on the inter-island steamer Misamis, wrecked on Mindoro Island, today awaited rescue and supplies of food and water.

The wreck was reported in a message from H. D. Cranston, Manila businessman and a passenger on the ill-fated vessel. He said the Misamis was a total wreck and had been abandoned on Calavite Point, but that the crew of 29 and 14 passengers had safely made shore from the 129-ton vessel.

PIRATES REST IN PHILLY

BUCS FACE CRISIS IN PHILLY SERIES

THE SERIES TO be opened by the Pirates in Philadelphia tomorrow will have a tremendous bearing on their final standing. Quakertown has been the jinx spot of the circuit for the Bucs. They have won only two games out of eight there all season and dropped the last five in a row. It was the four-game clean-up by the Phils on the second Eastern trip that started the debacle during which the Gibsons were beaten 22 times in 27 consecutive engagements and saw a six game pennant lead fade into thin air.

Jim Elliott

Here and in Philadelphia the Pirates have lost 15 contests out of 19 to the Shottons this year. Big Jim Elliott alone, who no doubt is all primed to pitch one of the games in tomorrow's double-header, holds four decisions over them. The series represents the most critical stage of the final Eastern cruise. The Bucs will have to keep history from repeating in the band-box park, or their already slim mathematical chance of overtaking the Cubs, a chance that was cut half a game by yesterday's results, will be reduced practically to zero.

THE CARDINALS ARE threatened with a second-division finish for the first time since 1924. The average fan has no deep sympathy for the owners, figuring they threw away a pennant chance by selling valuable players, particularly Chick Hafey, but Manager Street declares the club's failure is due to injuries.

Gabby says that when the time lost by his regulars this year is counted up it totals 300 days. The absence of Sparky Adams from his post since May 17 accounts for more than one-third of this. "One day when the Cards were in the field," Street recalled, "I looked around on the bench and there sat Frisch, Wilson, Martin, Bottomley, Adams, Hallahan and Haines, almost a whole ball club in themselves."

THE PECULIAR UNDERHAND delivery of Ad Liska, the former Washington pitcher whom the Phils salvaged from the minors, is not only confusing to the batters, but is difficult to catch.

In fact, Virgil Davis is the only one of the three Quaker backstops who can work smoothly with Liska. When Roy Hansen was lifted in favor of Liska in the middle of an inning the other day, Davis had to be sent in to take the place of Al Todd behind the bat.

WHEN BOUQUETS ARE being handed around to successful managers in the minors, your old fellow citizen of Pittsburgh, Al Mamaux, cannot be overlooked. The former Pirate pitcher, in a little more than two seasons at the head of the Newark club in the International League, has made himself one of the outstanding pilots in the smaller loops. Last year, in his first full season as skipper, he finished second, and this year he brought home the first pennant won by Newark since 1913, helping with the pitching burden in addition to handling the club in smart style. A rise to a major league managerial berth some time in the future may not be beyond Al's possibilities. Many poorer prospects have been given a chance.

Wilbert Robinson

THERE IS A chance that Wilbert Robinson may return to organized baseball after all. It isn't often that a man approaching 70 is sought as a manager, but according to rumor Uncle Robbie may succeed Fritz Maisel next year as pilot of the Baltimore International League club.

Walter Johnson also is mentioned for the place, but Robinson is said to have the rail because an old personal friend, Col. Tillinghast Huston, once part owner of the Yankees, is expected to buy the club from Mrs. Jack Dunn. If he gets the Baltimore job Robbie will be returning to the scene of his early triumphs, as he starred as a catcher for the old champion Orioles and later for the American League club there.

ONE OF THE most remarkable figures in baseball will appear again at Forbes Field tomorrow afternoon when Smoky Joe Williams pitches for the Homestead Grays in the first game of the doubleheader against the Chicago American Giants. When Williams first joined the Grays in 1925 he gave his age as 49, so that he is now 56, putting Jack Quinn and other old-timers in the rookie class. His birthday was April 15, 1976.

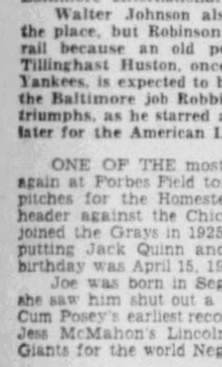
Joe was born in Segin, Tex. His mother is still living. In 1930 she saw him shut out a club in San Antonio for the Grays. Manager Cum Posey's earliest recollection of Smoky Joe goes back to 1911, when Jess McMahon's Lincoln Giants defeated Rube Foster's American Giants for the world Negro championship, through Joe's pitching.

WILLIAMS HAS BEEN called the best drawing card in baseball outside the major leagues. Year after year he has been a consistent winner, and his conduct has been in keeping with his pitching, club mates never having known him to be in an argument, on or off the field. When the Phillies won the National League pennant in 1915, Joe defeated the team intact, 1 to 0, with George Chalmers pitching. In one inning he struck out the side on nine pitched balls, Gavvy Cravath being one of the three Phils to fan. In 1924, Williams struck out 26 batters of the Bushwick club, of Brooklyn, in 12 innings, and lost, 2 to 1. In 1928, he shut out a picked team of American Leaguers on five hits, and four days later shut them out again on three hits. In 1930 he defeated the Kansas Monarchs, 1 to 0, in 12 innings, allowing only one hit and striking out 27 men. With a height of 6 feet 4 inches in addition to natural ability, Joe was well equipped for pitching, but the real secret of his amazingly long career is clean living.

ONE SIZE-UP OF the football situation at Notre Dame says: "Only eight of last year's letter men have been lost—Marchy Schwartz, Tom Yarr, Nordy Hoffmann, Dick Mahoney, Al Culver, George Kozac, Carl Cronin and Bernie Leahy." That's not much—just three or four average football teams.

As far as the line is concerned, replacing Yarr probably will be Coach Anderson's hardest task. Tom Gorman, a former all-Illinois star with St. Phillips, is showing the greatest promise at the post. He is rangy, fast and full of pep, meeting Notre Dame requirements.

ITS ATTEMPT TO gain sole rights for home football games at the Olympic Stadium having been blocked by U. C. L. A., University of Southern California may now go ahead with long deferred steps to build a stadium of its own.



Jackie Fields

Plans for such a structure have been in the safe for many years, but actual work has been put off from season to season. At that the Trojans have erected two monuments to football in the last five years—a gymnasium that cost $850,000 and a Students' Union Building that represents an outlay of $350,000.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT THAT Jackie Fields is on his way to Vienna to consult an eye specialist has revived a movement in boxing circles for measures to lessen the danger of such sight-impairing injuries as befell Harry Greb, Kiddus McCloskey, Jackie Rodgers, Joe Shugrue, Monte Attell, Sam Langford, Earl Mastro and many others. One suggestion is that the various commissions adopt a new rule about boxing gloves, and insist that fighters wear the type used in the Olympic Games. These gloves are made in England and are so constructed that the thumb cannot be stuck in an opponents eye. The secret lies in the design and padding.

PITT GRIDDERS IMPRESSIVE IN DRILLS

WINDBER, Pa., Sept. 9.—The last drill of yesterday's practice bode ill for the Pitt Panthers at Camp Hamilton today as they await the second practice session of the year. Winding up the first day's drill, Sutherland put his charges through one of his famous games of combination football and rugby. Ordinarily the boys get this about the middle of the first week, and when they started to play it yesterday the wise ones began to lay plans for getting plenty of sleep in preparation for a hard day today.

After two regular practice sessions which were featured by signal drills in which Johnny Luch and Paul Cuba surprised the folks by appearing on the first team, Sutherland called a halt and let the boys have some fun.

MEN LOSE WEIGHT

Of course, while playing their little game, some over-weight tackles got a bit blue in the face, and one corpulent quarterback from Meadville lost something like three pounds.

It may have been the cold night before, or maybe it was because everyone fully realizes the task ahead, but the initial drills were unusually brisk and snappy, both the first and second squads ran signals in mid-training camp, if not mid-season form.

The first squad, lining up with Ted Daily and Muggsy Skladany at the ends, Paul Cuba and Bob Hoel at the tackels, Onder and Ken Ormiston at the guards, Joe Tormey at center, Bob Hogan at quarterback, Capt. Reider and Warren Heller at the halves and John Luch at fullback, did not look much better than the second team, except for a little smoother ball handling.

The second team, and it is very doubtful if all of this team will be second-stringers long, had Lou Wojcihovski and Bobby Timmons at the ends, Tiger Walton and Johnny Meredith at the tackles, Charley Hartwig and Francis Zeig at the ends, Tiger Walton and center, Rocco Cutri at quarterback, Mike Nicksick and Mike Sebastian at the halfbacks and Izzy Weinstock at full.

MOORE AFTER HOGAN

The only signs of worry apparent during the day were the looks given Trainer Bud Moore by Bob Hogan, who is very much afraid

EXPLANATIONS OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOONS: THE FLOWER CLOCK—The "Blumenuhr" is situated in the midst of the famous Kurpark of Interlaken, a highly cosmopolitan resort in the Swiss Oberland. The park is very famous for its profusion of flowers. While I drew the clock on the spot last year a Swiss friend proudly pointed out to me that everything in the Kurpark is of flowers, even the clock. A MOST DISTINGUISHED CAREER—Joseph Branch (1782-1863), famous American statesman, made his first appearance in public life as a State Senator of North Carolina in 1811, and was re-elected to that office six times. In 1817 he was elected Governor of the State of North Carolina, being re-elected to the office twice, 1818 and 1819. In 1822 he was elected as United States Senator from North Carolina and re-elected in 1828. Before he completed his second term as United States Senator he was appointed United States Secretary of the Navy in the cabinet of President Jackson. After resigning he was elected as Congressman in 1831. He was defeated in running for re-election as Governor in 1834. Ten years later, 1844, having in the meantime moved to the Territory of Florida, he was appointed Governor of the Territory by President Tyler. Florida became a state in 1844, and Branch automatically succeeded to the position of acting Governor of the new state. He declined to run for Governor of Florida again for the reason that in his long career he had already "sounded all the depths and shoals of honor."

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—Spending their open date in Philly, the Pirates today did not resemble the heroic persons their cognomen implies. To tell the truth, the Buccaneers were docile rather than bold when they recalled the Ebbets Field debacle of yesterday.

The Pittsburghers had another chance to gain on the slumping Cubs, but they gave one of their worst performances of the season as they bowed to the Dodgers, 12-2. So they are five and one-half games beneath the Bruins, when, if they could have copped the contest, they would have gained a half-game on the Bears, who broke even in another double-header with the Braves.

The Buccos probably will do the London-cabby act this afternoon. The Phillies are slated to tangle with the Cardinals, so the Rovers are apt to be looking on and pulling for a Redbird victory as there is no love lost between the two delegations from Pennsylvania.

PLAY TWO TOMORROW

A scheduled doubleheader with the Quakers faces the Pirates for the morrow. To date the Pirates and Phillies have clashed 19 times and on 14 occasions the Men of Shotton have romped away with the laurel wreath; indeed it is a poignant fact that the Quakers have played the heaviest role in knocking the Buccos from the honor position.

The Pirates have played but three games on their present jaunt, but during this time they have fallen victims to two lefthand pitchers. It was William Watson's Clark who spurned them yesterday in the Flatbush.

Leon Chagnon, who has been the most brilliant of the Pirate sharpshooters in the past month, went up higher'n a kite in the finale with the Dodgers and Glenn Spencer, who succeeded Chagnon, wasn't much of an improvement.

Frank O'Doul, the league's premier hitter, was the featured boy of the afternoon. O'Doul came through with four hits, including two homers. Frank's bat alone

STARS TO PLAY FOR ROONEYS

Manager Art Rooney, of the J. P. Rooneys, twice West Penn Independent Conference football champions, announced his tentative lineup today for the forthcoming season. Rooney, who is going to play both Sunday and night football at Greenlee Field, is going to bring into Pittsburgh the big professional gridiron clubs in addition to meeting conference foes.

If the present schedule works out, the conference season will open September 25. The following Wednesday the Dan Burns club will open its home season at Parnassus Field under the lights.

As in the two previous Conference seasons Jim Rooney will have charge of the team on the field. Jimmy turned down an attractive offer from a big professional club yesterday afternoon. The club in question was willing to pay real money to get the former Pitt star kicker in its lineup, but Jimmy preferred to play for Art.

In addition to Rooney, Kemp, Mose Kelsh, Red Whitmore, Harp Vaughan, Honey Guarnillo, Mose Lantz, Skender Karcis, Schnupp, Dreshar, Highberger, Grayber, Bucky Wagner, Clark, Hood, Cantoni and Remas, former Washington and Jeff star, will be with the champions.

The Rooneys will hold their initial practice of the season tomorrow afternoon at Phipps playgrounds. The workout is scheduled to get under way at 2 o'clock.

Tonight at the Hotel Henry, the West View team will hold a special meeting. Coach Paul Greenberger has invited 20 former Duquesne University players to the session, with the intention of adopting the Rockne system of play.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Pitt left Art Sekay, the footballer, behind when it went to camp on Wednesday with instructions to report as soon as he was eliminated from the city championship golf tournament at Schenley Park. . . . That day he eliminated S. Walter Phillips, the defending champion, and yesterday he took Carl Kauffmann, former champion and three times national public links champion, in the semi-final round. . . . He plays in the final today and will leave tonight or tomorrow for camp, where the boys will be waiting to hear all about his achievement. . . . They say around Schenley Park that Sekay, who got into the game as a caddie, formerly carried Kauffmann's clubs over the public links, but Kauffmann doesn't remember him as one of his former caddies. . . . All Carl knows about Sekay is that he's a tough opponent to beat right now.

Bunny Burzio, Carnegie Tech guard, is thinking of changing his name to O'Burzio so he'll have a better chance of making the team. . . . Izzy Weinstock, the sophomore fullback at Pitt, is a brother of Nate Weinstock, who formerly played at Duquesne University and Western Maryland and now is coaching City College in Baltimore, which really is a high school. . . . Izzy is 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighs 187 pounds. . . . Herb McCracken, former Pitt back, who broke in as a coach at Allegheny College and then succeeded Jock Sutherland at Lafayette when the Scot came to Pitt, will inaugurate his seventh season as mentor of the Maroons next Monday. . . . One of his games will be against W. & J.

For several seasons now they've been telling us it wouldn't be much longer for Babe Ruth, that his legs wouldn't stand up under the strain. . . . Seemingly they were right about his dogs going bad, but they didn't know until now that they were hot dogs . . . Ernie Nevers is back helping Pop Warner to coach Stanford this fall . . . Pop always said Ernie was the greatest back he ever coached . . . And now he proves it . . . Ernie was a back then and he's back now . . . Simple?

Notice how the Pirates are trying to imitate the Cubs and the Cubs are trying to imitate the Pirates during the closing stages of what started out to be a pennant race? . . . First thing they know they'll merge their identities and we won't even know which is which or what club won the pennant—unless it's the Dodgers. — HARRY KECK.

Lampus, Henderson Gain Net Final

AMBRIDGE, Pa., Sept. 9.—Robert Lampus, of Pittsburgh, advanced to the final in the Beaver Valley open tennis tournament yesterday when he defeated Stewart Snodgrass, Geneva College tennis captain, in straight sets by scores of 6-3, 6-3.

Henderson, another tennis player hailing from Pittsburgh, will meet Lampus tomorrow in the final. He defeated Howard Campbell, of College Hill, by scores of 8-6 and 6-1.

SUTTER FACES VINES TODAY

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 9.—(AP.)—The headlines have been going to other stars, but Cliff Sutter, Tulane University youngster, has been playing a lot of tennis in the National championships, now in the semi-final round.

Sutter's rivals in the round before the final were Ellsworth Vines, defending champion, Wilmer Allison and Henri Cochet, of France, all of the holding a much higher ranking in the world's tennis lists.

But the southerner had earned one distinction the other three all lacked. He had progressed to the semi-finals without losing a set. In succession he has bowled over Frank Fiala, of Philadelphia; Carl Fischer, of Wodbury, N. J.; Eddie Jacobs, of Baltimore; Henry W. Austin, of England, and George M. Lott, of Chicago. Not one of them succeeded in giving him a battle.

Lot went down before the southern flash yesterday in the tournament's major upset and won only eight games, all of them in the first set. After Sutter had won that chapter, 10-8, he polished off the Chicagoan with two love sets.

Vines, who was to play the Tulane star today, earned his way into the semi-finals by beating Charles Marks, Gabriel Lavine, Keith Gledhill and then, yesterday, Lester Stoefen.

The other semi-finalists, Cochet and Allison, also had dropped only one set in gaining the round before the finals, and both saw their records of straight-set triumphs cracked yesterday.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 9.—The best autopsy on the Pittsburgh Pirates shows they lost the pennant because the club's youngsters cracked under the strain.

Nick Altrock

Manager Gibson offered them lollypops and ice cream cones to quit bobbling the ball, but you know how kids are. By the time Gibson switched strategy and threatened his Pirate kiddies with the bogey man, the Cubs were too far up front.

It was accidents that kicked the Braves out of the pennant. And today the boys regard it as just another accident when they win a game.

FOOTBALL PROSPECTS AT CARNEGIE TECH PROMISING

COACHES WORK WITH WEALTH OF MATERIAL

By JESS CARVER

A pretty nifty football team figures to clatter up those iron stairs leading out of Carnegie Tech's Bowl this year . . . a pretty nifty ball club indeed. If the good "Jedge" Steffen and Bobby Waddell can't turn out a formidable eleven from the galaxy of stars they have under supervision in the old Bowl at present, then they'll both eat a hat — their own or yours.

Of course, Trainer Bertie Munhall will slap on gallons and gallons of liniment on aching muscles before the Tartan eleven takes the field for its first game against Geneva October 1, and a lot of things may happen before that time, but after all, there are only two things certain in this life —death and taxes. But barring a raft of bum breaks, Carnegie may look forward to cheering a powerful football eleven this fall.

OUTRANKS '28 TEAM

There are those who'll question the crack, but it is doubtful if Tech ever boasted a squad potentially stronger than the one in training this year. Judge Steffen laid a wise finger alongside his nose, a la Santa Claus (see "The Night Before Christmas"), when the matter of the 1928 outfit was brought up yesterday, and finally allowed as how maybe this year's squad was more powerful than the one of four years ago—if, as he said, there was a Harpster hanging about.

Carnegie has a slew of crackerjack footballers in stock. The line material appears to be especially strong, what with the return to school of Bunny Burzio and Thurman Croft. The backfield too may benefit by addition of a pair of prodigals, Harry McCurdy and Ray Tesser.

The right end and center positions are the only ones causing serious bother on the line. If Red Jones, the Toledo double for Rudy Vallee, comes through as an offensive man, he'll get the job of replacing the graduated Duke Ducanis as snapperback. Colin Stewart, a fine wingman, is sure of one terminal job, with Tony Ostrosky a good bet for the other, though he'll have to fight off the challenges of Jack Croissant, George Goodridge and J. D. Campbell. Then, Red Fergus, Tech's basketball captain, who is making his first try for a football job, may be tried as a wing.

CROFT FINE PROSPECT

With Croft, considered the most promising tackle prospect ever to enroll at Tech, back in school, and Carl Forsman, of last year's eleven on hand, the tackle positions may be considered filed. Understudying this pair will be Plummer, Nutter, Marcktell and Doloway, with the possibility that coaches will convert some of their extra guards into tackles.

Co-Capt. William Egbert (Hooks) Sample and Burzio ought to team up to make a great set of guards, Sample is a wow, and figures to make a strong bid for all-America honors. If only he'd get mad oftener . . . but Hooks learned to smile when quite young and never has broken himself of the habit. Carl Heinzer, Henry Dreshar, Tony Kebe, Jerry (Seagull) Seigal and Jack Anderson complete a heartening list of guards. Heinzer or Sample both could be fitted into tackle gear easily.

Dreshar played center some last year and can do so again, so Jones must watch his step. Moscript, Stitt and McLain are sophomore pivot candidates.

Right now, the coaches are puzzling over the selection and development of a quarterback. Harry McCurdy, a varsity man two years ago, successor to Howard Harpster, is back in school in fine physical and mental trim. Stu Dueger and Angie Bevevino, of last year's eleven, are after the job again and from last year's crack Plebe eleven comes Lefty Carlson, a dynamic little fellow, who boots 'em southpaw style and has shown great possibilities. A strong hunch exists in this manly breast that Bevenio, one-time Notre Damer, will be a tough guy to keep out of there. He is plent-ee smart.

At the halfbacks, Co-Capt. George Kavel, hard hitting veteran; Ray Tesser, back in school again; Sayles, Brewer, Steele, Black, Spisak and Tom Coulter, will have the say. Kavel is a fixture at right half. Tesser leads in the race for the other post. Coulter, a speed demon, captain of the track team and a fine hurdler, like Fergus, is making his first try at American football and will need the old experience.

MIHM AT FULLBACK

Joe Mihm, former Schenley High School star, is being counted on for heavy fullbacking duty, with dependable and steady Jerry O'Toole and Elmer Vorderburg very much on the job.

There are a flock of fine kickers on hand, including Dueger, McCurdy, Carlson, Mihm and Tesser. The halfback situation was dealt somewhat of a blow when little Johnny Graveno failed to return to school. Lib Lewis, regular end last year, who suffered a broken leg in the Notre Dame game, is through with football.

The schedule is tough enough, but might be tougher. The Techs open here with Geneva, play Western Reserve next in Cleveland, meet Wash-Jeff in the Stadium October 15, Notre Dame at South Bend October 22, Temple in a night game in Philly October 28, St. Xavier in Cincinnati November 12, Pitt on November 19, New York University in Gotham November 24, and wind up with Georgetown in Washington December 3.

The Tipoff

Among the kibitzers at Carnegie Tech's initial practice session in the Tartan Bowl yesterday were Lefty Lee and Jimmy Robertson, Robertson, one of the most famous gridiron stars in Carnegie history, was very much taken with the appearance of the Tartan squad.

"Boy, they've got more players to the squad foot out there than we had when I was in school to the squad mile," quoth Jimmy.

Silvertip Silverman, Tech's basketball star, first assistant to Jimmy Leonard, who is assistant and secretary to Max Hannum, hazi Jim Fergus, the Tartan basketball captain, making his first try for a football job, on the pan. He called all the newspapermen over to the corner in which the shy Fergus was dressing and cracked:

"Here he is, boys. Here is Tech's next all-American. Interview? Why certainly. Tell 'em Red—tell 'em what you are going to do to Pitt!"

One of the surprises of the first day's drill was the kicking ability of Tom Coulter. Coulter, a track star, is making his first bid for a football berth. He has plenty to learn about the game—as much as Red Stewart does about bridge, but he can boot 'em. He takes too many steps now, of course, but when he learns to get 'em away quick, he'll be a dandy.

Judge Steffen, becoming not a little corpulent, is the nearest approach to Pete Henry, of Wash-Jeff, in the matter of girth in the district. It's a treat to see the "Jedge" get out from under the wheel of his gas-buggy. He barely makes it. — JESS CARVER.

MIKE GALIDO . . . . THE FINAL HURDLE FOR SEKAY

Often a contender, but never the winner, Galido makes a determined bid today to grab the city golf title. All he has to do is to defeat Art Sekay, who eliminated S. Walter Phillips, defending champion, and Carl F. Kauffmann, former champion, on successive days. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.

GALIDO LEADS IN FINAL

By TOM BIRKS

Mike Galido, golfing stenographer, staged a sensational comeback to lead Art Sekay, University of Pittsburgh football star, 1 up, at the end of the morning 18-hole round in the 36-hole final for the city golf championship at Schenley Park today.

The presence of a big gallery evidently tended to make both players nervous, for neither flashed the kind of game that carried them into the final round. Galido won the first hole when Sekay three-putted the green. The second was halved and Sekay squared the match at the third when Galido pushed his second to the right of the green.

Sekay became 1 up at the fourth, playing a beautiful second dead to the pin. Galido had a chance for a half, but missed a short putt. The fifth and sixth holes were halved, but Sekay became 3 up at the turn when his birdie and par won the eighth and ninth holes.

KALIDO BAGS BIRDIE

The tenth was halved. Galido won the eleventh with a birdie 3. The twelfth was halved, both missing short putts. Galido clicked with another birdie on the thirteenth, the fourteenth was halved, and then Galido squared the match on the fifteenth with a par 3, while Sekay missed a short putt.

Both had par 4s on the sixteenth and birdies on the long seventeenth, and when Sekay missed a short putt on the eighteenth green Galido became 1 up. The morning round cards:

Galido, out	4	5	5	5	4	4	3	4	5	—39
Sekay, out	5	5	4	4	4	4	3	3	4	—36
Galido, in	4	3	4	3	4	3	4	3	4	—34
Sekay, in	4	4	4	4	4	4	4	3	5	—36

Sekay gained the final by defeating Carl F. Kauffmann, 2 and 1, in a 36-hole semi-final duel yesterday after having accounted for Andy Szwedko and S. Walter Phillips, the defending champion, in earlier engagements. Tom Barr, Western Pennsylvania southpaw links champion, was Galido's victim in the semi-finals yesterday. The score was 5 and 4.

MRS. CLAYBOURNE LOSES

Mrs. K. Richards, Mrs. M. Stearne, Miss Helen Engeman and Miss Gertrude Morouse advanced to the semi-final round in the women's championship tournament at South Park yesterday. Miss Morouse defeated Mrs. N. L. Claybourne, tourney medalist, 7 and 6. Yesterday's results:

Miss K. Richards defeated Miss Anna Horne, 4 and 3.
Mrs. M. Stearne defeated Mrs. B. Albright, 6 and 5.
Miss Helen C. Engeman defeated Mrs. F. L. Soule, 6 and 5.
Miss Gertrude Morouse defeated Mrs. N. L. Claiborne, 7 and 6.

D. A. Bowles won the Alcoma Country Club championship yesterday with a low gross score of 84. W. H. Nichols finished in second place with an 85 and W. H. Hochberg took an 86.

H. E. McBride and Mrs. W. F. McCrady captured top honors in the mixed foursome tourney staged at Edgewood, carding an 86-11-75. Mrs. L. D. Newman and F. F. Rohrer finished second with a net 77.

SHUTE SCORES 37 AT TURN

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Denny Shute, of Hudson, O., playing an up and down game, was 1 over par at the turn today in the second day of the Glens Falls open tournament. He led the field yesterday with a sub-par of 68. Today he carded a 37 for the first nine. He was 2 over par on the 406-yard par-4 second and 1 over par on the par-5 fifth. But good driving and machine-like putting gave him birdies on the 168-yard third and the 310-yard fifth. Par for the 18 holes is 71.

Tony Manero, of Elmsford, who turned in a par card for the opening round yesterday, got a birdie on the fourth and played par for the other eight holes of the first nine to crack par by 1 for that distance.

Roland Hancock, Stoneham (Mass.) pro, playing in the three-some with Shute and Manero, was even par at the turn.

PANTHER STARS ADVANCED

the latter has him ticketed as victim No. 1 for the diet table.

Capt. Paul Reider, who is not on a diet, has arranged a big celebration to welcome the return of Art Sekay, the pride of Schenley Park. Reider is also looking forward to a little free advice.

ILLNESS HITS DUKES

Illness struck at the Duquesne varsity squad again yesterday, when Joe Malkovich, sophomore center star, was ordered to bed by Dr. Leo O'Donnell, team physician. It is a question whether or not he'll be able to get into the opening game next week against Westminster. He is suffering with a severe cold.

The Dukes were put through a strenuous scrimmage session during their morning workout yesterday and will get another today and tomorrow. After tomorrow only one workout will be held each day.

Malkovich is the second varsity candidate to be taken ill since camp opened, McDonald, halfback star, being out of action suffering with tonsilitis.

Babe Ruth Names Annual All-America Team

Who are the star players of the major leagues for the 1932 season?

YANKEES NEED FOUR WINS FOR FLAG

Associated Press.

Back in the long lean years, those four seasons from 1927 through 1930 when the National League champions couldn't win a world series and seldom could win a game in the great October classic, the explanation often was advanced that the close races in the senior circuit took too much out of the winners and left them easy prey for the American Leaguers.

The same contrast comes up again this year as the National League race goes down the homestretch with seven teams still mathematically in the running while only three are left in the American, two of them with only the slimmest kind of a chance to overtake the New York Yankees.

After checking in with a 14-inning victory and a seven-inning tie in a long duel with Detroit yesterday, the Yanks reached the point where they need only four victories for themselves, four defeats for Philadelphia and Washington or any combination within that figure to clinch the pennant.

Philadelphia's Athletics lost a precious game to Cleveland as Clint Brown limited them to four hits to get a 2-to-1 decision over Lefty Grove. Another four-hit performance, with Monte Weaver doing the flinging to ring up his twentieth victory of the season, enabled Washington to turn back the St. Louis Browns, 3 to 1.

In the fourth American League contest, Ted Lyons, Chicago veteran, pitched a fine 10-inning game and then scored the winning run himself for a 4-to-3 victory over the Red Sox.

A divided doubleheader with Boston added a half game to the Cubs' lead as Pittsburgh took another one on the chin from Brooklyn. Root's six-hit hurling and a big eighth inning gave Chicago a 4-to-1 victory in the opener, but Bob Brown duplicated the six-hit feat for Boston in the nightcap and a homer by Wally Berger led to a 3-to-2 triumph.

A circuit drive by Don Hurst with two on base in the first inning gave the Phillies a 3-to-0 victory over the Cardinals in the only other National League game as Ray Benge limited the 1931 champions to three hits.

ALLEGHENY NET PAIRINGS SET

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Pairings for the second annual Allegheny Country Club invitation grass court doubles tennis tourney were announced today by W. P. Snyder, Jr., chairman of the event. Sixteen teams will contest in the tussling, which is billed officially to get under way at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow, though 'tis possible that a couple of jousts will be reeled off late this afternoon.

Last minute word from Dr. Billy McElroy, P. A. A. ace, who last year joined with Dr. Dave O'Loughlin to land top honors of the Allegheny competition, has it that illness in the family will prevent the Winged Header's return from his Maryland summer home in time for action on Sewickley Heights turf. This means that Dave O'Loughlin and his brilliant brother, Dr. John, will tie up for their first tournament tilting together in several seasons.

The O'Loughlin coalition has been seeded at the head of the draw, with the crack home club outfit of Collie Burgwin and Bill Snyder topping the lower half. The pairings:

Dr. David L. O'Loughlin and Dr. John L. O'Loughlin vs. Tom Orr and Frank White; George Cooper and Richard Cooper vs. W. McCook Reed and David Gilmore; John D. Realty and Robert C. Schmertz vs. John S. Richards and W. M. Doolittle, Jr.; J. S. Laughlin and A. L. Robinson vs. William L. O'Loughlin and Walter Arensberg; G. C. Burwin, Jr., and W. P. Snyder, Jr., vs. William Arden and Charles A. Woods, Jr.; John R. Brown and Edgar Alcorn vs. H. M. Rinehart and Howard Burgwin; Joseph Dilworth and T. A. Robinson vs. Joseph Holmes and John Holmes, Jr.; F. Byers, Jr., and partner vs. Frank Broida and P. G. Sullivan.

Miss Rawls Keeps A. A. U. Swim Title

TEMPE, Ariz., Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Katharine Rawls, slender 14-year-old swimmer of Fort Lauderdale and Miami, Fla., retained her National Women's A. A. U. 300-meter medley crown last night with an ease that disappointed her.

Without competition to spur her on she defeated three challengers by 45 to nearly 100 meters. She breast-stroked, backstroked and free-styled her way for six lengths of the 50-meter pool in 4:52 4-5, four seconds slower than her national record, and 6 2-5 seconds slower than her world record, which she established in the national meet at New York in July of last year.

BOOKS PLAY DORMONT

Books and Dormont, members of the City League, will clash at Kennywood Park this evening in the feature sports attraction of the annual Shriners' outing. The game will be called at 6 o'clock.

POLO GAME SUNDAY

The Fox Chapel and South Park polo ists will clash Sunday afternoon in the second battle of their series at South Park. The game will get under way at 3 o'clock.

WORLD SERIES CONFAB ON TODAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Representatives of the leading clubs in the National and American League pennant races, meeting with Baseball Commissioner Landis here today to fix details for the world series, are expected to select Wednesday, September 28 for the opening game.

They will not name the spot beyond identifying it as "The American League pennant-winning city" but the Yankee Stadium meanwhile is being groomed for the opening of the series.

Two games will be played in New York, followed by three in the National League's territory, probably October 1-2-3, if Chicago comes through to win, as now appears likely. The sixth and seventh games, if necessary, will be scheduled in New York, likely on October 5-6.

SENATORS COP SECOND WIN

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 9.—(AP.)—The Charleston Senators made it two straight in the Middle Atlantic series last night by defeating Beckley's Black Knights, 6 to 3, in the second game of the play-off series.

Jimmy Murdock, Charleston hurler, limited the Knights to eight hits and took a big part in the scoring when he rapped out a single that drove in two runs in the eighth.

Longnecker, Charleston shortstop, trotted in with the first run scored in the opening inning on two wild pitches by Bassett. Beckley came back in the second with two runs on a couple of singles, a double, a base on balls and an error by Boone.

In the fifth, Charleston scored three runs after Murdock led off with the first hit and was followed by Johnson, center field, who doubled and Longnecker and Boone, each of whom rapped out a single. The score:

HEARST OFFERS SPEED CUP

By STEVE HEALEY

Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Virtue has its reward. Amateurism its recompense. And if you doubt it, listen:

The amateur drivers in the Central divisional outboard championships, sponsored by the Chicago Herald and Examiner, wanted to know what reward they were going to get for risking their necks.

We told them, and they were satisfied. Here's the story we told them:

"The first place amateurs will receive a generous cash allotment to pay expenses to the national championships at Bay City, Mich.

"This, of course, will all be over in October, and you will have nothing but the memory of the trip left. Just so you won't forget the largest regatta held in this country, we are also going to give you a gold medal to remember this event.

"The second and third place drivers will receive handsome trophies appropriately engraved."

An idea of the type of trophies they could expect was conveyed to these simon-pures, and immediately the entries began rolling in.

The greatest incentive to outboard racing in the country arrived today with the news that William Randolph Hearst would donate a golden cup to be put up for competition in the regatta to be held on the World's Fair lagoon, September 18.

The cup, which will be known as the William Randolph Hearst-Herald and Examiner perpetual outboard gold cup, is to be competed for each year. The winner's name and the year will be inscribed and a smaller replica will be given him.

National League Lists Twin Bills

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Seven postponed games were rescheduled today by the National League, six of them as doubleheaders, and single games were moved up at Boston and New York to provide bargain offerings. The schedule changes:

At Boston—September 11, Cincinnati (2). At Brooklyn—September 13, St. Louis (2).
At New York—September 11, St. Louis (2); September 13, Chicago (2); September 24, Philadelphia (2); September 25, Philadelphia (2).
At Chicago—September 20, Pittsburgh (2).

BOXERS SUSPENDED

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—The State Athletic Commission today announced the indefinite suspension of John H. (Rattling) Brown, boxer, of Columbia; Lester Jeffers, referee, of Austin, and John (Tumbler) Martin, boxer, of New Philadelphia. Brown and Martin were suspended for failure to honor contracts.

GIANTS BUY STAR

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Bob Tarleton, business manager of the Dallas Texas League club, has announced the sale of Byrne James, second baseman, to the New York Giants for an unannounced sum of cash and one player. The time when James will report is not decided.

JOCKEY INJURED

CLEVELAND, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Jockey Virgil Moore, of Mt. View, Okla., was believed seriously injured yesterday when his mount, Orange Girl, stumbled and fell in the second race at Bainbridge. Track physicians said he apparently suffered a fractured skull.

REVISED GRID RULES LAUDED BY STAGG

By AMOS ALONZO STAGG

Head Coach University of Chicago.

There seems to be a good deal of curiosity as to how the new rules will affect football. People frequently ask me whether I think the new rules will hurt the game. Invariably I answer in the negative. Rather, the changes in the rules are going to help the game because they will reduce the number of injuries in practice and in the games. Many say the rule which calls for the runner being dead the instant any part of his body except his hands and feet touches the ground is going to take out of the game a lot of football. To be frank, I hated to see the struggle for the extra yard or so cut out of the game, but it seemed wise to do it. Personally, though, I regard that particular change the best thing the rules committee did during its three days' session. By cutting out 10 words from Rule 7, Section 7, the rules committee, in my judgment, has done away with hundreds of prospective injuries in the coming football season.

A. A. Stagg

How will the other changes in the rules affect the game? Very little, as far as the spectators are concerned. I doubt whether they will notice the changes, except on the lineup for receiving the kick-off, which heretofore has varied considerably. The restriction that five men on the receiving line must line up 10 to 15 yards from the opponent's 45-yard line not only allows less freedom to the receiving team in arranging their players, but it also deprives them of the opportunity of forming a strong wedge formation which the rules committee regarded as a constant menace for injury.

SEVERAL CHANGES

There are four other changes made in the rules for the sake of preventing injuries. Coaches generally regard as a good rule the one permitting a player who is withdrawn from the game to return at any time in a succeeding quarter. This puts pressure on a coach to take no chances with an injured player. The rule requiring outside soft padding over the knee and elbow and over certain protective equipment also meets with general approval.

The use of the flying block and the flying tackle have been forbidden because it was found that some very serious injuries happened last year from their use. The rule forbidding the defensive linemen from striking with the hands on the head, neck or face of an opponent undoubtedly also will prove to be of real value. I recall when I was on the point of not scheduling an historical old rival which had persisted in the unwarranted use of the hands and forearms on the faces of our linemen.

BREAKS AVERTED

I have known of one of two cases of colleges who have broken off with rivals on account of unnecessarily rough tactics on the head and face of the opponents, and while the practice has been pretty generally frowned on, the rules committee is eager to have the coaches develop a defensive technique of play which centers its attention upon the body and not upon the head of the opponents.

Chicago, Coast Girls In Final

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Helen Fulton, of Chicago, and Bonnie Miller, of Los Angeles, handling their racquets with all the skill of veterans, yesterday scored two surprising upsets to eliminate the tournament favorites and advanced to the finals of the national girls' grass court tennis championship at the Philadelphia Cricket Club.

The young Californian, seeded third, smashed out an 8-6, 4-6, 6-0 victory over Katharine Winthrop, of Boston, national indoor titleholder, while Miss Fulton eliminated the top-ranked star and national hard court champion, Grayce Wheeler, of Santa Monica, Cal., 7-5, 4-6, 9-7.

By JULIUS LEVIN

The scholastic football season in Western Pennsylvania will be ushered in this evening on the Scott High School Field, North Braddock, when Johnny Reed's Scott High eleven pries off the lid against A. J. Everhart's Uniontown combine. The kickoff will take place at 8:15.

The North Braddock School, judging from the form shown in the practice sessions, appears to have a smooth-working grid machine that should go far in the Class A race of the W. P. I. A. L.

Uniontown likewise will present a team composed of some sterling performers and indications point to a close struggle from start to finish. The contest is one of the most attractive opening games booked by Scott and promises to attract a large crowd.

DUBOIS AT ERIE

Erie East High also opens its campaign this evening, entertaining Dubois High under the floodlights in Erie.

Reconstruction work is well under way at Wilkinsburg and Turtle Creek Union, both members of the newly-organized Class AA Conference. Elmer Carroll, Wilkinsburg mentor, has only five lettermen back and will have to find an entirely new line for the inaugural battle with Avalon on September 17. While he has at his disposal an impressive looking squad of 60 candidates, most of them are of the green variety and it will take several games to see just what the new material will do. The team this season will be smaller than the usual Wilkinsburg elevens. Harvey Hepner, fullback and quarterback, is captain of the team.

FEW VETERANS BACK

Losing 17 out of 22 first-string players of last year, Foxy Miller, coach at Turtle Creek Union, must make many replacements in his varsity lineup for the opener with Pitcairn on September 17. He has two fine ends in Stewart and Cingolini, a good quarterback in Robert Hershey, and a veteran center in Mihalovich. The other positions will have to be filled with new men. Hershey and Mihalovich will share the captaincy.

Maynard Wood, former Waynesburg star, and Stanley Stampeck, of Penn State, are assisting Miller in whipping the team into shape.

GAMES TOMORROW

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 9.—The scholastic football season in Westmoreland County officially opens tomorrow when Coach Owen Huntsman's East Huntingdon Township eleven clashes with South Huntingdon Township at Alverton. This is the earliest high school football game played in Westmoreland County in many years.

GRACE'S FIRST ERROR

The contest brought Catcher Earl Grace of the Pirates his first error of the season Grace recently had established a record for errorless games. He had accepted 444 chances without a misplay since August 29, of last year.

Earl was charged with an error when he threw low to second base in the fifth inning in an attempt to catch Glenn Wright, who was trying to steal second. The ball got away from Tony Piet and Tony Cuccinello scored from third base.

By defeating the Pirate in the last game, the Dodgers were able to win the season series from the Buccos. The card shows 12 victories and 10 defeats for the Dodgers in the 22 games played.

Settlement House Tumblers Organize

A group of gymnasts at the Irene Kaufmann Settlement have formed the Tumblers Club, an organization whose members perform on the mats and bars.

Harvey D. Lecollier, physical director of the Fifth Avenue High School, and himself a well-known gymnast, will address the Tumblers at a meeting next Monday evening at the settlement house. Edward H. Seigal, of the settlement, is advisor for the group.

Fight Results

CARDS GET HURLERS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Raymond Starr and James Winford, pitchers with the Rochester club in the International League, will join the St. Louis Cardinals in Philadelphia today. Both are right-handed pitchers and last year Starr was the leading hurler of the Rochester club, which is a Cardinal farm.

DAYTON WINS AGAIN

DAYTON, O., Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Dayton made it two straight victories over Fort Wayne last night in the Central League championship series by winning, 4 to 3. The home club broke a 1 to 1 tie in the seventh with a three-run rally to clinch the game.

Between Rounds

The Chartiers Council, Knights of Columbus, will stage another amateur boxing show at the K. of C. grounds in Crafton next Wednesday evening. The first show last week drew a large crowd.

Young Guy, brother of the Battler and Gene Pic will box the main bout of an amateur show at the St. Peter's A. A. arena, North Side, next Tuesday night.

DEAN TO SUB FOR CHIODO

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Amateur bouts at Shriners' outing, Kennywood Park.

Leon Brouillard vs. Ad Zachos, 12 rounds, Boston.

A change was made today in the fight card at Hickey Park next Monday night when it was learned Johnny Chiodo, of Johnstown, would be unable to go through with his scheduled 10-rounder with Johnny Datto, the Filipino. Jimmy Dean, Erie Negro, has been substituted for him.

Leo Clements, Jeanette heavyweight, and Gene Baker, of Johnstown, are in the second bout, and Al Farone and Johnny Durso in the opener.

Promoter Jim McGirr, of McKeesport, today announced the signing of Billy Holt, of Homewood, and Joe Trippe, of Rochester, N. Y., for the main bout of his first show, in the Palisades rink, Thursday night of next week. The pair fought a close battle at Motor Square Garden a few seasons ago.

HOCKEY CHANGE HERE FADES

By CARL W. SHATTO

Indications are that Pittsburgh is to have International League hockey during the 1932-33 campaign, despite all recent efforts to return the National League brand to this city.

Tomorrow, in New York, Art Rooney will confer with Bill Dwyer, New York sportsman, financially interested in the Pittsburgh hockey territorial rights, regarding the possibility of a guarantee that Dwyer and the National League will not interfere with International League hockey here for the next several years. There is a possibility that Dwyer will become associated with Rooney in the promotion of International League hockey here.

That plans for a revival of National League hockey have struck a snag was indicated a few days ago, when local banking interests in possession of the local International League club reopened negotiations with Rooney regarding his taking over the Yellow Jackets. The banking interests intimated that, along with the club, Rooney could have a 10-year lease on Duquesne Garden at very reasonable terms.

At the International League meeting in Detroit yesterday the circuit chiefs postponed drawing up plans for the 1932-33 season until Pittsburgh's hockey plans were revealed. It is apparent that the International League leaders think there is a strong probability that Pittsburgh will be back in the fold.

BUCCOS RECALL FIVE PLAYERS

William E. Benswanger, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, today announced that the local club had exercised its options on five Bucco farmhands for delivery next spring. Catcher Bill Brenzel will be brought back from the San Francisco club, of the Pacific Coast League; Outfielder Forrest Jensen has been recalled from Newark, of the International League, while Pitcher Charley Wood, Outfielder Stanley Schino and Floyd Young, utility infielder and outfielder, all have been reclaimed from the Tulsa club, of the Western League.

The Pirates would have liked to have had the services of Jensen for the final games of the National League season, but the youngster is a member of the International League champions, who will meet the American Association champions in the Little World Series. Rather than deprive him of a share in the series, the Bucs permitted him to remain with Mamaux's club until the close of the playoffs.

James Bivin, who has been pitching for Tulsa under a Pirate string, will not be recalled.

Pittsburgh Holds Up Hockey Plans

DETROIT, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—The International Hockey League annual meeting was held here yesterday, but Charles S. King, president, said at the conclusion that the most important question, whether the Pittsburgh club will be an active member of the league this year cannot be answered until Monday.

The decision, he explained, will be reached after a meeting of the Pittsburgh interests then.

If Pittsburgh returns, the league will operate with seven clubs, Rochester, which was a possible eighth, has asked that tentative arrangements for granting a franchise be held in abeyance until next year.

CHURCH NINES TIE

The Crafton Presbyterians and Ingram nines battled to a 4-4 tie in the second game of their playoff series for the Crafton-Ingram Church League championship at Crafton last evening. The third game will be played tomorrow afternoon.

Forbes

Skeptic Sure Turn Is Here: Gives Reasons

—By B. C. FORBES—

IT IS COMFORTING to learn that the most notoriously conservative of all New York's older generation of bankers has reached the definite conclusion that better times have actually set in, and that he looks for the gradual but sure return of expanding business, with more normal price levels for commodities, materials and merchandise.

Mr. Forbes

This veteran banker, whose specialty has been analyzing credits, foretold the 1929 collapse, refused to accept as genuine the recovery in the spring of 1930, has remained skeptical all along since then—until now.

Even the spectacular flare-up in bonds and stocks failed to change his reading of the outlook. The improvement in various commodity and other prices, though impressive, didn't convert him into an optimist.

But during recent weeks, he has received so many facts and figures, from so many different parts of the country, portraying actual betterment in business, that his long-harbored doubts have now been dispelled.

A TOUR of the financial world this week reveals that sentiment in almost every quarter has become distinctly more hopeful.

Large-scale banking troubles are believed to be a thing of the past. There has been quiet but persistent absorption of securities by influential foreign investment interests and by small investors at home. Manufacturers are finally reaching the conclusion that more risk is entailed by refraining than by placing fairly substantial orders to cover future requirements.

The investments owned by banks have, naturally, tremendously increased in value during the last two months. Moreover, practically all collateral loans which were impaired around mid-year are now in satisfactory condition. Indeed, large institutions which made drastic write-offs are already finding that their losses in many instances will be either nominal or nil.

Incidentally, good bank shares are declared by bankers to be among the best investment bargains available at this moment.

I VISITED the floor of the New York Stock Exchange immediately after Wednesday's closing. Excitement ran high. There was a tremendous outburst of activity during the final hour; sales in the last 50 minutes were 1,200,000.

The specialists in such issues as General Motors, United Aircraft, Chrysler, Radio and Canadian Pacific were swamped. Brokers' clerks were buzzing around them like bees 'round a queen bee. Head offices were anxious to learn if this, that and the next order had been filled, and at what quotation.

Said one stock exchange member who was piloting me round:

"Think what all this activitay means. Just look at the floor; see how it is covered with printed slips and papers of all kinds. This means more work for printers and paper makers. Look at the crowds mulling around almost every post. There isn't a house in Wall street that hasn't either already taken on extra help or will have to do so if the market continues as active as it was today.

"When transactions go over 4,000,000 shares a day, it creates activity in a hundred different directions—activity for telegraph and telephone companies, for banks and other financial institutions, for brokerage firms, for the concerns that manufacture stock certificates and, I imagine, a more active demand for newspapers that print stock and bond quotations."

This broker, whose judgment has enabled him to attain wealth, is sure that the depression is over and that securities—with periodical setbacks—will climb to much higher levels. He declares emphatically:

"The bottom quotations were just plain silly."

I UNDERSTAND that automobile and truck manufacturers are greatly encouraged over the expansion in inquiries and actual sales during the last two or three weeks.

Fintex Remodels Downtown Store

The Fintex Stores at 345 Fifth avenue, downtown, and 6212 Penn avenue, East Liberty, hold their formal fall opening tomorrow. The downtown store has been completely renovated and remodeled. A new price policy of $15 is announced today, attributed to lower manufacturing costs and costs of material.

WALL STREET HEARS

That International Telephone covered interest charges in the first half year.

That car loadings may show a gain of 20,000 in tomorrow's report.

That the short interest in American Telephone shares has been increasing.

TRADE INDICES SHOW RECENT PICKUP

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Several business indicators, not ordinarily included in the computations of business forecasters, have shown improvement in recent months, a study of figures in the September United States survey of current business indicates.

Shipments of machine tools, for instance, increased in July definitely contrary to the usual trend, according to this survey, issued by the Department of Commerce. The increase was small, as was the volume. Similarly, foundry shipments increased, as did new and unfilled orders. Unfilled orders of machine tools gained in June and maintained the gain in July.

VOLUME SMALL

A continuous increase in these figures would indicate a greater amount of retooling by industry, either to meet new business demands or to prepare for anticipated demand. The improvement still leaves the figures far below last year, but on small volume small changes have a great effect.

Delinquent accounts in the electrical trade were at the lowest point in a year. Goods in warehouses after increasing for many months, fell in June.

NEW BUSINESSES OPEN

A considerable number of new businesses were incorporated in recent months, with a possible continuous gain indicated. The amount of air mail increased during July and June. Bank suspensions were low, and commercial failures continued the decline in number started last March.

Flotation of capital issues was at a somewhat increasing rate. Stockholders in leading corporations continued to increase. The quantity of agricultural exports increased after a long decline, and were as large as in July last year. Passengers carried in sleeping cars increased for the first time in three months.

BROKERS' LOANS UP $26,000,000

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by reporting Federal Reserve member banks in New York City increased $26,000,000 during the week ended September 8, to $371,000,000. This compares with $345,000,000 in the preceding week; the record high of $6,804,000,000 on October 2, 1929 and low of $331,000,000 on July 2, 1932.

BUSINESS

Expected Gain in Steel Output Is Slow In Starting

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

THE REVIVAL in steel mill activity which was expected to mark the turn in business this month is having a slow start. It is early to draw definite conclusions as to the probable output by the end of September. There still is time for the industry to enjoy a sharp pick up in fall business, but as yet, no impressive indications have appeared that more than a seasonal recovery is taking place.

Ingot output showed a slight increase early this week when the mills resumed activity after the holiday suspension. Carnegie Steel plants went to work at 16 per cent of capacity. This compared with 15 per cent at the beginning of the week. The Iron Age places scheduled operations for the industry as a whole at 14½ per cent this week in comparison with 13 per cent last week.

Such a recovery, small though it is, would be encouraging if the volume of incoming business were expanding at a rate which would keep production on an up grade. But new orders for steel have not shown any sensational recovery up to the present time. Buying is still in small lots and from scattered consumers.

Purchases Indicate Only Small Increase

AT THE RATE at which new orders for steel have been received this month, a recovery of only a point or two in the percentage of operations is indicated by the end of September. Such an increase would be smaller than the normal gain which ordinarily takes place at this time of the year.

It follows, then, that new orders will have to show a decided pick up in the coming two weeks if the rate of steel mill operations is to give any indication that business has actually turned the corner.

In most years the steel makers receive an increased volume of specifications for shipments of steel in September. This causes a flurry in operations in that month which lasts into October. During the balance of the year production ordinarily declines until the year end low point is reached during the Christmas holiday period.

Steel Industry Is Watched Carefully

THE STEEL INDUSTRY is being watched with exceptional care by the entire business world. If the anticipated revival does not materialize in greater than seasonal proportions within a few weeks, precedent will indicate that a general business improvement is unlikely this year and that we shall have to look to 1933 for a real recovery.

Of course precedent is not always followed. But there have been few cases in the past when business revivals started at times other than the spring or fall of the year. Midsummer and midwinter revivals have been rare.

STOCK MARKET AGAIN TURNS UPWARD

NEW YORK, Sept 9.—(AP.) — The stock market again found enough buyers awaiting a setback to check its latest decline today.

The sag of the previous session was carried over into the early trading today, when coppers were notably heavy, but selling soon diminished, and the market turned emphatically upward before mid-day. It had soon registered numerous gains of 1 to 5 points. Cotton, which broke $5 yesterday, stiffened and recovered a little.

Buying started in some of the industrial specialties and soon spread to steels and rails. Issues up 2 to 3 points included American Can, American Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, Johns Manville, Case, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Santa Fe and others, while Coca Cola jumped 5. Issues up 1 or more included United States Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Corn Products, General Foods, Du Pont, International Harvester, Consolidated Gas, Loews, and New York Central.

The weekly mercantile reviews were even more cheerful than they have been during the past few weeks. Dun's asserted that the recent expansion of trade had attained sufficient breadth to give assurance that it rests on a firm foundation, while Bradstreet's pointed out that although actual activity in most lines remains the same as a year ago, signs point to gradual improvement, rather than the disappointing slump which occurred in the autumn of 1931.

Tomorrow's reports of United States Steel's unfilled tonnage, and of the weekly movement of freight, were awaited with considerable interest. Opinion on the Steel figures were conflicting. If there is a gain, it will be the first in about a year and a half. On the basis of individual reports now in, the freight car loadings statement should show a gain over the previous week of between 10,000 to 20,000 cars.

The weekly bank statements showed that the New York member institutions were again expanding credit, loans and investments increasing $32,000,000 for the week. Of this amount $14,000,000 represented loans against security collateral, and $13,000,000 all other loans.

The Federal Reserve statements showed an increase of $34,000,000 in currency in circulation, but this was somewhat less than the usual increase in the Labor Day week. Gold continued to climb, with the nation's stocks up $19,000,000 during the week to $4,105,000,000, making a gain of $196,000,000 since mid-June.

Sterling cables opened unchanged at $3.48⅜.

COTTON SHOWS STEADINESS

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Cotton futures opened steady, unchanged to 9 higher on steadier Liverpool cables and active buying by the trade. October, 7.90; December, 8.15; January, 8.21; March, 8.28; May, 8.39; July, 8.47.

December contracts, after selling off from 8.15 to 8.07, were holding around 8.13 at the end of the first half hour. The general list then showed net gains of 5 to 9 points.

The volume tapered off later in the morning, but the market held steady. December worked up to 8.17 and March to 8.34, and the general market at midday was quiet but fairly steady at net advances of about 8 to 12 points.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 9.—Cotton, 16,000, including 1,000 American; spot in better demand; prices 72 points lower. Quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 6.93; good middling, 6.68; strict middling, 6.48; middling, 6.38; strict low middling, 6.28; low middling, 6.18; strict good ordinary, 5.98; good ordinary, 5.68. Futures closed quiet; October, 6.07; December, 6.07; January, 6.07; March, 6.10; May, 6.14; July, 6.16.

BANK CREDIT EXPANSION LIKELY

By MERRYL S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—If improved sentiment is retained through the autumn, bank credit ought to begin to perform distinctly more efficiently.

Prior to the revival, bank credit had not only dangerously been contracting in physical volume, but what was equally restraining on business was the fact that the rate of turnover of bank deposits had fallen to a distinctly subnormal pace.

Mr. Rukeyser

Even without a physical expansion of bank credit, which, by the way, it is reasonable to anticipate, there could be substantial stimulus to business through an acceleration of the rate of bank deposits. A leading Wall street economist, in discussing this subject with me, said that the beneficial effects of credit expansion could be obtained without increasing debts in these two ways:

"(a) Part of the bank credit now frozen in the security markets could be thawed and employed in direct loans to commerce and industry.

"(b) As confidence returns the velocity of bank deposits can and will increase. At present the velocity of bank deposits is so low as to justify the term abnormal.

"The best technique for increasing credit rapidly is through member bank investment in United States securities."

When the banking statistics for recent weeks are compiled, they are likely to show the first net expansion in bank credit in a year.

The American lumber industry in the Northwest is handicapped by the premium of our dollar over the Canadian dollar. The differential also is a hardship for other industries in that section.

Referring to this situation, M. A. Arnold, president, First National Bank of Seattle, in a message to this column said:

"One of the greatest barriers to economic recovery of the lumber industry, the flour mills industry, as well as the great fisheries industry of the Northwest and Alaska, is the differential of 12 to 15 per cent in the exchange rate as compared with Canadian dollar, thereby giving to the Canadians an advantage over our industries to that extent."

MOTOR FUEL STOCKS UP

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Statistics presented to the American Petroleum Institute shows stocks of motor fuel are 7,000,000 barrels more than at this time last year and about 10,000,000 barrels in excess of what the institute's committee on economics estimated as proper on September 1. According to early estimates August demand for motor fuel was 19 per cent less than during the same month last year.

The tax imposed last June has shut out the importation of gasoline but on the other hand, exports have also declined heavily.

Wall Street Spectator

Stocks Well Supported In Face of Heavy Selling

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(INS.)—The good old strong arm was working overtime in the market yesterday.

Stocks were tossed out in bushels all day, yet the losses might have been much bigger in view of the enormous trading. Support was there all the time, and there were no signs of a wide-open break.

The reaction puts the market to another test, and today will tell whether the current pattern of the advance will be continued or whether stocks will have to go lower before getting another foothold.

The market in the last couple of days has been showing a decided tendency to go in for violent swings. This is causing considerable lightening up on bulges.

Wall street continues its self-appointed task of putting Cal Coolidge to work. This time the story is that he's to be the nation's rail czar.

At least it was the rumor going the rounds to account for the running up in the rails around noon. But it was hardly necessary. With loadings of Atchison, Rock Island, Central and Pennsylvania up decidedly for the week, Saturday's report should again make pleasant reading.

Reading's loadings also indicated that coal would contribute liberally, and it would not surprise if the total showed an increase of at least 20,000 cars.

Dividend Notices

FIDELITY TRUST COMPANY, Pittsburgh, Pa.

DIVIDEND—The board of directors of this company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 per share, payable September 30, 1932, at stockholders of record at the close of business September 20, 1932.

EUGENE MURRAY, Treasurer.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Overcoming reactionary tendencies which marked the early trading, the curb market today resumed its advance in a selective way on a moderate volume of dealings.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list, 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

VALENTINE

Captivating Story of a Shy Girl Rushed Into Love

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Val Sees Her Mother After Many Years and Is Disappointed

CHAPTER XVII

Val had a letter from her mother. The first in so many years.

She fingered the envelope greedily, put the letter back in her purse, brought it out, read it over and over.

Julia Macfarlane watched, her square, plain face drawn, her skin tight over the temples, hurt because it took Val so long to tell her about it, and when she did, she told it so guardedly:

"Aunt Julia, it's from Millie. She's in Santa Barbara. She says that she's been traveling all around, and that she's had several theater engagements—I never knew that. She's been quite busy. But now she's living there in Santa Barbara, and she says there's quite a large house and she hasn't been awfully well, so she'd like me to come for the summer. And she says you told her I was thinking of getting married, and she wants to talk all that over with me. But she'd like Joe—I know she would."

"Yes, probably."

"Aunt Julia! The way you say that! You know you like him yourself. But then, you always were a man hater!"

"It isn't that. I was just thinking how your mother always wanted you to save your complexion so you could marry a French count. Remember, Val?"

Val remembered. Laughed a little. French count! As if any French count could compare with Joe!

PREPARES FOR TRIP

Two days after Millie's letter, a draft came. Val was to get her ticket, buy a few necessary things, come at once.

Julia Macfarlane watched and waited, said nothing. She saw how even the letters from Millie were pushed aside for the ones from Joe. Going to see Millie wasn't anything compared to going to Minnesota later to marry Joe.

Val didn't even want to buy many things for her trip, and she just took a short leave of absence from her work—"Because I'll want to work for a little while after I get back, and I want everything new for my trousseau. I'm going to need so many things when I get married. I want my things to be just the loveliest in the world—I mean, considering their simplicity."

Aunt Julia did most of the packing. Bought her one of those new suitcase trunks, promised to take good care of the four colored sheets, the brass dishpan and the begonias.

Maybe she had done wrong. Maybe Millie wouldn't be able to dissuade Val, and she'd just be losing her that much earlier. Maybe Millie would put wrong ideas into her head . . . But no, that wasn't fair to Val. You couldn't do that to a girl as sound and fine as she . . . thanks to her good bringing up.

BECOMES IMPATIENT

Four of the girls from the office and Aunt Julia went to the station to see Val off for Santa Barbara. It was her first real trip on a train, and at the last moment she was ablaze with excitement. She had two boxes of candy, and a corsage of baby roses, and two magazines.

She would have liked to go on the night train. It would have been much more exciting to sleep on the train. But Aunt Julia insisted on the day train, and the observation platform almost made up for the sleeper. She sat out there for hours, glorying in the speed, and the ever-changing view. Toward evening she grew tired, and impatient for the trip to be over.

Long before it was time to pull into Santa Barbara, Val went into the dressing room to prepare for getting off. She did so want to look nice for Millie. She just must be looking her very best, so that Millie wouldn't be disappointed. But suppose Millie didn't know her . . . suppose she didn't know Millie?

She was nervous and trembling when the train stopped. There were so many people, the train was so long. The porter picked up her bags, walked along by the tracks. She followed, feeling self-conscious, awkward . . . scanning every face, looking for a tall, lovely Millie . . . or was she wrong? Would Millie be middle-aged?

TALLER THAN MOTHER

"Val! Darling! I'd have known you in Egypt! You haven't changed—not a bit, since you were eight!"

"And you haven't changed! Oh, Millie! Millie — I'm so glad—"

They both cried, clung to each other.

"And this is Vincent . . . Vincent, my little Valentine . . . both V's—I call Vincent Vee sometimes . . . Oh, Val, darling, I'm so glad you're here. You'll like Vincent. Vincent, you've got to love my Valentine, but of course you will!"

But it wasn't Jim. Millie called him Vincent, and this man was different . . . older, heavier . . .

Her heart sank. She shook his hand, murmured something about being glad to see him . . . Who was he? Why hadn't Millie told her? Oh, why did Millie have to bring him, their very first meeting?

Still with her arm about her, Millie piloted Val through the station, past the people to a big, long car. Val noticed, with surprise, that she didn't have to look up to Millie, that Millie had to look up to her! She was taller than her mother . . . And she had thought of Millie, as being so tall.

The man, Vincent, followed just behind them, directing the porter. He smiled jovially, said pleasant things to Val. He climbed into the driver's seat. Val and her mother sat behind.

Millie chattered. Val answered, laughed, talked. Afterwards she couldn't remember a thing that was said.

VAL IS DISAPPOINTED

Millie pointed out the sights.

"And to think you've never been here? One of the garden spots of the world, really. Never been anywhere except Mt. Hermon, and the Russian River, and Santa Cruz! Poor Julia. Just the places she would take you for a vacation. Vincent, do you hear? Val has never been anywhere, but Mt. Hermon and the Russian River, and Santa Cruz for her vacations! Really! And here I've been all over the world. It's a shame. My own baby. Never mind, we'll make it up. Vincent, we'll make it up, won't we?"

"We'll show you the world, Valentine!"

We . . . Then they . . . Millie and Vincent, were going to be married? Val swallowed a rising lump in her throat. It was all right, of course. Millie certainly had the right to marry if she wanted to, only, of course, when you've come to tell your mother all about YOUR marriage it's a little disappointing to find it isn't going to be the only one.

Val studied Vincent's back. Sometimes she could see a little of the side of his face. He had a nice voice. He seemed to be an awfully nice person . . . but he wasn't Jim.

In the fleeting light of the car Millie was as lovely as ever, but fuller faced.

But in the bright light of the hall of the large house they entered, she seemed suddenly . . . not fat . . . you couldn't call Millie fat . . . but . . . well, Millie was older, of course. Naturally she would have a double chin, and a rounder face, and . . . yes, a matronly figure. . . . Her dress was a little bit tight. . . . With a looser dress she would seem slimmer, and she shouldn't wear sleeveless dresses, her upper arms were just a bit too large . . . oh, wasn't it horrid to think these things? About your own mother! But Millie . . . she'd dreamed so long of Millie . . . so, of course . . . naturally, she'd be just a LITTLE disappointed.

Millie was dragging her into the light, looking lovingly into her face:

"Darling, you are just as I'd hoped you looked. Just exactly. Vincent, you might mix us a little drink, just to celebrate. Aunt Julia wouldn't like it, but we'll never tell her, will we, dear? Come, there are sandwiches in the dining room. Just drop your coat there in the hall, and I'll take you upstairs later."

They went into the dining room . . . very Spanish, very bare it seemed to Val, with no pictures, and only a dull, wall hanging . . . not like the rooms Millie had had . . . always so bright and cheerful.

But the long, carved table was beautiful, heaped with fruit and sandwiches. Val even drank a cocktail that Vincent made in the big, silver cocktail shaker.

They were happy, all talking at once, but it seemed just marking time to Val. She wanted to be alone with Millie. She waited for Vincent to go, and leave them alone.

"I AM tired!" she said finally.

Millie rose, all contrition. "Darling, I am SO sorry. I've been so glad to have you, I forgot. Come, I'll take you upstairs. Let's all go. I'm tired, too. Aren't you, Vincent? He's been flying around all day, too. Turn out the lights, dear. I'll go ahead, with Val.

The man, Vincent, was turning off the lights.

Synopsis

Valentine Macfarlane's early childhood is steeped in romance. Her gay, widowed mother, Millie, is her ideal. When Val is 8, her mother goes to the orient and leaves her in Oakland with a man-hating maiden aunt, Julia Macfarlane. Aunt Julia clings to the girl, declaring Millie is not a fit guardian. Val has trouble in finding a "boy friend." She likes Joe Carey, a neighbor boy, but Joe's mother opposes her. Val takes a position as stenographer. At a dance, she meets the dashing, wealthy Lester Sherwood and becomes infatuated with him. Lester insists on "petting." When she rebels he quits her in anger. Joe Carey, out of town for three years, returns. He and Val become engaged. Aunt Julia opposes the match and decides to get Millie's aid.

Now Go On

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Lillian Takes All the Young People Away

Lillian indeed had made a success of the endeavor which she calls "preening the Dicky-bird's feather," I told myself as my glance at Dicky showed nothing in his eyes or facial expression except courteous concern for Lee Chow.

The fact that the continued illness of our high-born Chinese guest would mean also having Hugh Grantland as our guest at the farmhouse either had not occurred to him or, if it was causing him any annoyance, he was heroically and artistically camouflaging his emotions.

For Lee Chow, who had put upon his heart and nerves an almost superhuman strain following his terrible experience, had slumped into unconsciousness immediately after we had gone out of the room, and there had been no question of taking him to a hospital.

Hugh, better versed in Oriental poisons than most physicians, said with decision that moving him more than a few feet was out of the question. Rest and perfect quiet were imperative if he was to have a chance to recover from the effects of the subtle poison that had been spread upon the tiny dart.

I have had occasion to admire the efficiency of the Underwoods before, but never more so than in this sudden emergency, doubly difficult of handling to us because the house was so full of guests. Within 12 hours Harry and Lillian had taken at reasonable rental a vacant furnished cottage near the shore, and had moved into it, taking with them every soul at the farmhouse below adult age.

YOUNGSTERS TAKEN AWAY

Mary, Marion, their three guests — Carolyn and Ronald Brixton and Bob Trevellan — Mary's young brothers, Hank and Bill, and even our small boys, Junior and Roderick, all were packed into the big Underwood car and the machines which Ronald and Bob had brought from camp, and were whisked away before I had time to realize what Lillian was planning.

"We're going back to Nature," she gibed as she stood on the steps, listening to some last frantic instructions of mine concerning the diet of Junior and Roderick. "Now you just run back to your nest, little brown hen, and stop clucking. I took care of Junior and Roderick this Summer without even a broken toe to my discredit."

"I know it," I said remorsefully. "I have no warrant at all for being fussy, but I just can't help it."

"Don't try," she advised with a little laugh. "With what you've had on hand, and what appears to be in store for you, you're certainly entitled to throw any sort of temperamental tantrum you choose."

"I'll try to spare you that," I told her, smiling, "but I'm afraid all this is going to be too much for you. There is a lot of work at a seaside cottage, with eleven people to eat meals and stir up dust."

EVERYBODY MUST WORK

"And there are eleven people to do the work," she said, with a decided little click of her teeth as the period of her sentence. "These drifters are going to have an entirely new experience in their young lives. They're going to have to work for their eats and flops, and I don't mean maybe."

Her apparent ferocity was so incongruous with what I knew of her invariable indulgence of our young people that I forgot my worries in laughing at her.

"I can't imagine you as a Simon Legree flourishing his lash over shrinking backs," I said.

"Can't you?" she retorted. "You little know your Lillian. If a knock comes at the back door some night, and a tottering, emaciated creature begs you for sanctuary, you will know that my slave camp is in successful operation."

She flicked me lightly on the cheek and, turning, ran down the path as lightly as her daughter could have done. As I stood gazing after her Katherine, hurrying through the hall, paused beside me.

"Have you anything on your mind for the next hour?" she queried.

"Not a thing," I returned promptly, reluctantly bringing my eyes back from the road down which the cars were speeding. "I am at your service."

"Then I wish you'd do sentry-go in the sick-room for a half hour or so. I have at least a million things to do, and Hugh's alone there with the two sick men."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Arrangements have been completed to handle the largest crowd of youngsters in the history of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club tomorrow at the regular meetings to be held in the 16 Warner Theaters listed below.

The reason for the expected large attendance is that every youngster who is a member of the club has promised that he or she will bring along one other boy or girl tomorrow who is not a member for enrollment in the club.

Many of the theaters starting tomorrow will inaugurate there new policy of entertainment for the youngsters, bringing to the stage many acts for youthful entertainment. Most of the children taking part in the entertainment will be from among the club members.

CONTEST TO START

Various kinds of games will be played by the members who attend the meeting at the Enright tomorrow. And among other stunts arranged for the members by Manager Bill Zeller is the start of a marble shooting contest which is open to both boys and girls.

At the Plaza the members are to be entertained by the "Texas Rangers," a group of youngsters who play and sing the old-time Western cowboy songs.

Remember, every member who attends the meetings tomorrow is urged to bring along one boy or girl who is not a member.

Or if you are unable to attend the meetings send your name and address, name of your parents, date and year of your birth, school you attend, to the secretary, Junior Komic Club, Pitsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., and a membership card and button will be mailed to you.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS

Congratulations to the following boys and girls, all members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Komic Club, who are celebrating their birthdays today:

Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde

Bus Service at Five Cents Is Offered in Beaver Valley By the 25-Cent Pittsburgh Monopoly.

The Philadelphia Company may be likened, so far as its bus operations are concerned, to Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

It appears in the role of Dr. Jekyll, the benevolent and upright physician, in its subsidiary, the Beaver Valley Motor Coach Company, which offered in a hearing before the Public Service Commission yesterday to cure the transportation ills of the valley by furnishing bus service at from 5 to 7½ cents a ride, according to the distance traveled.

Beaver and Vanport objected to the proposal because, among other reasons, they fear that if Dr. Jekyll gets established in their midst he may turn into that brutal character Mr. Hyde, who, under the name of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, also owned by the Philadelphia Company, has the people of this city by the throat, charging them 25 cents for a bus ride, even though the rider go no more than a block.

The offer made to the Beaver Valley people is merely additional proof that the 25-cent fare exacted in Pittsburgh is outrageous.

If the company did not have a monopoly of the bus business in Pittsburgh we would be paying a dime for the service that now costs a quarter.

The Vote Machine Quiz

It Was Handicapped from the Start with Senator Armstrong on the Committee.

The Senate investigation of Allegheny County's voting machine muddle has come to an ignominious end, with many of the questions that the taxpayers have been asking still unanswered.

Zealous himself to solve the mystery and serve the public, Senator Frank J. Harris, chairman of the investigating committee, was blocked at every turn by Senators Joseph G. Armstrong and Chauncey W. Parkinson.

The investigation was handicapped from the outset by the fact that Senator Armstrong was one of the investigators.

He is a son of the late County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, who was boss of Allegheny County when the contract for the voting machines was awarded. An investigation of the transaction involved, accordingly, an inquiry into the actions of the Board of County Commissioners headed by his father.

Under the circumstances the propriety of Armstrong's serving as a member of the committee was open to question. But he either did not perceive this, or did not care, or was all the more eager, because of his father's connection with the voting machine deal, to take an active part in the inquiry.

And so the muddle remains a muddle.

Build the Town Hall

The City Needs It, the People Have Demanded It, and The Courts Have Ordered It.

A former county commander of the American Legion is quoted to the effect that an effort will be made to bring the national convention of the Legion to Pittsburgh in 1935.

How in the world can Pittsburgh entertain a convention of that size when the largest auditorium in the city, Syria Mosque, seats only 3,850?

The plan to bring the Legion national convention here accentuates the need for a Town Hall seating at least 15,000.

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has upheld the contract entered into by the County Commissioners under the Armstrong regime for the purchase of the Schenley Farms site for a Town Hall.

The present County Commissioners should comply with the court's order, pay for the property and build the hall.

To try to wriggle out of the contract is unsportsmanlike, and the Commissioners are setting a bad example in seeking, through questionable methods, to evade compliance with a decree of our highest tribunal.

Besides, the delay is costing the taxpayers a pretty penny in the 6 per cent interest that is piling up on the purchase price while it remains unpaid.

The city needs the Town Hall, the citizens have demanded it in an election, and authorized a bond issue to pay for it. Its construction would help to relieve unemployment and put money into circulation.

Why delay?

Danger in Old Houses

Pittsburgh Has Many Dilapidated Structures Which Should Be Torn Down.

A ramshackle vacant house in Chicago collapsed the other day while people were salvaging kindling wood from the structure, and one person was killed and 20 injured.

The Pittsburgh Housing Association, commenting on the matter, remarks that there are standing today in Pittsburgh many vacant dilapidated buildings like the one that collapsed in Chicago and it is difficult to keep poor people in the neighborhood, in need of fire wood, from dismantling them.

To meet the situation, such buildings should either be demolished or repaired and made safe. There is a law requiring such action, and the Bureau of Building Inspection has not permitted it to become a dead letter. One hundred and forty-two ramshackle vacant houses were demolished last year, and 80 so far this year.

It is to be hoped the Chicago tragedy will increase the bureau's vigilance in enforcing the law, and bring increased co-operation from the owners of wrecks which constitute a public menace.

Dairying Now First

Some interesting changes in the character of Pennsylvania farming are shown in a federal census report issued yesterday.

Pennsylvania once led all the states in the production of grain. Now cash grain is the principal source of income on only 3,057 of our 172,046 farms.

At that it probably will be surprising to many persons that so many Pennsylvania farmers still get their living by selling grain.

Dairying has superseded the raising of grain as the chief agricultural pursuit. We have 45,380 dairy farms.

There seems to be room for expansion of the dairy business in Pennsylvania; but there will have to be some change in the methods of distribution and marketing, for dairy farmers in the Pittsburgh district receive as little as eight cents a gallon for milk for which the ultimate consumer pays from eight to 15 cents a quart.

That Boat Is Overmanned!

By Nelson Harding

The poor man seated in the stern
Of that boat wishes to return
As fast as possible to land,
But sees his craft is out of hand.

There are too many in the crew,
He would get farther with a few.
So many oars are clashing there
That he's not getting anywhere.

Marry-Go-Round

Man's Stage Fright

Modern men are suffering from stage-fright, according to an interesting letter from Corinne G—.

* * *

"No matter how poor, how plain, how old, how adolescent or even how much married he is, every man seems to suspect every woman of having deep, dark romantic or matrimonial designs on him. Every man thinks he is the answer to a maiden's prayer! How do they get that way?"

Alas, Miss G——, next to an inner-coil mattress, the EASIEST thing on earth is to convince a man that he is a riot with the women—and that every woman is after him. And we can't deny that lots of "progressive" girls have done their best, these last few years, to bolster up this masculine illusion.

Men always did suffer from stage-fright, in matters of love. A man always did get panic-stricken when he found himself falling in love.

But now, he doesn't even wait for that. He doesn't even wait for the girl to show an interest in him. Or to make a pass at him. Modern modes and methods have so intensified his stage-fright that it has become an acute complex. He shies, flutters and dodges before the girl has noticed that he's there.

* * *

You can't pat a man's coat-sleeve in a comradely way, but he thinks that you are trying to get a clutch on him. And as for hanging onto his coat-lapel or weeping on his shoulder—as grandmother did so effectively—just TRY it!

Some of this stage-fright may be justified, but most of it is absolutely baseless, and sheer—er—megalomania. (Look that up.)

* * *

Not every man is a "temptation!" Not every girl who enjoys going out to dinner with a man would want to sit opposite him at breakfast every morning. Not every girl who cheerfully takes a man as a dance partner would care to take him as a life-partner. But how are you going to make a spoiled modern man BELIEVE it?

* * *

Alas, it will take years to cure the man of today of his stage-fright at the thought of being loved against his will.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Thoughts while strolling: The avenue traffic fairly twinkles in discipline. Bernard Baruch and Harold Bell Wright bear a resemblance. So do Ed Sullivan and Joe Williams, the sport writers.

Never saw a Boston that didn't lean to one side and tug on a leash. Nothing so fascinating, to me, as the cheese counter at Charles'. And right this moment, could I go for fresh ginger snaps, a cool glass of milk and a slice of rat trap cheese—you know, golden yellow.

How many used to go to the bakery for a penny's worth of broken cakes? Frank Mason, a Columbus, O., boy, who made good in the city. The modernistic astrological parlor with the silvered portals. What became of Frederick Lonsdale? The Chinese cafes have had their day, it seems.

Paul Whiteman, still riding the top wave. Flaming red motor "pony expresses," from coast to coast. The voices of Al Smith and Floyd Gibbons are much alike over the radio. Still talk that Smith is to be the next mayor. Fred Astaire's dove-colored cloth uppers. Art Kudner, the flying ad man.

Movie scenes on trains grip me. Those cocky dabs of hats perched on ears of flappers. And they laughed when I said crooning was on its way out. If I had a valet, I'd call him Geddings. One word description of Roger Wolfe Kahn—chirpy. The expert on Harlemania, Lee Posner.

Overheard: "I can't even give you love, baby!" One of my favorite people—Jean Dalrymple. Those Dioscuri of theatrical culture, George White and Earl Carroll. And they are actually chaffing good humoredly. One of them will be Ziegfeld's successor. What became of the gigolo?

An outstanding success of the world upheaval is Katherine Brush's self-effacing young husband—H. C. Wynans. He had won a high place in the business world when the globe suddenly halted. Not only did he lose all, but two weeks before the smash up had signed on the dotted line for a $100,000 apartment for which he had made no payment down. A high salaried fellow, he found only small jobs available. He accepted none, but in the emergency, did what John McGraw used to call "using the old bean." He rushed into Miss Brush's bedroom at 3 a. m. one morning, hair tousled, a bit wild-eyed, and in an excess of enthusiasm, exclaimed: "I have it—American wheat for Brazilian coffee!" Coming up so suddenly out of a deep well of sleep, Miss Brush thought of only one thing—a psychiatrist. But dozing off she murmured an incoherent enthusiasm. That idea born of a sleepless night made Mr. Wynans a millionaire again—one of the slim handful spawned since the cataclysm.

I recently called on the wife of a popular author of five years ago—an author who passed on at the pinnacle of his career. The thoughtfulness of his reading public in remembering her has been touching. Thousands have written from all corners of the globe, and, even at this remote day, there trickles in spontaneous and warming little outbursts. Such appreciation has buoyed her tremendously during her loneliness. The public that reads is like that—swell.

* * *

Maxine Elliott is contemplating a visit to America this fall—the first in years. For more than 15 years, she has been in semi-seclusion in a mellow old house near Regents Park in London. Back in the days when vests were vests and not pen wipers, she was a reigning toast. A theater bore her name, erected by an admiring Midas of Wall street. Nat Goodwin, whose wife she once was, purred about her beauty until the last. She was the daughter of a sea captain, a flash of stately beauty as towering as the rock-ribbed coast of her native Rockland, Maine. Now a graying grand dame, vestiges of her singular beauty remain.

Tod Sloan was an energizing figure in the heydey of magnificent Maxine—a dapper jockey, who came back from England one time sporting a monocle and a pigeon-toned derby. Today he's commuting between Tia Juana and Hollywood, and spends spare time perusing the classics. Glibly he can discuss Santayana, Thoreau and the moderns from Masefield to Marquis. Indeed, he is, perhaps, the most bookish figure in all Hollywood.

I adore the rubber mat on the stoop of the Sutton Place penthouse of a bored young bachelor. It reads: "Fairly Welcome!"

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Don't hoard grudges.

Work off your differences as you go along.

There's nothing dangerous about human differences if you'll take care of them in time—

You don't get along with someone in your home? Or in your office? Your opinions don't agree? Your tastes and habits aren't the same?

Well, that's natural. No reason on earth why you should agree on everything.

No reason, either, why your way should be the only correct way—

The other fellow has as good a right to his opinion and his way of doing things as you have to yours—

AND YOU WON'T HAVE MUCH TROUBLE IN DEALING WITH ANY HUMAN IF YOU'LL RESPECT THAT RIGHT!

You needn't think as he does. Nor act as he does. If you'll just admit that he has a right to pick his own thoughts and determine his own actions, you can be friendly, whatever the emergency.

But you must come to an open and honest understanding right at the scratch.

Face your differences and come to an understanding about them the moment they arise. Don't have a scene. Don't nag. Don't act abused. You wouldn't have a scene or act abused if the machine on which you were working needed adjustment. Then why feel insulted because the temperament with which you're working needs adjustment.

Keep cool. Grant the other fellow's right to be what he is and then see how HIS rights and YOUR rights can be made to harmonize.

Don't start little, sly maneuvers to make him think your way—

Don't kid yourself into thinking he'll change—and then get sore because he doesn't—

Don't nurse a secret grudge, thinking how unhappy you are—

Yes, I know there's a certain satisfaction in being a martyr. I've tried it myself, many a time. And it's a lot easier to BE SORRY FOR YOURSELF than it is to LOOK OUT FOR YOURSELF. But martyrdom, in the long run, buys you nothing.

So if you must live or work with someone who isn't entirely congenial don't build up a Secret Sorrow that will gradually poison all your days. Go at it cool. And go at it clean. And fix things up.

If you'll use your head—and sufficient tolerance, tact, humor and good fellowship—you can always make some sort of a plan that will allow both of you to express yourselves in your own way. It won't be a perfect plan. It won't quite suit you—nor quite suit the other fellow. But it will be a fair, working compromise—and that is all anyone has a right to expect in this chancey world.

Frankness — tolerance — common sense — friendliness — these will help you get along with the most ornery human. Then one thing more—

Get yourself a safety valve. Find some amusement, some exercise or interest that will use up your excess steam ... that will make you forget, temporarily, the problem of that other individuality.

Chances are, that other human being isn't half as great a problem as you've imagined. If you didn't see him, for six months ... or if death suddenly made peace between you, you'd wonder why you worried so. And you'd see him as he was—a small, harmless, bewildered human being, not a looming menace.

You can get that same perspective now, if you'll find a safety valve for the fret that's in you.

And if you won't—

Why then, the differences that might have been wiped up each day, will accumulate like dynamite and wreck the works. And, when it's too late, you'll wonder what hit you.

What Labor Knows: Butler's Indictment

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The Hoover High Command, running true to the form of 1928, is basing its hope on the cynical philosophy of a cheap politician who said that the way to win is to "lie and stick to the lie and reiterate it time and again and the fool public will believe it." Never at this stage of a campaign have so many deliberate falsehoods been set afloat, and uttered by men holding high and responsible positions in the government.

We sometimes hear that a campaign in England is pleasantly free from slashing attacks on political opponents. This is not true. The Lloyd Georges, Winston Churchills, Stanley Baldwins and Ramsay MacDonalds attack one another on the hustings with a ferocity that American politicians in their positions seldom do.

But these attacks are never deliberate falsehoods; for the English spirit of decency and fair play would react against the slanderers; and public opinion would conclude that men so utterly irresponsible and reckless with the truth would be unfit for office.

It remains to be seen whether the American people will be as complacent with the Hoover High Command's methods as they were four years ago, when it followed the lowest and the meanest methods ever adopted in the history of American politics.

But these reckless demagogues of the Hoover High Command unquestionably have "guts"—if no sense of shame and no capacity to blush. Four years ago, a low undercover campaign was waged against Al Smith by these people along lines too mean to mention. Senator Moses played his part. The public still remembers a certain historic letter of the Senator's, proving how deeply he was involved in those disgraceful transactions based on bigotry and hate. And now this same Moses has the effrontery to say that Al Smith, the victim of Hoover strategy of that sort, is going to help vindicate the very men, including Moses, who maligned and defamed him.

That, we say, is "guts."

Coolie Labor Impressed by Hoover

And now the committee of the Hoover High Command, unable to answer Garner's masterful letter of acceptance, is busy disseminating the most flagrant falsehoods about him. The latest is that he is a foe of labor.

Four years ago, Mr. Hoover boasted at Newark that he had employed 100,000 men and never had a strike. That sounds impressive—until we inquire into the character of the labor he employed.

It was coolie labor in China.

It was worse than coolie labor in Burma.

And these men, veritable slaves, were so pleased with Mr. Hoover's attitude toward them they did not strike! Imagine!

Mr. Hoover's attitude toward labor during the many years of his expatriation goes far to explain his attitude toward the unemployed today, and explains the use of bayonets and tanks in driving from the nation's capital the jobless bonus veterans, and the burning of their shacks.

The American Federation of Labor knows this to be true.

Mr. Hoover's consistent attitude for three years has been one of cold and callous indifference to the misery of the jobless. He has opposed every plan that would put them to work on public construction with federal money. He killed proposed compromises in plans to give them jobs—until he had whittled one down to the last possible reduction. He was opposed even to that, but he signed the bill.

And it begins to appear that he signed it with his tongue in his cheek. Not a wheel has been turned. Many weeks have gone and nothing has been done. And now Ogden Mills, that famous friend of the toiler, announces lightly that about the first of October he will know whether he will release the money. The money for the great corporations and banks was found and released in the twinkling of an eye. But it is a matter for interminable deliberation when hungry men, denied their inalienable right to work are involved.

And the American Federation of Labor knows that.

Butler Arraigns Hoover Policies

Nicholas Murray Butler, in his annual address at Southampton, has drawn an indictment of the outstanding policies of the Hoover administration. He was speaking as a patriotic American of keen intelligence, and not as a politician. And he denounces the tariff policy of Mr. Hoover, which has sacrificed a lucrative foreign trade, and is directly responsible for the unemployment of about 25 per cent of the jobless. It is not a "protective," but a prohibitive tariff that we have had forced upon us by the lash of Grundy and the subserviency of Hoover. And Dr. Butler says:

"The fact that at the present time there are some 10,000,000 Americans without work illustrates pretty clearly the measure of success which this system has attained in establishing and maintaining an American standard of living."

And the American Federation of Labor knows that.

Maligned Smith; Now Seeks Favors

And, unintentionally perhaps, but no less clearly, Dr. Butler indicts the Hoover Administration when he says:

"It has already been necessary to change in large measure the original attitude of our people toward the natural resources of the Nation."

Mr. Hoover has not found it necessary—read his record on power.

And Butler continues:

"The public forests, the public lands, the resources of water supply and of power can no longer be left to private exploitation at the urge of the profit-seeking motive for the simple reason that to do so would put a group of fortunate individuals in control of some of the necessities of the people's life."

An that is the reason that Wall street is for Mr. Hoover, despite its open jeering at his incapacity for leadership a few months ago.

There are places in the Butler speech that seem like an echo of the Roosevelt speech at Columbus.

Mr. Roosevelt's attitude on present day problems and needs is that of intelligent progressive thinkers in all parties! Mr. Hoover's is that of the age of unrestrained human greed of the few, which has all but wrecked our civilization. Intelligent men, who had overlooked him in the hysteria of artificial and momentary prosperity, are now keenly cognizant of "the forgotten man." He is our greatest problem now. But it is not an unsolvable problem. When government takes him within the scope of its thinking there will be no "forgotten man." That is what Roosevelt proposes, and Hoover opposes. Pat Hurley, the crooner of the administration, smugly says the "forgotten man" must "shift for himself." But he cannot "shift for himself" when all the machinery is set against him. All he asks is that privilege be ended, and that the instrumentalities of government be taken out of the hands of the powerful who do not shift for themselves, and that all men equally shift for themselves—not just the masses.

"The forgotten man" sums up the campaign meaning. Gov. Wilbur Cross, an intellectual and no demagogue, reminded us the other day that the phrase was not coined by Roosevelt. It was used years ago by Dr. Summer, the great economist, who was not a politician or a demagogue. He was not coining a phrase, he was stating a fact. And the forgotten man knows that, too.

Isn't It So?

Prefer old heads and young hands.

The curses of some men are the blessings of Heaven.

Show not the bottom of either your purse or your mind.
